

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

BOOK TRADE JOURNAL

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

PUBLICATION OFFICE, 59 DUANE STREET, NEW YORK.

VOL. LV., No. 1.

NEW YORK, January 7, 1899

WHOLE No. 1406

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

PUERTO RICO AND ITS RESOURCES.

A book for travellers, investors, and others, containing full accounts of natural features and resources, products, people, opportunities for business, etc. By FREDERICK A. OBER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees," "Cruasoe's Island," etc. With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The aim has been to produce a work that will answer all questions likely to arise in connection with the acquisition and occupation of this new tropical possession of ours. The book is not a sketch for the casual visitor, or impressions of a traveller in search of the picturesque, but it is a comprehensive, informing, and interesting account of the people, land, and products, with the full explanations of the actual conditions and opportunities which are needed by visitors and intending investors.

CANNON AND CAMERA.

Sea and Land Battles of the Spanish-American War in Cuba, Camp Life and Return of the Soldiers. Described and illustrated by J. C. HEMMENT, War Artist at the Front. With over 100 full-page pictures taken by the author, and an index. Large 12mo, cloth, $2.00. "It is a history of the war that will become more valuable as time passes, for it is, in its pictures, an unimpeachable record of events."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD.

From the Earliest Historical Time to the Year 1808. By EDGAR SANDERSON, M.A., sometime Scholar of Clare College, Cambridge, author of "A History of the British Empire," "The British Empire in the Nineteenth Century," "Outlines of the World's History," etc. Uniform with "Natural History," "Astronomy," and "The Historical Reference Book." Small 8vo, half leather, $2.00.

PLAYTIME AND SEEDTIME.

By FRANCIS W. PARKER and NELLIE L. HELM. Illustrated. Appletons' Home-Reading Books. 12mo, cloth, 32 cents, net.

This is the first volume of Uncle Robert's Geography, consisting of six books, graded for school use as well as for the home. Colonel Parker begins his lessons in geography and the phenomena of Nature by relating the experiences of a family of children upon a farm. He gives them free scope to extend their observations and investigations with the aid of their parents and "Uncle Robert," whose visit is described in the third book. Dr. Harris says: "If these books are read by the school children, they will suggest a great variety of ways in which real mental growth and increase of practical power may be obtained."

LATITUDE 19°.

A Romance of the West Indies in the Year of Our Lord 1820. Being a faithful account and true of the painful adventures of the Skipper, the Bo's'n, the Smith, the Mate, and Cynthia. By Mrs. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A volume of deep, undeniable charm. A unique book from a fresh, sure, vigorous pen."—Boston Journal.

DAVID HARUM.

A Story of American Life. By EDWARD NOYES WESTCOTT. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Mr. Westcott has created a new and interesting type. The character sketching and building, so far as David Harum is concerned, is well-nigh perfect. . . . The book is wonderfully bright, readable, and graphic."—New York Times.

A HERALD OF THE WEST.

An American Story of 1811-1815. By J. A. ALTSHELER, author of "A Soldier of Manhattan" and "The Sun of Saratoga." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A Herald of the West" is a romance of our history which has not been surpassed in dramatic force, vivid coloring, and historical interest."—San Francisco Chronicle.

LATEST ISSUES IN

Appletons' Town and Country Library.

Each, 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

No. 255. THE KEY OF THE HOLY HOUSE. A Romance of Old Antwerp. By ALBERT LEE.

This is a stirring romance of Holland's struggle for liberty against the Spaniards in the latter part of the sixteenth century, when Don Luis de Requesens succeeded the Duke of Alva as Viceroy of the Netherlands. The story pictures the terrors of the Inquisition and thrilling episodes of the gallant war for liberty waged by William, Prince of Orange, on the land, and the "Water Beggars" on the sea. The destruction of a Spanish fleet, after a fashion repeated at Manila, is among the dramatic chapters of this fascinating romance.

No. 254. BELINDA—and Some Others. By ETHEL MAUDE.

"The great charm of the book lies in the fact that most of the troubles and most of the joys shared by this family are common to us all, and yet they are told in so witty a way that the ordinary actions of life become subjects of real amusement. We wish there were more books of this sort."—London Literary World.

Two Valuable Booksellers' Aids.

IN PREPARATION.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain:

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890-95.

One volume, if ordered before date of publication, half leather, $3.00; in sheets, $2.50.

After publication the price will be raised to half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

One vol., cloth, $3.50.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce a new edition of Tolstoy's "What is Art?" which has been out of print for a few weeks.

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish on the 16th inst. a new story by John Strange Winter, entitled "Wedlock"; "Golden Age in Transylvania," by Maurus Jokai, a new volume in their Select Series; and "Vicomte de Puyjoli," by Jules Claretie. On February 1 they will publish "Brown, V. C.," by Mrs. Alexander.

BANGS & Co. announce that their "Remainder Sale" of books and stereotype plates for the trade, which they have held annually for the last five years, will be held on February 14, and continue until the consignments are disposed of. Invoices, with full descriptions for the printer, must reach the auctioneer by the 20th inst.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have arranged for the early publication of an important text-book by Charles G. Wheeler, entitled "Woodworking for Beginners." It is both for the industrial school and for home use, and tells how to construct tables, boxes, shelves, cases, sleds, and simple gymnastic apparatus. They have in preparation for their Heroes of the Nation series a volume on Bismarck, by James W. Headlam.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation "Ruskin's Letters to Rossetti and Others"; a new volume of poems by Paul Lawrence Dunbar; "Thou and the Other One," by Amelia E. Barr; "The Enchanted Stone," by Lewis Hind; "The Silver Cross," by S. R. Keightley; "The Song of the Rappahannock," by Ira S. Dodd; "Mari Slenka," by K. Walliszewski; and "Joubert's Thoughts," by Katherine Lyttelton. They will publish late in the year the sixth and final volume of Prof. James Schouler's "History of the United States."

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly a striking romance by Albert Lee, of Holland's struggle for liberty against the Spaniards in the latter part of the sixteenth century, entitled "The Key of the Holy House," with scene laid in old Antwerp; "General Sherman," by General M. F. Force, a new volume in the Great Commanders series; a revised edition of "The Scapegoat," by Hall Caine, which has been altered to correspond with the author's change of thought; and a Spanish version of A. R. Conkling's "City Government in the United States."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly Carl Schnabel's well-known "Text-Book of Metallurgy," translated by Prof. Henry Louis, of the Durham (England) College of Science; "The Principles of Agriculture," a text-book for schools and rural societies, by Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University; "The Foundations of Zoölogy," by Prof. W. Keith Brooks, of Johns Hopkins, a new volume in the Columbia University Biological Series; "Three Studies in Literature," by Prof. Lewis Edwards Gates, of Harvard University; "The Story of Old Fort Loudon," a narrative of the life of the pioneers of Tennessee and of their fortunes at the hands of the Cherokees in the uprising of 1760, by Charles Egbert Craddock, which forms a new volume in the series of Stories from American History; "My Lady and Allan Darke," a romance of Virginia, by Charles Donnel Gibson, a comparatively new name to readers of fiction; and "Ben Comee, a tale of Rogers' Rangers," a stirring tale for boys, of the wars waged against the French in Kentucky in 1758-1770, by M. J. Canavan.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE will give its monthly dinner at the French Restaurant, J. B. G., 111 W. 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 18th inst., at 6.30 sharp. The entertainment for the evening will be a "Story-teller's night," and prizes will be awarded to the three who, by a majority vote, may be said to have told the best story, serious or humorous—but not too archaic. The story-telling contest will be open to all, and members are requested to come prepared to take part. It is not necessary that the story be original. Those who wish to attend must notify J. N. Wing, of Charles Scribner's Sons, not later than the 16th inst. Extra tickets may be had for sixty cents. The annual meeting of the League will take place on March 3, and the annual banquet has been set down for March 15.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin, of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, & tr., n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Elementary studies in botany, intended as a handbook for both students and teachers. Bibliography (1 p.).

Bennett, C: Edwin. Critique of some recent subjunctive theories. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 76 p. 8°, (Cornell studies in classical philology, no. 9.) bds., net, 50 c. [96]

Bible. New Testament. The four gospels: a new translation; from the Greek text direct; with reference to the Vulgate and the ancient Syriac version, by Rev. Francis Aloysius Spencer; preface by James, Cardinal Gibbons. N. Y., W: H. Young & Co., 1898. c. 10+280 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [97]

In preparing this version of the Gospels it has been the translator's aim throughout to make use of idiomatic English as far as the character of the New Testament and the style of the original text permit. He has endeavored to represent our Lord and the Apostles, as speaking not in an antique style, but in the language they would speak if they lived among us now. Contains a harmony of the three synoptic Gospels, with marginal notes and references.

Blakey, Rob. Angling: or, how to angle and where to go. New ed. rev.; with notes and memoir by "Red Spinner." (W: Senoir); il. by Avery Lewis. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, Ltd., 1899. 285 p. 12°, cl., $1.50. [98]

Boardman, G: Dana, D.D. The kingdom (Basileia): an exegetical study. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 8+348 p. O. cl., $2. [99]

A study of the phrase "the kingdom of God," which appears so often in the New Testament. The aim of the author is to rescue this formula from radical misconceptions, to define its nature, to state its laws, to describe its methods, to unfold its symbols, to set forth its issue.

Breul, K: The teaching of modern foreign languages in secondary schools. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 6+86 p. 12°, cl., net, price changed to 60 c. [100] to the study of the holy scripture; the principles, methods, history, and results of its several departments and of the whole. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 23+688 p. O. cl., net, $8. [101]

Briggs, C: A: D.D. General introduction

This work takes the place of the author's "Biblical study," first published in 1888, which has gone through many editions. It is here revised, enlarged to double its former size, and entirely reset, so that it is essentially a new book. It covers the whole ground of biblical study, gives a history of every department, with ample illustrations from the New Testament as well as from the Old, and states the results thus far attained, the present problems, and the aims for the future.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle almanac, 1899: a book of information, general of the world, and special of New York City and Long Island. Brooklyn-N. Y. City Daily Eagle, Eagle Building, [1899.] c. 600 p. O. (Eagle lib., v. 14, no. 1.) pap., 25 c. [102]

Francis Brooks was born in Memphis, Tennessee, on March 7, 1867. His brief life came to an end in 1898. His poems are imbued with a mournful quality and show the influence of Walt Whitman, whom he greatly admired.

Brorup, R. P. Modesty, courtship and woman's right. Chic., International Book Co., [1899.] c. 2+175-208+27 p. D. pap., 15 c. [104]

The two chapters of this pamphlet are taken from "Christianity and our times." The author is opposed to woman suffrage and sounds warning notes against unrestricted amusements and liberty in young girls.

Browning, Rob. Paracelsus; ed. by G. Lowes Dickinson. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. por. 16°, (Temple classics.) cl., 50 c.; limp leath., 75 c. [105]

Buckley, Ja. Monroe. Extemporaneous oratory for professional and amateur speakers. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1899.] c. 98. 7+480 p. D. cl., $1.50. [106]

Defines extemporaneous speaking from a personal standpoint, and suggests and compares methods of oratory. The pervading idea, according to the author's exordium, is that every man must be his own final authority. The suggestions contained therefore may be modified to meet the requirements of the individual. Some of the subjects dealt with are words and their proper use, thought preparation, ideas, anecdote, similes, and illustrations, reminiscences, the voice, pronunciation, gesture, debate, etc. Index.

with chronological index and appendices. Bost., Lamson, Wolfe & Co., 1898. c. 20 + 431 p. por. il. maps, O. cl., $2.50. [109]

A detailed account of Washington's campaigns and an estimate of his qualities as a soldier and commander. Together with the account of Washington's military career is included a brief synopsis of the careers of his generals. Many valuable maps, a glossary of military terms, a chronological and biographical index and appendices containing special statistics and facts complete the work.

A study of a woman's life, divided into three parts: a precocious, poetic child in sordid surroundings; an energetic, hopeful, aspiring girl whose ideals are shattered one by one; a disillusioned woman who has become philosophical, who is sure she is but the smallest atom in the scheme of the world. The author reasons that all woman's efforts for equality with man are useless, that only "unadulterated femininity is a deadly weapon if wisely directed against the male."

Hyslop, Ja. Hervey. Democracy: a study of government. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 10 + 300 p. O. cl., $1.50. [131]

The author is Professor of Logic and Ethics in Columbia University. The theories of Lecky's "Liberty and democracy," and of Godkin's "Unforeseen tendencies of democracy," are reviewed and approved or refuted. The solution of the problems of democratic government, the author reasons, must rest in the character and responsibility of office-holders. To insure unselfish public spirit he proposes the following measures: 1, The universal adoption of civil-service reform; 2, The appointment of legislative commissions with powers of investigation and report; 3, The establishment of a court of impeachment and removal in municipalities, with an increase in the mayor's powers of appointment; 4, The limitation of the franchise for the election of municipal officers.

This index is chiefly the work of Mr. F. J. Teggart, who has kept for years, for his private use, a general index to the Journal. It has been carried through the latest volume by Miss H. E. Haines. It is primarily a topical index, with author references to the papers, descriptive articles, communications, reviews, and editorial comments during the first twenty-two volumes of the Library Journal. In printing, the method adopted for the "A. L. A. list of subject-headings" has been followed, giving on the right-hand side of the page opportunity for indexing on the same scale the later volumes of the Journal, and for making references to other sources of library information, or for inserting corrections and omissions.

"The revision of this book was undertaken with the idea of bringing it into accord with the later developments of physiology, of simplifying the treatment of some parts, of expanding that of others, and of enriching the text with additional illustrations. Every effort has been made to avoid injuring those features of Prof. Martin's work which have made the book so favorably known. The changes in the first nine chapters are largely verbal; in the tenth, and in some succeeding chapters, however, considerable alterations and additions have been made. Chapter xx. has been entirely rewritten, and chapters xxiii. and an appendix on emergencies have been added."—Preface. The chapter on narcotics, transferred to appendix, is as written in the original edition, excepting the omission of certain drugs.

"The education law is intended to embrace all general provisions relating to the subject of education, including the two great departments, namely the university and the department of public instruction, and also miscellaneous provisions relating to educational institutions which are directly or indirectly under the supervision of either or both of these departments. The whole law on this subject has been substantially rewritten and rearranged, and an effort has been made to make a scientific classification of the subject. Many new provisions have been added, which seemed necessary to produce harmony in the scheme, and also to supply defects in former laws."—Preliminary note.

Newcomer, Alphonso G. Elements of rhetoric: a course in plain prose composition. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1898. c. 9+882 p. D. cl., $1. [140]

This book differs from most treatises upon rhetoric in two particulars, arrangement and proportion. The common order is reversed, and the study of words instead of being put first is put last, while at the outset attention is centred upon methods of gathering and ordering material. The author says: "I have kept in view constructive or applied rhetoric rather than critical, the art rather than the science, enlarging upon whatever bears directly on practice, and reducing to a minimum all else."

Newton, Rev. Reginald Heber. Christian science: the truths of spiritual healing and their contribution to the growth of orthodoxy. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1898. c. 9+78 p. D. pap., 25 c. [141]

A chapter of a book, now in preparation, upon "The contributions of modern heterodoxes to the growth of orthodoxy." It is issued in advance of the volume because "of the rapid spread of the new movement of which it treats." It deals especially with what Dr. Newton considers are the truths which are making Christian science a vital movement in our day.

The County of Westchester in New York, and particularly the lower towns (now forming the Borough of Bronx), was during the War of the Revolution the prey of the foraging parties of both armies, as it lay directly between them and was permanently occupied by neither. It was therefore called the "Neutral ground." This little pamphlet gives an account of the campaign of the "Neutral ground," preceding it with a sketch of the capture of New York and Brooklyn Heights.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

GENERAL SHAFTER's own story of the Santiago campaign is to appear in the February Century.

THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO., 114 Fourth Avenue, New York, will begin with the March issue to publish an American edition of Pearson's, to retail for eight cents a copy.

H. G. WELLS has completed another story of a fanciful nature, which, like "Looking Backward," will picture life as it may be, in this case, a couple of hundred years hence. It is being published serially in Harper's Weekly, under the title of "When the Sleeper Wakes."

In the January issue of The Boston Book Company's Bulletin of Bibliography Frederick W. Faxon, under the title of Magazine Perplexities, gives an interesting account of the differences between the American and English editions of The Strand. The series is to be continued.

A NEW review, which is said to be intended particularly for persons suffering from the rheumatism, has just been started in Paris. It is entitled La Revue des Rhumatismes. It is a fact not generally known that Frenchmen of letters, to a remarkable degree, are sufferers from this malady. But it is not known, however, whether the following writers, who have contributed to the initial number, be in sympathy with their readers, through personal experience: François Cop-pée, Alexandre Hepp, Jules Clarétie, Marcel Prévost, Aurélian Scholl, Émile Bergerat, Léon Daudet, Ernest Reyer, Gen. du Barrail, and M. Poincaré.

THE bound volumes of The Century, May-October, 1898, and of St. Nicholas for 1897-98, are full of artistic treasures, many of which were overlooked as they appeared from month to month. The text of the volumes is also very valuable, but the resources of the Century Co.'s art department are always a new marvel as year by year the collected numbers appear in their handsome bindings. The Century volume contains six more of Cole's full-page wood engravings of "Old English Masters," and Wolf and Aitken have reproduced four of Gilbert Stuart's "Portraits of Women." The Spanish-American War led to descriptive papers on Porto Rico and the Philippines, all lavishly illustrated, and the political articles and new fiction were of unusual interest. St. Nicholas leaned towards instructive articles as well as amusing reading for young people. The problems occupying their elders were laid before them also, and the boys and girls who have the new volumes to pore over during the year will know many new things about far-off places, and also understand how much hardship the soldiers encountered in the short, sharp war with Spain. The comical pictures and pages upon pages of puzzles make the St. Nicholas always cheering and always full of happy home evenings.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 21, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SHIPPERS MUST PAY THE TAX.

THE book trade has its fair share of interest in the question whether a shipper of freight by an express company is to pay for the stamp on bills of lading demanded by the United States under the act of Congress for raising revenue, or whether it shall be paid by the express companies. The section of the act covering this tax reads:

"It shall be the duty of every railroad or steamboat company, carrier, express company, or corporation, or person whose occupation is to act as such, to issue to the shipper or consignor, or his agent, or person from whom any goods are accepted for transportation, a bill of lading, manifest or other evidence of receipt and forwarding for each shipment, and there shall be duly attached and cancelled to each bill of lading and duplicate thereof a stamp of the value of one cent. Any failure to issue a bill of lading or manifest as therein provided shall subject the carrier to a penalty of $50 for each offence; and no such bill of lading or manifest shall be used in evidence unless it is duly stamped."

The method of cancellation, according to section 9 of the act, is "by the person using or affixing the stamp writing or stamping thereon the initials of his name and the date when used." The act does not declare who shall pay for the stamp; all that the act requires is that "the carrier shall issue a bill of lading or receipt, with a stamp attached and cancelled."

This law admits of two constructions, and the question who ought to pay the tax has been agitated from Maine to California with excellent arguments for both sides, and varying results in different localities. The question is not a Federal question, as it does not involve the validity of any law of the United States. It is rather a question of construction of the power of the express companies to regulate their charges by imposing an additional charge for the stamp. The Superior Courts of Illinois and Michigan decided this question in favor of the shipper. On the other hand, the United States Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York, the United States District Court for the Western district of North Carolina, and the United States District Court for the Southern district of California have ruled adversely to the shipper.

The suit of Charles M. Biddle, of the Biddle Hardware Company, of Philadelphia, against the Adams Express Company, has been so decided by Judge Arnold. In making his decision, Judge Arnold claimed that for the purposes of uniformity he followed decisions of United States Courts rendered in other jurisdictions against the shipper, instead of following decisions of State Courts elsewhere against express companies. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Attorney-General of the United States have decided that the act of Congress does not furnish any solution of the question, and that it is a matter entirely between the shipper and the company. But the judges recognize the necessity for "consistency of decision," and to insure it Judge Arnold said he would adopt, without inquiry, the law of the Supreme Court of the United States as a common standard, not because he deemed the Court superior to the State Court in legal wisdom, but because its decision would be more readily followed by common consent than the decision of a Court of any particular State. His example will no doubt be followed, and in future the book trade will pay its quota of internal revenue and the express companies will save a tax they could well afford.

A MOST extraordinary attack on the integrity of trade journalism is made the subject of a "Trust Extra" of the India-Rubber World for this week. It is worth while for those interested in preserving the independence of journalism and the public honor to acquaint themselves with this issue. We mention it in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY because it concerns trade journalism, and because the threatened suit for libel years ago by Mr. H. K. Thurber and his associates, when THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY criticised the methods of the printing company with which they were identified, presents some analogies with the present case.

PRINTING BY X-RAYS.

GEORGE IZAMBARD, who has been experimenting in Paris with the Roentgen rays in the hope of adapting them to commercial use in the printing industry, according to the New York Sun, "announces that he has succeeded in producing a machine for the purpose. He reasoned that if the X-rays would penetrate oaken logs they ought to penetrate piles of paper, and that as photographs could be taken with X-rays it ought to be possible to reproduce a picture or printing through every sheet of a pile of paper. The invention is so far matured that M. Izambard is able to expose a pile of paper between two Crookes tubes and print both sides of all the sheets in the pile at the same time. He can also place a series of piles of paper around a Crookes tube, making use of the X-rays by radiating them from a centre.

"It was suggested many years ago that the printing of the future would be done by electricity, operating, not on single sheets, but on all the sheets of a pile at the same instant. Various inventions have made some approach to a solution of the problem, but none of them has been successful in producing satisfactory printing. M. Izambard's first success was obtained by sensitizing the paper on the side that was to be printed, with a gelatino-bromide emulsion, such as is commonly used in photography. A pile or block of paper thus prepared was placed in a position of exposure to the X-rays. On top of the paper was placed a copy of the thing to be printed. This copy being proof to the X-rays, in a trice the thing was done, and on developing the pile of paper the inventor found a copy clearly printed on each sheet.

"To print in this manner it is necessary that the copy or original shall be nearly impervious to the Roentgen rays and that it shall be placed between the Crookes tube and the pile, where the rays may be directed to it. The copy is preferably first printed or written in what is called radiographic or X-ray proof-ink, composed of a material calculated to intercept the rays. A few seconds' exposure is sufficient to effect the printing through the entire pile of paper, but it is at first invisible and requires to be developed or fixed after the method of a photographer. The piles of exposed sheets are trundled into a red-light room and suspended in vats, where the developing and fixing liquids are applied. Rinsing and drying follow, and the latter may be hurried by mechanical and chemical means. It is apparent that the process is really a sort of wholesale method of photography with the X-rays, and is printing only in the photographic sense of the term.

"The inventor admits that there is a difficulty in printing on one side only of the paper, owing to the tendency of the print to show through on the reverse side. He proposes to overcome this by sensitizing the paper in stripes, printing the lines on the stripes, and causing the lines on one side of the paper to fall opposite the spaces between the stripes on the other side. Until he can improve upon this method the process must be limited by these restrictions. To offset this drawback, there are peculiar advantages in the process. It is just as easy to print in white on a black ground as is black on a white surface. Type-written matter can be reduced in size and reproduced, thus saving the expense of composition.

"For printing very large sheets such as newspapers, M. Izambard uses several Crookes tubes, which are shut off from one another by partitions of a metal not easily penetrated by the rays. Thus the tubes send their rays through the paper in nearly straight lines. The limit of thickness of the pile that can be printed at one exposure is reached when the rays are so distributed as to distort the image. Probably no pile of more than a couple of inches in thickness could be impressed at a single exposure with satisfactory results.

"The X-ray proof-ink used is made in part of finely divided metallic or calcareous powder. Bronze, copper, white lead or white zinc may be used. As a writing ink white lead in a solution of gum has been found most satisfactory. When the matter to be printed is first typewritten the metallic powder is mixed with boiled linseed oil.

"A peculiarity of this X-ray printing is that it affords opportunity for printing copies of private or secret matter, without the printer's being able to see or read what he is printing. A customer desiring copies of private matter may deliver his copy written in the X-ray proof-ink and securely sealed in an envelope. He may also see that the paper on which the copies are to be printed is securely sealed. Then the printing may be done by the X-rays and the developing executed without once breaking the seals, so that no one through whose hands it passes can know the contents. If desired, the envelopes may even be made of stout canvas or leather and securely locked."

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ILLUSTRATED BOOKS OF THE XVIIITH CENTURY.*

BIBLIOGRAPHY has become almost an exact science during the century, and almost every branch of knowledge has had its literature collected and annotated by competent hands. Of books with embellishments, now so much in vogue and so deservedly coveted by the intelligent amateur, the record as yet was almost barren. To supply this long outstanding want was the primary motive of J. Lewine in collecting the material which has now been offered in book form, and is itself a book with embellishments. This great work will furnish a key to the treasures so eagerly looked for by the connoisseur, who as yet lacked adequate guidance to supply him with prudence and knowledge. A secondary object of the compiler was to bring into harmony the productions of English and French literature of a parallel period, and to demonstrate that they are not only not imitative, but that each in his own sphere is creative. Mr. Lewine has had the advantage of attending sales all the year round in England and on the Continent for the last two decades, and is qualified to give with precision and authority the details which are essential to collectors. The marketable value of average copies is affixed, and the causes of extra prices often obtained at auction are carefully noted. The work is further enriched with thirty-five full-page plates from designs by distinguished artists; among these are reproductions of the eight rare engravings privately printed at the beginning of last century, purporting to depict the ceremonies observed among the Free Masons at the reception of masters and apprentices. In selecting the specimens of illustrations the compiler has been guided by the principle of reproducing either those endowed with the charm of beauty or possessing some intrinsic merit. This work is one that will be of absolute necessity to every collector of art books. He may trust to its information and be guided by it against acquiring spurious copies of valuable editions, and by it may also be informed of the exact marketable value of treasures already in his possession. The publishers have turned out Mr. Lewine's invaluable material in a book that is almost perfect typographically.

* LEWINE, J. Bibliography of eighteenth century art and illustrated books. Being a guide to collectors of illustrated works in English and French of the period. With thirty-five plates, giving specimens of the work of the artists of the time. London, Sampson Low, Marston & Company, Limited, 1898. xvi+615 p. il. 8°.

A NOTE ON LIFE.

Life, vol. 27, ended with no. 704, dated June 25, 1896. According to the Boston Book Company's Bulletin of Bibliography, no. 705 is however registered as part of vol. 27, and the paging of that volume is continued through the whole number. Not until vol. 28 was completed and its title and index issued was it made plain that no. 705 was to form the first number of vol. 28, and not the last of vol. 27. Therefore, unless a binder were unusually careful, and examined the index of vol. 27 very minutely, it is probable that many a library now has the two volumes bound wrong, or has had the trouble of rebinding on account of this careless slip by the publishers. This note may be of service to some persons who have not yet bound up the volumes in question.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, Librarian of Congress, died at his home in Washington, D. C., on the 17th inst., after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Young was born in Downingtown, Chester Co., Pa., November 20, 1841, but during his boyhood lived with his parents in Philadelphia, where his education was begun. Later he was taken to New Orleans, La., where he attended the High School. In 1856 he returned to Philadelphia, and was apprenticed to the printing business. A year later when The Philadelphia Press was started he obtained a position as copy boy, and later became proof-reader. He then became reporter, and was sent by Col. John W. Forney, in 1861, to Washington and Virginia as war correspondent. In Washington he did editorial work for The Chronicle of that city. In 1864 he returned to Philadelphia to assume the editorial charge of The Press. In 1865 he began the publication of The Morning Post, which failed. In 1866 he came to New York and started The Standard, which also met with failure. He then joined the staff of the New York Tribune, and was its managing editor until 1869. Having studied law for the prescribed term, he was admitted to the bar. In 1871 he went to Europe as correspondent for the New York Herald, writing letters about the Franco-Prussian War. In 1874 he returned to New York to do editorial work for The Herald. In 1877 Mr. Young was invited by General Grant to accompany him on his famous tour around the world. Mr. Young wrote many articles describing the scenes and incidents of the tour, and afterward recast and published them in two volumes, under the title of "Around the World with General Grant." Returning to New York in 1879, he resumed his position on the editorial staff of The Herald, which he retained until 1882, when, by the appointment of President Arthur, he became Minister to China. After his return from China Mr. Young was not attached to any journal except the Philadelphia Evening Star, in which he had a proprietary interest, but he was a frequent contributor to other publications. On June 30, 1897, Mr. Young was appointed Librarian of Congress. His appointment was made just before the Library of Congress was removed from its cramped quarters in the Capitol to its magnificent new building. This removal has been followed by the broadening of the scope of the library, so that it is now truly a national library. At the time of Mr. Young's appointment some fears were expressed that his journalistic success might not necessarily fit him to be a successful librarian. But Mr. Young was a man of fine executive ability and broad culture. For heads of departments he chose in many cases the best men in the field. To reorganize a library of nearly a million volumes and pamphlets, to make it perfectly accessible to legislators and students at Washington, and still further to extend its usefulness to the whole country, was a great task. Judging from the results accomplished up to the time of his death, that was Mr. Young's purpose, and in his year and one-half of service he did excellent work toward that end.

REV. CHARLES PASCHAL TELESPHORE CHINIQUEY, better known as "Father Chiniquy," died in Montreal, January 16. He was born at Kamouraska, in the province of Quebec, in 1809, was ordained a priest in 1833, and for a quarter of a century was a prominent figure in the Roman Catholic Church. In 1850 Father Chiniquy, with 5000 French-Canadians, founded a Catholic colony at St. Anne, Kankakee County, Ill. Success attended the colonizing scheme for a time, but Father Chiniquy's relations with the new Bishop of Illinois were not agreeable. In consequence Father Chiniquy left the Church of Rome with his entire congregation at St. Anne, Kankakee County, Ill., in 1858, and joined the Canadian Presbyterian Church. A few days ago Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, offered to visit Father Chiniquy if needed, but the offer was declined, Father Chiniquy saying he was perfectly satisfied with the Protestant faith. He died surrounded by the members of his family. He was the author of "The Priest, the Woman, and the Confessional," 1874; "Fifty Years in the Church of Rome," 1886; and "Papal Idolatry: exposure of the doctrine of transubstantiation," 1887.

By the death of Henry Clarke Warren, which occurred in Cambridge, Mass., on the 4th inst., American scholarship loses one of its most distinguished ornaments. In his early childhood he sustained an injury by which he was physically disabled for life and forced to pass his days in seclusion. He became interested in the study of Sanskrit while an undergraduate at Harvard. Later he continued his studies at Johns Hopkins University, and then he took up Pali, and devoted himself to the study of the religion and literature of Buddhism. The fruits of these labors were embodied in a volume entitled "Buddhism in Translations," and published by Harvard University in 1896. At the time of his death he was at work in making an edition and translation of "The Path of Purity," or, "Visuddhi-magga." This is an extensive and systematic treatise or cyclopædia raisonnée of Buddhist doctrine composed by the famous Buddhaghosa, who flourished in the fourth century of our era. The text is not far from being in a state of readiness for the printer, but the English version is done only in part. It is expected that the volume can be completed and issued in due course.

HORACE B. FULLER, well known in the sixties as a member of the Boston publishing house of Walker, Fuller & Co., and later as the publisher of the magazine for young people, entitled Merry's Museum, and numerous excellent juvenile books, was found dead in his boarding-place, 29 Pinckney Street, Boston, January 12. A strong odor of gas in the room indicated suicide. For the last fifteen or twenty years he had had a precarious existence, earning a scant living by peddling books. He was 65 years old.

LEWIS E. BAILEY, for a long time partner in the firm of Cushing, Bailey & Co., died in Baltimore, Md., January 4. He was born in Boston, Mass., in 1824, but went to Baltimore when quite young. He engaged in the book business on his own account, and afterward became the junior member of the firm of Cushing & Bailey. He retired from the firm a number of years ago, and has not been in active business since. One of his sons is connected with Little, Brown & Co., of Boston.

DR. C. C. P. CLARK, author of "The Commonwealth Reconstructed," and other books, died at Oswego, N. Y., on the 12th inst. He was born at Middlebury, Vt., in 1822. He graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York in 1847. He was Collector of Customs at Oswego under President Grant.

EDWARD B. MAY died on the 7th inst., at Rochester, N. Y. He was born in Greenwich, England, in 1820, and came to this country in 1857. For over thirty years he has been connected with the book and real estate business in Rochester.

ALFRED RUPERT, for many years in the book business at West Chester, Pa., died in that town December 23, aged 62. He served in the Civil War and was brevetted captain. He was twice elected Justice of the Peace of West Chester.

GEORGE GEMÜNDER, the celebrated violin maker, and author of a book entitled "Progress in Violin Making," died at his home in Astoria, N. Y., on the 15th inst. He was born in Würtemberg, April 13, 1816.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

KATHARINE TYNAN is writing a new novel to be called "The Dear Irish Girl."

BENJAMIN SWIFT, the author of "The Tormentor," is writing a study of Naples, entitled "Siren City." The book resolves itself into a study of puritanism versus paganism.

MRS. ARCHIBALD LITTLE, who established the Anti-Footbinding Society in China three years ago, is writing a book dealing with the social and family life in the Chinese upper classes, and especially with Chinese women.

CONAN DOYLE has published a new novel dealing in an optimistic manner with married life, entitled "A Duet with an Occasional Chorus." He describes the humorous incidents of the domestic life of a young couple of the middle class.

MISS BETHAM EDWARDS is writing a volume of Anglo-French reminiscences, one part to be devoted to the particulars of the life of a celebrated Frenchman, who, before his death, confided the recollections of his romantic career to the author.

HENRY DEMAREST LLOYD, author of "Wealth Against Commonwealth," is going to Australasia to study the question of land, labor, and taxation, and the effect of the colonial policy on the distribution of wealth and the welfare of the people. Australasia is trying some experiments in advanced democracy which make it particularly interesting to the student of sociology.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, OHIO.—R. P. Marvin, receiver, on the 18th inst. sold the property of the Werner Publishing Company at public sale. It was bid in by a committee representing the creditors of the concern, a majority of whom had agreed to the sale and the plan of reorganization contemplated. The realty involved in the transaction was appraised at $550,000. The reorganization of the Werner Company under the same name will take place as soon as the sale is confirmed. The new company probably will be capitalized at $3,500,000. The Werner Company went into the hands of R. P. Marvin as receiver about fourteen months ago.

ALTOONA, PA.—Mr. Sheffer and G. M. Werner have bought the leading bookstore here.

CHESTER, PA.—Wm. J. Farley has opened a book and picture store in West Third Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Crawford & Curtis, booksellers, have filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The National Book and Picture Company has certified to a change of name to Book Buyers' Union.

CHICAGO, ILL.—G. N. Shafer & Co. have been incorporated to do a general book and newspaper business. Capital, $5000. G. N. Shafer, Edward O'Brien, and Allen R. Towle, incorporators.

CLEBURNE, TEX.—W. J. Prather has opened a bookstore and news-stand in Henderson Street, just east of the post-office, and would be glad to receive catalogues from publishers and stationers.

DALTON, GA.—Martin Jones succeeds Farnsworth Brothers, booksellers.

DETROIT, MICH.—Miss Jeane Wanless will conduct her late father's business until the stock can be sold in bulk and the estate settled up.

DOVER, N. H.—E. B. Lane, the veteran bookseller and stationer, is closing up his business.

GREENFIELD, MASS.—F. H. Brown & Co., booksellers, have been succeeded by F. H. Brown.

LA CROSSE, WIS.—Charles L. Weis, bookseller, has bought out his partner's interest in the firm of Bailey & Weis.

NEW LONDON, WIS.—G. A. Kinsman, has removed his stock of books, periodicals, etc., to his new brick building. He has greatly enlarged his stock.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Bancroft Publishing Company, now located in the Auditorium Building, Chicago, where it has been for the past six years, will move its office to this city. It has secured rooms at 136 Fifth Avenue. This company will be remembered as the publishers of "The Book of the Fair" and "The Book of Wealth." The New York office will be looked after by R. D. Bristol, vice-president, and D. P. Ahern, secretary.

NEW YORK CITY.—Miss J. A. Morehouse has just opened a periodical, stationery, and bookstore at 2136 Seventh Avenue, and would like to receive publishers' circulars, posters, etc.

NEW YORK CITY.—William J. Wiley, assignee of the Anson D. F. Randolph & Company, will sell at public auction, by Adrian H. Muller & Son, auctioneers, on January 30, 1899, at twelve o'clock noon, at the Real Estate Salesrooms, No. 111 Broadway, all the uncollected claims and accounts held by him as assignee of the firm of Anson D. F. Randolph & Company. There are about 351 of these accounts, aggregating about $9650.

ONAWAY, MICH.—The Onaway Mercantile Co. has added a book and periodical department to its business.

PHILLIPSBURG, PA.—Frank Peeks has bought Parker's bookstore from Mrs. M. Snyder.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, WINNEPEG.—T. W. Fisher has bought the book business of Prest & Co.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—George P. Humphrey, of 25 Exchange Street, has removed to 63 Spring Street and become manager of The Book Shop.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The Moser & Lyon property on South Clinton Street was sold by the sheriff, and was bid in for $22,000. It was formerly the property of the well-known book and stationery house.

UTICA, N. Y.—Dodge Brothers have opened a general store in the Dobson block and will carry a stock of stationery.

PERSONAL NOTES.

EDWARD HALL, recently with the Oxford University Press, has gone over to the Doubleday & McClure Co.

WILLIAM STITT has left Frederick A. Stokes Co. and gone over to the Werner Company, of Akron, O., and New York.

F. T. NUNAN, for some years with the Frederick Stokes Co., will hereafter represent L. C. Page & Co. on the road.

MR. DENT, formerly with the American Publishers Corporation, will hereafter represent Dodd, Mead & Co. on the road.

BENJAMIN DODGE, who for some time has represented Dodd, Mead & Co. on the road, has joined the staff of G. W. Dillingham & Co.

GEORGE T. DUNLAP, for a number of years with the American Publishers Corporation, will hereafter represent Rand, McNally & Co. on the road. He will make his headquarters at the New York office.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BAILY, BANKS & BIDDLE Co., Philadelphia, have published a short poem by Eunice Parke Detweiler, entitled "Colonial Days."

A. MACKEL & Co., 318 E. 85th Street, New York, will, on the 23d inst., issue a novel by Henry Seton Merriman, entitled "Young Mistley."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will issue shortly "The Children of the Mist," a new novel by Eden Philpotts, of which the scene is laid in Devonshire, England.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. will issue next month Stephen Bonsal's "The Fight for Santiago: the story of the soldier in the Cuban campaign from Tampa to the surrender."

It is reported that measures will be taken at the annual meeting of the Chautauqua Assembly, held this week at Cleveland, O., to remove the headquarters of the Assembly to Cleveland, and to issue all the publications, including the Chautauquan, from that city.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. will have ready during the spring volume II. of "Christian Missions and Social Progress," a sociological study of foreign missions, by Dr. James S. Dennis, with full-page reproductions of original photographs. The book will be complete in three volumes.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., has just issued an annotated edition of William Miller Collier's "Bankruptcy Rules and Forms," containing a list of the judges and clerks of the Courts of Bankruptcy. The writer is Referee in Bankruptcy and author of a work on "Bankruptcy," which gave him a national reputation.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, Limited, have just ready the fifteenth edition of "The Microscope," by Jabez Hogg, reconstructed, rewritten, revised, and enlarged throughout with upwards of 900 engraved and colored illustrations; and also new editions of "Angling," by Robert Blake, and "Picturesque India," by W. S. Calne, with additional chapters on Burmah and illustrations by several artists.

THE New Haven Detective Bureau has just completed a catalogue of nearly 5000 volumes, which were stolen during the past few years by the Rev. James Brittain Miller, an alumnus of the Yale Divinity School and at present a graduate student at Yale, and an occasional preacher in the Congregationalist churches of Connecticut. All the bookstores of New Haven have been pilfered from, and about 148 citizens of New Haven and students at college have identified missing volumes. Miller is to be arraigned in the City Court of New Haven. Nearly all the books are valuable and readily salable.

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce "The Young Citizen's Reader," a new book by Charles F. Dole, author of "The American Citizen," which will teach the lesson of intelligent patriotism in a manner suited to the needs of boys and girls from nine to twelve years old. They have also recently purchased the complete series of Wells's Mathematics, and announce that Professor Wells's new "Essentials of Solid Geometry" will be ready in March. This book will possess the same clearness, conciseness, and the rigorous methods of demonstration that characterize Wells's "Essentials of Plane Geometry," which appeared last September.

THE railroads of the United States purpose preparing for the Paris exposition of 1900 a gigantic relief map, showing every line of railroad as well as telegraph, telephone, express lines, steamship lines on the great lakes, and ports of entry for the Atlantic steamship lines. As more than half the railroad mileage of the world is within the limits of the United States, the showing will be interesting to all visitors to the exposition. The map will be built on the scale of one inch to the mile, will be 230 feet long and 140 feet high, occupying 32,000 square feet. The estimated cost is about $100,000, in which about 100 lines of railway will share.

THE Post-Office department, according to the Washington Star, during 1898 issued 3,500,000 stamps of all denominations. It appears, from figures furnished by the Post-Office department, that the average person in Massachusetts, including men, women, and children, spends $2.30 on postage per annum. New York comes second, with an expenditure of $2.27. The District of Columbia third, with $2.16. Colorado is fourth, with $1.93, and Connecticut is fifth, with $1.80. The States ranking lowest in this regard are South Carolina, with 25 cents per capita; Mississippi, with 34 cents; Alabama, with 35 cents; Arkansas, with 37 cents; and North Carolina, with 41 cents.

THE January "Smoker" of the Booksellers' League, held on the evening of the 18th inst., at the French Restaurant, J. B. G., 111 W. 25th Street, New York, was well attended, upwards of fifty persons being present. After the dinner, Frank Appel, who acted as chairman, called the meeting to order, and in a few happy and well-chosen words explained the programme of the "Story-Teller's Night." Nearly every one present took part in the story-telling, and so the evening was pleasantly and quickly passed. When the vote was taken it was found that T. D. Stratton, E. F. Treat, and W. H. Parker told the most acceptable stories, and so these gentlemen were awarded a silk umbrella, a silver match-box, and a gold scarf-pin.

✓ SMALL, MAYNARD & Co., Boston, will publish at once the first four volumes of the Beacon Biographies, a new series that has been prepared with much care in selection of authors and subjects, and which will be edited by M. A. de Wolfe Howe. The volumes are: "Admiral Farragut," by James Barnes; "James Russell Lowell," by Edward Everett Hale, Jr.; "Robert E. Lee," by Professor Trent, of the University of West Virginia; and "Phillips Brooks," by the editor of the series. They are making arrangements with the author of "Mr. Dooley in Peace and War" to bring out a new series, entitled "Mr. Dooley in the Hearts of His Countrymen." The author's first volume in two months has reached the thirty-five thousand mark.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have now issued the second part of John Codman Ropes' "Story of the Civil War," covering the campaigns of 1862. Part I of this exhaustive account of the war of 1861-65 appeared in October, 1894, and readers have been anxiously looking for the next instalment. This volume requires very valuable maps and plans, which it has been thought advisable to issue in separate portfolio, to be slipped into the book at the end. Other publications just ready are: "The Wheel of God," by George Egerton; "Michael Angelo," the first contribution to the new volume of Little Journeys to the Homes of Eminent Painters; and "Christian Science," a sermon by R. Heber Newton, of All Souls Protestant Episcopal Church, New York City.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue at once Rossegger's novel of outdoor life, entitled "Die Schriften des Waldschulmeisters," of which an abridged edition has been prepared by Professor Fossler, who has ingeniously summarized the omitted portions. A portrait of the author and two portraits of Rudolph Baumbach will be included in the book. The publishers also announce an elaborate edition of Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm," with twelve illustrations from rare prints and annotations by A. B. Nichols, of Harvard University, and Segur's picturesque account of "Napoleon's Retreat from Moscow," in the original French, edited by Prof. O. B. Super, of Dickenson College. For the general reader, as well as for students, will be "French Lyrics," edited by Prof. A. G. Canfield, of the University of Kansas, containing sketches of about fifty poets and their work, and an essay on French versification. Among the poets represented will be Coppée, Heredia, Verlaine, Maupassant, and Bourget.

HENRY T. COATES & Co. have in press "The History of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company," by William Bender Wilson, who has been connected for over forty years with the public improvements of Pennsylvania, and favorably situated for closely observing their advancement. The work, while narrative in form is really cyclopædic in character. It is rich in biography and portraiture of the living and dead, to whom the greater credit is due for the building up of the wonderful corporation. The relations of the corporate atoms east of Pittsburg and Erie which enter into the life and activities of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are accurately presented. The story of the part Pennsylvania played in the great struggle by the various Atlantic seaboard interests for the trade of the Mississippi Valley over the Allegheny Mountains and beyond the forks of the Ohio, and the experiment of governmental control of railways made by the State, is well told in its pages. The work will be fully illustrated.

FOREIGN NOTES.

DOWNNEY & Co., London, have in press a life of Queen Charlotte, wife of George III., by Percy Fitzgerald.

ELKIN MATHEWS, London, will publish at once a new volume of poems by W. B. Yeats, entitled "The Wind Among the Reeds."

CANON AINGER is editing a volume of Edward Fitzgerald's letters to his wife, the daughter of Bernard Barton, the Quaker poet. Mrs. Fitzgerald's death was noticed in the issue of December 17, 1898.

DR. GEORGE BRANDES's new volume, shortly to be published by Heinemann in London, will be entitled "Main Currents in Nineteenth Century Literature." It aims at setting forth, by the study of the principal groups and movements in European literature, the principles of a psychological study of the first half of the nineteenth century.

DR. E. A. WALLIS BRIDGE, of the British Museum, has just published "The Earliest Known Coptic Psalter," edited from the text of the unique papyrus codex in the British Museum. The Copts were descendants of the old Egyptians, retaining their language in a corrupt form and writing it in Greek characters. Dr. Bridge's discovery is a complete text of the Psalms, the earliest known. In one of the most ancient forms of the dialect of Upper Egypt. The condition of the manuscript bears witness to much handling in the choir, and the repairs indicate a respect for its great antiquity.

FREDERIK MÜLLER & Co., Amsterdam, have at length published the long but unavoidably deferred photolithographic reproduction of Abel Janszoon Tasman's Journal of his discovery of Van Diemen's Land and New Zealand in 1642, with documents relating to his exploration of Australia in 1644, containing the reproduction of the whole ms. Journal of the expedition of 1642-3, signed by Tasman himself, and comprising fifty-three drawings and charts colored like the original, an English translation of the same, Prof. J. E. Heeres's life and labors of Tasman, with the original documents in English and Dutch, and Dr. Bemmelin's Observations made with the Compass on Tasman's voyage, etc., with isogonic map of the Indian and Pacific Oceans, 1640. Years of labor have been devoted by Prof. Heeres, Dr. Van Bemmelin, and the publishers to the compilation, editing, and production of this work, which throws the clearest and in many respects new light on the dealings of the Dutch East India Company in the first half of the seventeenth century.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

JANUARY 30, 3 P.M.—Miscellaneous, including Roman Catholic church literature, periodicals, etc. (700 lots.)—Bangs.

FEBRUARY 1, 3 P.M.—Miscellaneous. (332 lots.)—Bangs.
In Preparation.

The stock of George H. Richmond & Co., formerly D. G. Francis, 12 East 15th Street, will shortly be sold by Bangs & Co. This collection consists of Americana, chosen by D. G. Francis, one of the oldest and best-known booksellers in the country. Collected sets, rare English first editions, poetry, historical works, works on art, etc., from the stock of S. B. Luyster, and subscription sets, publications, etc., chosen largely by Geo. H. Richmond.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON says:

[In Press.]

"His style is terse, simple, and direct. In narration he is rapid and graphic. His diction is strong and his presentation of events and of social conditions is always picturesque and often dramatic. He has wit, humor, and much of that rhetorical fervor which in oral utterance we call eloquence."

TERSE, SIMPLE,
DIRECT, PICTURESQUE,
OFTEN DRAMATIC.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 28, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1898.

IN numbers the books of 1898 fell slightly behind those of 1897. In 1897 we put on record 4928 books. In 1898, 4886 titles appeared in our weekly lists of new publications, making a difference of 42. This difference makes the number of books published in 1898 lower than that of any year since 1894, when our record showed 4484 titles.

The leading books of the year in almost every department came from the other side. In fiction particularly were we debtors. The leading novels were from English authors. Few years in the experience of the book trade had opened more dismally than 1898. The immediate coming of prosperity, positively promised in 1897, not only did not materialize, but, largely owing to the Spanish-American war, the trade published carefully while the people were so largely concerned with the daily news. With the coming of spring, however, business became more hopeful, and the books announced as in course of publication were numerous and promising. Later, the books that were issued related largely to the war or to the newly conquered or annexed territory. They all sold readily, though mostly mere newspaper stuff, hurriedly prepared and illy digested. But in few cases can they be called literature, though they have served as grist to the publishers' mills and have in the end kept the number of books published almost equal with that of 1897. Things went back to a more normal condition after the summer had passed, but the losses of six months could not be made up in three. A perfect rush of books began in October and continued through December, those recorded by us in the last three months being 2058 against the 4886 of the whole year. In December alone we put on record the titles of 1026 books, of which 491 were books actually received at this office, and in the majority of cases entered with a brief description or annotation. The total of books received by us during the year amounted to 2698, making 88 more than in 1897, a fact to be credited first to the steadily improving bibliographical system of our office and then to the great number of new publishers that were a feature of the year—firms or private individuals that published one or two books. By actual count over 250 new names from all over the country were added to our Order List. It was these new names which swelled the totals. Our great publishing houses, by actual count, almost all published less than in 1897.

There were few special features connected with the literature of the year. Novels, as heretofore, took the lead. Historical romances were still in demand, many wooden, colorless volumes finding publishers. Juvenile literature almost in its entirety belongs to the domain of fiction. The books coming under this heading were, as a general thing, as much for grown people as for children's reading. Juvenile fiction seems an exhausted field. Scarcely a book in this department, issued in the past year, possesses a lasting quality. It will take another generation to produce genius of the immortal quality that belonged to "Lewis Carroll." Really notable books by American authors are rare in all the literary departments.

The death of Gladstone and Bismarck led to the publication of several volumes. The year included books not only related to them, but by them, the autobiography of the great German being the noted biography of the year. The losses in the ranks of literature were unusual both here and in Europe. Among the most famous names are William Black, C. L. Dodgson ("Lewis Carroll"), Mary Cowden Clarke, Harold Frederic, Mrs. Lynn Linton, G. M. Ebers, Blanche Willis Howard (Mrs. von Teuffel), Edward Bellamy, Richard Malcolm Johnston, and Maria Louise Pool.

The table which follows gives in classes the figures, approximately, of the book production in this country of 1898 with those of 1897 for comparison. The departments in 1898 run singularly close to those of the preceding year. The number of American novels published in each year was exactly alike, being 358.

The second table, which follows, attempts to show the number of books that were manufactured in the United States in 1898—first, those of American origin; second, those of English or Continental origin; and third, the English works that were imported, bound or in sheets; these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1898. This table, like the former one, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work.

The table shows 2908 books by American authors, made, of course, in this country (against 3318 of 1897;) 834 books by English or other foreign authors made here (against 495 of 1897;) and 1144 books or sheets imported (the number in 1897 being 1115). The reprints were the greatest in fiction, amounting to 391 books.

FICTION.

Novels by American writers were plentiful. The majority found a flattering reception and a wide sale. "Gloria Mundi," owing to Harold Frederic's death simultaneously almost with its publication, attracted more attention, probably, than it would have under ordinary circumstances. It is a long step backward from "The Damnation of Theron Ware," and adds nothing to Mr. Frederic's literary reputation. The subject is the decadence, through its vices, of an English ducal family. The narrative has little force or point, and is almost painful reading to those who recall the fresh charm of "Seth's Brother's Wife." "The Adventures of François" shows both the vitality and versatility of its author, Dr. Weir Mitchell. Not so elaborate a work as "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," nor one of so many and varied characters, it is nevertheless a novel of unusual cleverness, offering an original character-study from a scientist's standpoint. The hero, François, by turns thief, juggler, and fencing-master, passes his life in the streets of Paris during the days of the Terror. The rapid movement of the story, the picturesque and brightness of its scenes, are really marvellous. The author of "The Descendant," Miss Ellen Glasgow, produced a second novel, "Phases of an Inferior Planet," another story of New York City. Its pessimism is quite depressing, and its views of life rather remarkable for so young and inexperienced a writer. Its redeeming qualities are its witty dialogues and its clever characterizations. "Red Rock" is Thomas Nelson Page's first novel. Its scenes are drawn from life as it seemed in the South after the Civil War. Francis Hopkinson Smith's "Caleb West, Master Diver," draws largely upon his own experience as a lighthouse builder and civil engineer. In "David Harum" we had the only novel of Edward Noyes Westcott, a banker of Central New York, who died before his work was published. David Harum is an old country banker, quaint, dry, and somewhat illiterate, whose odd philosophy and queer stories have delighted many readers. He is a new figure in fiction. Gilbert Parker, who has grown to be looked upon as one of our own authors, though a Canadian by birth, produced in "The Battle of the Strong" one of the notable novels of the year. The scenes are laid in the Isle of Jersey and in France at the close of the eighteenth century, and have a strong historic interest. Frank Richard Stockton added two new works of fiction to the long list of imaginative literature bearing his name—"The Associate Hermits" and "The Girl at Cobhurst." The first book made a far stronger impression than the second, and is extremely funny in Mr. Stockton's very original and ingenious style. "The Celebrity," by Winston Churchill—a new name in literature—was very favorably received. It is merely an episode in which a famous author figures, but is clever and amusing. "The Californians" and "American Wives and English Husbands" are the latest novels of Mrs. Gertrude Atherton. California life and character of a decade or two ago are graphically depicted in the former, and the English husband contrasted with the American in the latter. Life among the "smart" set of New York City is pictured in Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Good Americans," and Richard Harding Davis tells a tale of Tanguis, and of an imaginary dethroned king having his court there, in "The King's Jackal." Romance and startling incidents characterize Molly Elliot Seawell's "The Loves of the Lady Arabella." Two novels by women writers heretofore unknown displayed unusual gifts and were eagerly read: "The Dull Miss Archinard," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, alternates in its scene between Paris and an English country home, and has a typical art student as its leading character. The second book is "Via Lucis," by Cassandra Vivaria, a pen-name for a young Italian girl. The book, however, is not a translation, but was written in English and first published through an American publisher. Italian middle-class life finds an admirable delineator in the young author. The story is evidently largely autobiographic, and cruelly exposes the heart troubles of a passionate, undisciplined nature. With all the faults of a first novel from an inexperienced writer, it nevertheless shows the hall-marks of genius.

Our older novelists, as represented by William Dean Howells and Henry James, again delighted limited but appreciative audiences. Mr. Howells' "The Story of a Play" is one of the cleverest bits of work he has done. A young journalist is writing a play for a celebrated actor. It is read to him scene by scene, and also to the journalist's wife. The changes produced in the play by the criticisms, and the power of the criticisms upon the writer, who eventually evolves something entirely different from the play as first started, is a capital study of human nature, and most happily managed. Henry James's "In the Cage" is the romance of a telegraph girl in a London postal telegraph office. "The Two Magics," also from his pen, unites two contrasting stories of light and shade, the first being a most gruesome ghost story. The last novel from Maria Louise Pool was "The Red-Bridge Neighborhood," a sordid tale of rural New England. "A Golden Sorrow," a love-tale of St. Augustine, Florida, in the year 1886, is also to be included in her year's work. "Lost Man's Lane," one of Anna Katharine Green's (Mrs. Rohlfs) popular detective stories, relates a second exciting episode in the life of "Amelia Butterworth," the heroine of "That Affair Next Door." One breathes a specially refined atmosphere in Mrs. Helen Choate Prince's "At the Sign of the Silver Crescent," Mrs. Burnham's "A Great Love," Eliza Orne White's "A Lover of Truth," and Arlo Bates's "The Puritans," all charming novels by New England writers.

Novels of adventure were almost as popular as in 1897. Those by our own writers were not confined to American scenes, the novels abounding with old-world heroes and old-world surroundings. Those that we now recall we give without any consideration of their merits: "The Continental Dragoon," an historical love-story of New York State in the Revolutionary War, by Robert Neilson Stephens; "In the Sargasso Sea," by T. Allibone Janvier; "Latitude 19," a romance of the West Indies in the year 1820, by Mrs. Schuyler Crowninshield; "A Man-at-Arms," by Clinton Scollard, an Italian romance of the fourteenth century; "A Trooper of the Empress," a story of South Africa and of the present, and "Bobbie McDuff," both by Clinton Ross; Altsheuler's "A Herald of the West"; Mrs. Sheppard Stevens' "I am the King"; "A Sister of Evangeline," by C. G. Douglas Roberts, relating to the deporting of the Acadians of Grande Pré in 1755; "The Count's Snuff-Box," a romance of Washington and Buzzard's Bay during the War of 1812, by G. R. R. Rivers; "The Gospel Writ in Steel," by Arthur Paterson, a story of the Civil War; "For Love of Country," a story of land and sea in the days of the Revolution, by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "The King's Henchman," a sixteenth-century chronicle brought to light and edited by W. H. Johnson; "Hassan, a Fellow," a romance of Palestine, by Henry Gillman; "In Kings' Houses," a romance of the days of Queen Anne, by Mrs. J. C. R. Dorr; "Señorita Montemar," by Archer Philip Crouch, telling the story of the Cuban independence, beginning in the year 1818; "Ashes of Empire," a story of the siege of Paris, by Robert W. Chambers; "Across the Salt Seas," a romance of the War of Succession, by J. Bloundelle Burton, and "The Fifth of November," by C. S. Bentley and F. Kimball Scribner, introducing Guy Fawkes and other noted historical characters of the times of the Stuarts.

Still to be mentioned from American novelists are: Edward Fawcett's "New York"; "The Black Curtain," by Mrs. Flora Haines Loughhead; "At You-All's House," by James Newton Baskett; "A Puritan Wooing," by Frank S. Child; "A Bride of Japan," by W. Carlton Dawe; "The Durket Sperret," by Sarah Barnwell Elliott; "Madam of the Ivies," by Elizabeth Phipps Train; "The Uncalled," by Paul Laurence Dunbar; "The General Manager's Story," by Herbert Elliott Hamblen; "A Wounded Name," by Charles King; "Rembrandt," by Walter Cranston Larned; "The Money Captain," by Will Payne; "The Judge," by Mrs. E. W. Peattie; "The Waters of Caney Fork," by Opie P. Read; "Priscilla's Love-Story," by Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford; "On the Winning Side," by Mrs. Jeannette Walworth; "A Pedigree in Pawn," by Arthur H. Veysey; "It was Marlowe," by W. G. Zeigler; "Her Ladyship's Elephant," by David Dwight Wells, and "A Champion in the Seventies," by Edith A. Barnett.

The best examples of the American short story are embraced under the title "Old Chester Tales," by Mrs. Margaret Deland. This volume met with unusual popularity. The stories deal with life in an old town of Pennsylvania and introduce Dr. Lavendar again, one of the author's finest creations. "Madame Butterfly" stands for a collection of Japanese stories based upon the domestic life of Japan as it comes in touch with the foreign residents. John Luther Long, the author, presents many exquisite sketches, amusing and pathetic and at times tragical. He worked in a new field, a unique interest investing his dainty volume with its pretty, artistic cover of cherry-blossoms design. Stephen Crane wrote "The Open Boat, and Other Tales of Adventure"; Bret Harte, "Tales of Trail and Town"; David Gray, "Gallops," stories dealing with life in the hunting field; "Tales of the Home Folks in Peace and War," by Joel Chandler Harris ("Uncle Remus"), embrace character studies of the South and episodes of life during the war and just after it. Southern life is also the inspiration of Paul Laurence Dunbar's "Folks from Dixie"; "Southern Stories," by George Cary Eggleston and "Moriah's Mourning, and Other Half-Hour Sketches," by Ruth McEnery Stuart. Stories of the sea are told in "More Cargoes," by W. W. Jacobs, author of "Many Cargoes." New England, a fertile field for the literary artist, suggested "Boston Neighbours in Town and Out," by Agnes Blake Poor, and "Dumb Fox-glove, and Other Stories," by Annie Trumbull Slosson. "Tales of the City Room," by Elizabeth G. Jordan, invade the sacred precincts of the editorial room of a great "daily"; "Out of Mulberry Street" are studies by Jacob A. Riis of tenement life in New York City, drawn with his usual true and sympathetic touch.

Still other volumes of American short stories were "The Man Who Outlived Himself," by Albion W. Tourgee; "Frontier Stories," by Cy Warman; "War," in tales from M'Clure's; "Cornell Stories," by James G. Sanderson; "From the Other Side," by H. B. Fuller ("Stanton Page"); Paul L. Ford's "Tattle Tales of Cupid"; "The Heart of Toll," by Alice French ("Octave Thanet"); "The Haunts of Men," by Robert W. Chambers; "The Hundred, and Other Stories," by Gertrude Hall, and "The Imported Bridegroom," and other stories of the New York Ghetto, by Abraham Cahan.

The leading English novels found publishers here or were imported. The two works that have excited warm discussion, and the most opposite criticisms wherever the English language is spoken, were Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Helbeck of Bannisdale" and George Moore's "Evelyn Innes." They are both eminently readable, showing great care and thought in the writing. They both seem to possess an element of permanency which places them among the best their authors have produced. Mrs. Ward's judicial fairness in depicting the conflict of Catholicism and agnosticism evinces exceptional intellectual qualities in a woman. Mr. Moore's novel is one of the most forceful studies of the sensuous influences of music we have read in some time. "The Forest Lovers" made an instant and unquestioned success. Delightfully romantic and poetic in the adventures of its hero and heroine, its fresh, charming style won favor with all who read it. Maurice Hewlett, the author, made through "The Forest Lovers" his first appearance in the field of fiction. A second pronounced success of 1898 by an English writer, and also a first novel, is Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler's "Concerning Isabel Carnaby." The plot is not new, dealing with the quarrels of a pair of lovers, badly matched, while incidentally is described an English circle of Methodists or Nonconformists most lovingly and appreciatively. But the author's strength is in her dialogue and in her delineation of character. To these she brings a flow of wit and humor, so unflagging as to be perfectly amazing. Indeed, one is in danger of mental indigestion from a repletion of good things. Theodore Watts-Dunton's "Aylwin" attracted special attention. His position as one of the critics of The Athenaeum, and his long association with Tennyson, Browning, Rossetti, William Morris, and other notable men of the century, some of whom he introduces in his novel, under thin disguises, made a strong appeal to the curiosity and interest of the reading public. Richard Le Gallienne was more than usually vague and pessimistic in "The Romance of Zion Chapel," an unflattering picture of Methodism. His dainty style and epigrammatic cleverness, however, carried the book. "Poor Human Nature," by Elizabeth Godfrey, deals with the love of a tenor and a soprano of a German opera company devoted to the production of Wagner's operas; it is delightfully imbued with the author's sincere love of music, and represents a new novelist. Gissing's "The Town Traveller" was very bright and amusing, the very opposite, in fact, to "The Whirlpool," one of the most depressing of this year's novels. "Her Memory," a refined story of English life, comes from "Maarten Maartens," who, in spite of his Dutch name and antecedents, writes in English, his real name being J. M. W. Van der Poorten Schwartz. Edward F. Benson's "The Vintage" is a romance of the Greek war of independence of 1820; "The Broom of the War God" is based upon the recent war of Greece and Turkey. It is from the pen of Henry Noel Brailsford. Sir Walter Besant is to be credited with "The Changeling"; Baring-Gould with "Bladys Stewponney." Anthony Hope wrote "Simon Dale" and "Rupert of Hentzau," the latter a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," but in no way equal to it in charm and spontaneity. Stanley Weyman's books were "The Castle Inn" and "Shrewsbury," both English historical romances. "The Pride of Jennico" is one of the notable novels of the early part of 1898. It is a spirited story of adventure of the eighteenth century written by Agnes and Egerton Castle. Henry Seton Merriman's "Roden's Corner" touches upon certain forms of corruption prevalent in English business and financial methods.

The additions to well-known libraries of fiction are most interesting to the confirmed novel reader. They include many most charming works. The new numbers of special note in Appleton's Town and Country Library were T. Gallon's "A Prince of Mischance" and "Dicky Monteith"; "The Looms of Time," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser; "The Incidental Bishop," by Grant Allen; "A Forgotten Sin" and "The Impediment," by Dorothea Gerard; "A Passionate Pilgrim," by Percy White; "Sunset," by Beatrice Whitby; "The Widower," by W. E. Norris; "The Lust of Hate," by Guy Boothby; "This Little World," by David Christie Murray; "The Millionaires," by Frank Frankfort Moore; "The Queen's Cup," by G. A. Henty; "The Scourge of God," by J. Bloundelle Burton; "Materfamilias," by Mrs. Ada Cambridge Cross; "Torn Sails," by Allen Raine; "The Lake of Wine," by Bernard Capes; "A Fiery Ordeal," by Mrs. Jessie Fraser Couvreur ("Tasma"); and "John of Strathbourne," by R. D. Chetwode. Among favorite additions to Lippincott's Select Novels Series may be quoted "In the Shadow of the Three," by Blanche Loftus Tottenham; "Poor Max," by Mrs. Mannington Caffyn ("Iota"), and "Mrs. Balmaine's Past," by Mrs. Bertha M. Croker. The Hudson Library was increased by "Wheat in the Ear," by "Alien"; "The Confessions of Stephen Whapshare," by Emma Brooke, and "As Having Nothing," by Hester Caldwell Oakley, an American author, we believe, though quoted here for convenience. "Wild Eelin," the last published story of William Black, is rich in descriptions of Scottish scenery. Along with this, other novels that were in good demand from English pens are Le Queux's "Scribes and Pharisees," Rosa Nouchette Carey's "Mollie's Prince," "The Londoners," by Robert S. Hichens; "Peggy of the Bartons," by Mrs. Bertha M. Croker; "Young Blood," by Ernest W. Hornung; "The World's Rough Hand," by H. Phelps Whitmarsh; "The Fatal Gift," by Frank Frankfort Moore; "The Crook of the Bough," by Mrs. Henry Norman (Ménie Muriel Dowie); "By Order of the Magistrate," by W. Pett Ridge; "A Valuable Life," by Adeline Sergeant; "John Gilbert, Yeoman," by R. G. Soans; "The Duenna of a Genius," by M. E. Francis; "The Standard-Bearer" and "The Red Axe," by S. R. Crockett; "The Gun-runner," by Bertram Mitford; "John Splendid," by Neil Munro; "The Lady of Castell March," by Owen Rhoscomyl; "The Potentate," by Frances Forbes Robertson, and "Fighting for Favour," by W. G. Tarbets.

The English short story grows in popularity. The twelve stories by Rudyard Kipling in "The Day's Work" have been awarded unstinted praise. The volume has taken the lead in best-selling books. Dr. Watson's ("Ian Maclaren") "Afterwards, and Other Stories" represent some of the best efforts of his genius. "King Circumstance," by Edwin Pugh, is a volume of short and rather sad stories of English home and country life. "Life is Life, and Other Tales and Episodes" is the first published volume of an English girl, Miss Gwendoline Keats, who masqueraded under the pseudonym of "Zack." Devonshire peasant life finds pessimistic representation through these stories. "Tales of Unrest," by Joseph Conrad; "Dreamers of the Ghetto," by Israel Zangwill, and "A Creel of Irish Stories," by Jane Barlow, about complete the list of notable English fiction.

The translations in fiction from foreign languages were rather meagre considering the very large Continental output. "The Head of the Family," just finished by Alphonse Daudet before his death, is the most important novel published in this country from the French. The book appeared in England under the title of "The Bread-Winner," which appears to better describe it than "The Head of the Family." But the similarity of the title with "The Bread-Winners" of American fame caused the first title to be discarded. It is a story of French domestic life with the struggle with poverty, and is lacking in some of the attractive qualities of Daudet's earlier work. Paul Bourget's "Antigone" and "The Disciple" found translators. "Antigone" is a series of fanciful "portraits of women"; "The Disciple" is aimed at the methods of modern scientists and is scathing. Also from the French are Marie-Henri Beyle's "Red and Black," a chronicle of the nineteenth century; Madame Gay's "Marie de Mancini," a romantic episode of the early days of Louis XIV.; "The Terror," a romance of the French Revolution, by Felix Gras; "The Disaster," by Paul and Victor Margueritte, the story of the defeat of the French in the Franco-Prussian war; "The Red Lily," by Anatole France, and "Paris," the concluding volume of Zola's trilogy of which "Lourdes" and "Rome" were the first and second volumes. German fiction is only represented by a few works: "Arachne," the last romance of Georg Ebers; Lola Kirschner's "The Story of a Genius," Sudermann's "Regina" and Voss's "The New God." This is a story of the days of Tiberius and is dressed in the livery of the Odd Number Series. In Italian fiction we have only to note two novels of D'Annunzio—"The Intruder" and "The Maidens of the Rocks." From the Hungarian three of Maurus Jókai's stirring novels appeared in English. They were "The Lion of Janina," "Midst the Wild Carpathians," and "The Nameless Castle." "Niobe" is from the Norwegian of Jonas Kirkwood Lie, "Meir Ezofovitch" from the Polish of Eliza Orzeszko, "The Story of Gösta Berling" from the Swedish of Selma Lagerlöf, and "Maria Felicia" from the Czech of Caroline Svetla. The little series entitled Stories from Foreign Authors embraced interesting translations put forth under the sub-titles "German," "Spanish," "Italian," "Russian," "Polish, Greek, Belgian, Hungarian" and "Scandinavian." Each volume contained stories of representative novelists.

BIOGRAPHY AND MEMOIRS.

The revived interest in Benjamin Franklin is the only striking feature in American biography of 1898. From a number of volumes written for young people and old we select as best worth recalling "The True Benjamin Franklin," by Sydney G. Fisher, a vigorous and authentic portrait of this really great man, and "Benjamin Franklin, Printer, Statesman, Philosopher, and Practical Citizen, 1706-1790," by Edward Robins, the first issue of a new series—American Men of Energy—and a composite picture of fresh interest. A sequel to "The Itinerary of the Revolution (1775-1783)," published in 1892, was offered in W. Spohn Baker's "Washington after the Revolution, 1784-1799," a compilation of letters referring to Washington's personal matters and a valuable treasure hitherto not at the disposal of the public. Another life was written of "Ulysses S. Grant," by Hamlin Garland, who claims that it is the first personal life of the great commander. In the Great Educators Series was issued "Horace Mann and the Common School Revival in the United States," by Burke Aaron Hinsdale, which tells simply and clearly the facts of this famous educator.

"Cheerful Yesterdays" are chapters from the life of Thomas Wentworth Higginson; Admiral Franklin tells of his career in "Memories of a Rear-Admiral," the narrative covering more than fifty years of service in the American Navy. "The Life of David Dudley Field," by his brother, Dr. Field, has for its subject one of our greatest lawyers and reformers. "Early Letters of George William Curtis to John S. Dwight" relate to Brook Farm and Concord and men Mr. Curtis met in his youth who afterwards became famous. "The Life and Letters of Paul the Apostle" belongs to religious biography and is a scholarly work of great beauty by Dr. Lyman Abbott.

Other American biographies of the year whose story is told by the title are: "Hawaii's Story, by Hawaii's Queen"; "Memoirs and Letters of James Kent, L.L.D.," late Chancellor of the State of New York; "Eugene Field in His Home," by Ida Comstock Below; "Charles Carleton Coffin, War Correspondent, Traveller, Author, Statesman," by Dr. W. Elliott Griffiths; "Passages from the Correspondence and other papers of Rufus W. Griswold"; "American Bookmen," by M. A. De Wolfe Howe; "Jerome Savonarola," by the Rev. J. L. O'Neill; "The Life of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, 1737-1832," by Kate Mason Rowland; "Life and Letters of Thomas Kilby Smith," by Walter G. Smith; "Eighty Years and More (1815-1897)," being reminiscences of Elizabeth Cady Stanton; Ida Husted Harper's "Life and Work of Susan B. Anthony"; two lives of Frances E. Willard; and "Samuel E. Sewall," a memoir by Nina Moore Tiffany.

A year that reported the deaths of men as great and famous as Gladstone and Bismarck necessarily gave forth literature relating to them. From English sources the best biography of Gladstone was Justin McCarthy's "The Story of Gladstone's Life," published previous to 1897, but of which a new revised and enlarged edition carrying the narrative down to the great statesman's death was issued after his death; "Gladstone, the Man," a non-political biography by D. Williamson, treats entirely of his private life: "Mr. Gladstone," a monograph, by Sir E. W. Hamilton, describes, by one who knew him closely for nearly forty years, some of his personal and mental characteristics; "William Ewart Gladstone," a volume for which the material was gathered some years ago, was wholly revised before its publication. Mr. James Bryce makes through its pages a frank analysis of Mr. Gladstone's character.

"The Life of Henry Drummond," by his intimate friend, Dr. George Adam Smith, appeals to the thousands of readers who were fascinated with his book, "The Greatest Thing in the World." "Newman Hall's Autobiography" introduces us to many men of distinction in the past and present. Heroes of the Reformation is a new series that found reprinting here. Its first number was "Martin Luther," by Dr. H. Eyster Jacobs; its second, "Phillip Melancthon," by Dr. James W. Richard. The volume of the year in the Heroes of the Nations Series was Stanley Lane Poole's "Saladin and the Fall of the Kingdom of Jerusalem." Character-studies of eminent Englishmen, illustrated with amusing and pointed anecdotes, predominate in the "Collections and Recollections" of G. W. E. Russell. The biographical and critical study of "Christina Rossetti," by H. T. Mackenzie Bell, gives a review of her life and an estimate of her works. "Letters of Dante Gabriel Rossetti to William Allingham, 1854-1870," is an important contribution to the history of the pre-Raphaelite group. Mr. Spurgeon published the first part of his autobiography. A correspondence, now published in full for the first time, between "Robert Burns and Mrs. Dunlop" has an unusual literary and personal interest. The same may be said of the letters which make up "Charles Lamb and the Lloyds." David Wilson, in a thick volume—"Mr. Froude and Carlyle"—strongly condemns the methods of the Sage's biographer. "H. R. H. the Prince of Wales" covers the career of the prince—his birth, education, travels, marriage, etc. "John Ruskin" as a social reformer was studied by John Atkinson Hobson. "Paul Kruger and His Times," by Francis Reginald Statham, discusses a many-sided and famous man. The new Biographical Edition now being published of the works of Thackeray approaches as nearly in its biographical introductions by his daughter, Anne Ritchie, to a biography of the author of "Vanity Fair" as we have so far been able to obtain. With histories of the writing of his novels delightful personal details are intermingled.

Importations were made in small editions of the following important English biographies: New volumes in the Famous Scots Series were

"Robert Fergusson," by A. B. Grosart; "William Dunbar," by Oliphant Smeaton; "David Hume," by Henry Calderwood, and "Mungo Park," by T. Banks MacLachlan. "John Bright," by C. A. Vince, appeared in The Victorian Era Series. "Sir James Young Simpson and Chloroform (1811-1870)," by H. Laing Gordon, was the third volume in the Masters of Medicine Series. To the Foreign Statesmen Series, "Mirabeau," by Paul Ferdinand Willert, was added. Still to be named were Henderson's "Stonewall Jackson and the American Civil War" (2 v.); Sidney Lee's "Life of Shakespeare"; Barry O'Brien's "Life of Charles Stewart Parnell"; Forbes' "Life of Napoleon III."; "The Life and Times of Cardinal Wiseman," by Wilfrid Ward (2 v.); Henry B. Irving's "Life of Judge Jeffreys"; "The Cheverels of Cheverel Manor," by Lady Newdigate-Newdigate; "W. G. Wills, Dramatist and Painter," by Freeman Wills; "Admiral Duncan," by the Earl of Camperdown; "Memoirs of a Highland Lady," the autobiography of Elizabeth Grant of Rothiemurchus; and the life and correspondence of "George Thomson, the Friend of Burns," by J. Cuthbert Hadden.

An unflattering picture of the great German Chancellor was taken from the French of Jules Hoche. It is called "The Real Bismarck." Likewise from the French came a biography of "Alphonse Daudet," by his son Léon; the memoirs of the Chevalier de Pontgibaud, under the title "A French Volunteer of the War of Independence," and "The Letters of Victor Hugo" from exile and after the fall of the Empire.

Just at the close of the year we received "Bismarck the Man and Statesman" (2 v.), being the reflections and reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, written and dictated by himself after his retirement from office. This translation, made under great pressure, is excellent. It is taken from the German, of course, and stands for the leading biography of 1898. Busch's "Bismarck" (2 v.), an almost equally important work, belongs to the earlier months of the year. Ferdinand Sonnenburg's "Bismarck" also found translation. Leudet's "Emperor of Germany" and Max Müller's "Auld Lang Syne" conclude notable works of this class.

HISTORY.

Historical works from American writers relate largely to our war with Spain, as their titles denote. Among the best were: "A Short History of the War with Spain," by Marrión Wilcox; "History of the Spanish-American War," by Henry Watterson; "Our Navy in the War with Spain," by J. R. Spears; "The War with Spain," by Charles Morris; "The Santiago Campaign, 1898," by General Joseph Wheeler; "The Fall of Santiago," by T. J. Vivian; and "The Cuban and Porto Rican Campaigns," by Richard Harding Davis. In line with these are: "Four Centuries of Spanish Rule in Cuba," by Italo Emilio Canini; "The Spaniard in History," by Rev. James C. Fernald; "The Establishment of Spanish Rule in America," by Bernard Moses; and "The Spanish Revolution, 1868-1875," by E. H. Strobel.

Outside of this hurriedly prepared and necessarily undigested literature but few important works in this department claim attention. Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution," which charmed so many readers in its course through Scribner's Magazine, from its fresh points of view and its delightful style, appeared in book form during the holiday season, with a wealth of historic illustration. An unusual interest attaches to Dr. Henry Clay Trumbull's "War Memories of an Army Chaplain." It tells of a long and varied experience with the men in the ranks during the Civil War, and is a sad and pathetic record, illumined by thrilling deeds of bravery and patriotism. "Reminiscences of the Old Navy," by Edgar Stanton Maclay; Hezekiah Butterworth's "South America," Mrs. Archibald Dixon's "The True History of the Missouri Compromise and its Repeal," Moses M. Granger's "Washington vs. Jefferson," and "The Underground Railroad from Slavery to Freedom," by Wilbur H. Siebert, complete the present enumeration. Charles A. Dana's "Recollections of the Civil War," a fascinating volume, also belongs here.

An English journalist, G. W. Stevens, is to be credited with one of the most delightful volumes on recent history-making to the Soudan, entitled "With Kitchener to Khartum." Mr. Stevens produced two other volumes during the year which are more than half-way between history and description, leaning largely to the latter subject; but we prefer to quote them here with his other work. Early in the year he published "With the Conquering Turk," and later "Egypt in 1898." "China in Transformation," while it simply aims to give the general reader an account of the present condition of China, is a very excellent piece of work based upon actual observation. The author is Archibald Ross Colquhoun. The new volumes in The Story of the Nations Series were "Modern France, 1789-1895," by André Lebon, and "The Franks" from their origin as a confederacy to the establishment of the kingdom of France and the German Empire, by Louis Sergeant. In the Story of the Empire Series, a new series of small books devoted to the rise of Great Britain's wealth and power throughout the world, were issued "The Rise of an Empire," by Sir Walter Besant; "The Story of India," by Demetrius Boulger; "The Story of Australia," by Flora L. Shaw; and "The Story of Canada," by Howard Angus Kennedy. "The Romance of the House of Savoy, 1003-1519" (2 v.), by Alethea Wiel, is delightfully personal and anecdotal.

Importations were made in small quantities of the following valuable English works: "The Egyptian Soudan," by H. S. L. Alford and W. D. Sword; "Sirdar and Khalifa," by Bennet G. Burleigh; "Fighting the Matabele," by J. Chalmers; "Russia's Sea Power Past and Present," by Sir G. S. Clarke; volume 2 of Clowes's "History of the Royal Navy"; Corbett's "Drake and the Tudor Navy" (2 v.); Harris's "Diplomatic History of America"; Sir Richard Temple's "A Bird's-eye View of Picturesque India"; W. J. Stillman's "The Union of Italy, 1815-1895"; "The Story of the Malakand Field Force," by Winston L. S. Churchill; "Africa in the Nineteenth Century," by Edgar Sanderson; and "All the World's Fighting Ships," by F. T. Jane.

Edmond Demoulin's "Anglo-Saxon Superiority" was translated from the tenth French edition. Also from the French came two additional volumes from the prolific pen of Imbert de Saint-Amand—"Napoleon III. and His Court" and "The Court of the Second Empire." An additional volume was added to Sybel's "Founding of the German Empire by William I.," supposed to have been completed with the sixth. This was taken from the German by Helene S. White.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

Our new colonial possessions were the subjects of numerous volumes of more or less merit. The additions to American literature are chiefly "Yesterdays in the Philippines," by Joseph Earle Stevens, whose information was gained through a two years' residence in Manila; "The Story of the Philippines," by Murat Halstead; "The Philippine Islands and Their People," by Dean C. Worcester, a record of personal observation and experience, and from an English writer, we believe, but quoted here for convenience; "Manila and the Philippines," by Margherita Arlina Hamm, also based on the author's personal experience. "Commercial Cuba" is a most valuable book for business men, rich in statistics, illustrations, maps, and plans, by W. J. Clarke; then there is "Cuba and Porto Rico," by Robert T. Hill; "The Story of Beautiful Porto Rico," by C. H. Rector; and "Cuba at a Glance," by Emma B. Kaufman and Annie O'Hagan; and Davey's "Cuba, Past and Present" (an importation). "Vacation Days in Hawaii and Japan," by C. M. Taylor, Jr., and "Hawaii and a Revolution," by Mary H. Krout, give information about another recent acquisition. Grover Flint's "Marching with Gomez" gives the fleeting impressions of a newspaper correspondent. Other books of kindred topics are "A Note-book in Northern Spain," by Archer M. Huntington; "A Corner of Spain," by Mrs. Miriam Coles Harris, the author of "Rutledge;" and "De Soto and His Men in the Land of Florida," by Grace King.

Mexico of to-day is the subject of Charles Fletcher Lummis's "The Awakening of a Nation"; and Alaska was studied by Harry De Windt in a work called "Through the Gold Fields of Alaska to Behring Straits," by Alice Palmer Henderson in "The Rainbow's End—Alaska," and by A. P. Swineford, ex-Governor of Alaska, in "Alaska, its History, Climate, and Natural Resources," a work of some scope and considerable usefulness.

Gossipy works with a good basis of information are Mrs. J. King Van Rensselaer's "The Goede Vrouw of Mana-ha-ta at Home and in Society," covering the period from 1609 to 1760; "Historic Homes of the Southwest Mountains, Va.," by E. C. Mead, describing old houses belonging to once famous people; "Some Colonial Mansions and Those Who Lived in Them," edited by Thomas Allen Glenn, being the first volume of a work of three volumes to be devoted to well-known American families and their ancestors, and "Where Ghosts Walk," historical and literary reminiscences that will forever cling to certain places, written in a very taking style by "Marion Harland" (Mrs. Terhune).

A great literary interest invests Francis Marion Crawford's "Ave Roma Immortalis." Rarely has the romance of the Eternal City been so delightfully served to cultured readers. "The Isles and Shrines of Greece" comes also from a man of broad culture, the Rev. S. J. Barrows. The present and past glories of Greece find most sympathetic and scholarly description. Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood, who seems to have known everybody in the world, and to have been all over it, gave permanent shape to her reminiscences in "Here, There, and Everywhere." Other works to be named are: Charles A. Dana's "Eastern Journeys," the Rev. Ja. S. Gale's "Korean Sketches," the Rev. George H. Hepworth's "Through Armenia on Horseback," Robert E. Peary's "Northward Over the Great Ice," Agnes Repplier's "Philadelphia," and Hugh L. Willoughby's "Across the Everglades."

"The Land of Contrasts" is a Briton's view of his American kin, by James Fullarton Muirhead and a most clever readable book. While not ignoring our defects, the writer's chief aim is to dwell upon those features of American civilization in which it seems to him John Bull may learn from Brother Jonathan. Other works from English pens mostly imported in small editions were Sir Walter Besant's "South London," a complementary volume to the author's "London" and "Westminster"; "The Land of the Pigmies," by Captain Guy Burrows, in the service of the Congo Free State; "With Ski and Sledge Over Arctic Glaciers," by Sir W. Martin Conway, an appendix to "The First Crossing of Spitzbergen," published in 1897; Sven Hedin's "Through Asia" (2 v.), Lionel Decle's "Three Years in Savage Africa," Henry M. Stanley's "Through South Africa," being letters written in 1897 from Bulawayo, Johannesburg, and Pretoria; Merewether's "A Tour Through the Famine Districts of India," a journalistic account of personal investigation; "Through China with a Camera" depicts with pen and kodak the present Celestial Kingdom, John Thompson being the author. A unique journey by a woman is the subject of Ella C. Sykes's "Through Persia on a Side-Saddle." Mr. Landor's explorations of Southern Tibet, his capture, imprisonment, and torture, find graphic description "In the Forbidden Land" (2 v.). Another eventful journey to the same country is M. S. Wellby's "Through Unknown Tibet." Add to these H. Warrington-Smith's "Five Years in Siam, from 1891 to 1896," Herbert Vivian's "Servia, the Poor Man's Paradise," R. A. H. Beckford-Smith's "Cretan Sketches," Fitzgerald's "Travels in the Coast-lands of British East Africa," and from the French Huc's "Travels in Tartary, Thibet, and China," Lachambre's and Machuron's "Andrée's Balloon Expedition in Search of the North Pole," the Prince Henri D'Orléans' "From Tonkin to India," and from the Norwegian Astrup's "With Peary Near the Pole."

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY.

This department is rich in helpful book studies of the literature of various countries and periods, bibliographies, manuals, etc. "Worldly Ways and Byways" was among the few original works in this line that received very favorable notice. The shrewd, witty papers which the title covers first appeared in the New York Evening Post. They cleverly hit American life and manners. The author, Eliot Gregory, wrote under the pseudonym of "An Idler." Hamilton Wright Mabie's "Essays on Work and Culture" and John Jay Chapman's "Emerson and Other Essays" were also popular volumes with readers of intelligence and refinement. New studies of nature are represented by Bradford Torrey's "A World of Green Hills" and Dr. C. Conrad Abbott's "Clear Skies and Cloudy," "A Century of French Fiction" was written about by Benjamin W. Wells; and "An Introduction to American Literature," prepared by H. Spackman Pancoast. "An introduction to the Study of the Renaissance" is the work of Lillian F. Field; "How to Study Shakespeare" comes from W. H. Fleming; and "Glimpses of Modern German Culture," by Kuno Francke, consists of papers originally published in The Nation, The Bookman, and other journals.

"Elements of Literary Criticism," by C. F. Johnson, "Principles and Methods of Literary Criticism," by Lorenzo Sears, "Social Ideals in English Letters," by Vida Dutton Scudder, and "Music and Poetry," by Sidney Lanier, are all valuable manuals for the literary student. Essays are embraced in Mellen Chamberlain's "John Adams, the Statesman of the American Revolution" and Leon H. Vincent's "The Bibliotaph and Other People." Both practical and with a charming literary quality is Ellwanger's "Meditations on Gout." "Facts About Book Worms" relates to the real book worm that devours books, written by Rev. J. F. L. O'Connor. Excellent works of reference for the literary delver were published under the following titles: "The Century Atlas of the World," prepared under the superintendence of B. E. Smith; "The Bookman Literary Yearbook, 1898," edited by James Macarthur; "Chambers's Biographical Dictionary"; "The Novels of 1897," compiled by W. M. Griswold; "The Annual Literary Index, 1897," by W. I. Fletcher and R. R. Bowker; "List of French Fiction," by Mme. Sophie Cornu and W. Beer; "Cumulative Index to a Selected List of Periodicals, 1897," "Trade List Annual, 1898," "Annual American Catalogue, 1897," and A. Growoll's "Book-Trade Bibliography in the United States in the 19th Century." And from English sources "English Catalogue of Books for 1897," and T. B. Harbottle's "Dictionary of Classical quotations."

To the Literatures of the World Series several admirable literary histories were added, chiefly from English writers, such as Garnett's "History of Italian Literature," Gosse's "Short History of Modern English Literature," and James Fitzmaurice Kelly's "History of Spanish Literature." In line with these are Saintsbury's "Short History of English Literature"; "The Later Renaissance," by David Hannay, in Periods of European Literature; and "A Study of English Prose," by J. Scott Clark. "A Literary History of India," the initial volume in The Library of Literary History deals with the intellectual growth of India, and is the work of the distinguished scholar, Robert W. Frazer. Essays on a variety of subjects are embraced in Leslie Stephen's "Studies of a Biographer," Herbert Spencer's "Various Fragments," and Austin Dobson's "Miscellanies." "Book-Plates, Old and New," is a brief article made valuable by reproductions of many rare plates. It is from J. A. Gade. Gissing's "Charles Dickens" is a critical study. "The Pleasures of Literature and the Solace of Books" is a delightful compilation from ancient and modern writers by Joseph Shaylor; and "Talks with Mr. Gladstone," by L. A. Tolle-mache, are upon books, men and women, and political questions. Brunetière's "Manual of the History of French Literature" is an excellent résumé of the subject brought down to the end of the epoch of naturalism, in the year 1875. Literary portraits, with an estimate of their works of the principal romancers and essayists, are embraced in Yetta Blaze de Bury's "French Literature of To-day." Both of the last-mentioned works are translations from the French. From the Dutch we received a translation by Alfred Sutro of Maeterlinck's "Wisdom and Destiny."

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

In no class of literature was the poverty of the year's output so plainly demonstrated as in Poetry. After naming Lloyd Miffin's "The Slopes of Helicon," "Shapes and Shadows," by Madison Cawein, Mrs. Florence Earle Coates' "Poems," Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson's "In This Our World," Richard Watson Gilder's "In Palestine, and other poems," Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's "From Sunset Ridge," Mrs. Ella Higginson's "When the Birds go North Again," there seems little else to remember from American poets. Walter Learned edited a charming volume, "A Treasury of American Verse." To a Canadian poet and novelist, C. G. Douglas Roberts, must be credited one of the finest poetical efforts of the year—"New York Nocturnes." Stephen Phillips' "Poems" and Lionel Johnson's "Ireland, and Other Poems," published in England in 1897, were with us part of the output of the current year. "A Lowden Sabbath Morn," one of Robert L. Stevenson's poems of Scotch rural life, was illustrated and issued in gift-book style. Bernard Shaw's "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant," with all their disagreeable qualities, were notable additions to English dramatic literature. They were reprinted in this country. The translation from the Dutch of Vondel's "Lucifer" was an interesting literary event. Numerous editions from the French of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," and several new renderings of "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám" marked the year.

ART BOOKS AND WORKS ON ART.

Lew Wallace's "The Fair God," illustrated by Eric Pape, and Mable's "In the Forest of Arden," decorated by Will H. Low, were the only American art books of 1898 showing original designs of any importance. They were both very beautiful books. A number of works, some new and others new editions of standards, appeared in illustrated editions for the holiday trade, profusely illustrated from photographs. Among these were Fiske's "The Beginnings of New England," Lodge's "Story of the American Revolution," Crawford's "Ave Roma Immortalis," Estelle M. Hurl's "Life of Our Lord in Art," and Adams's "In Nature's Image." A limited edition was imported from England of Walter Armstrong's "Gainsborough and His Place in English Art." It was a magnificent specimen of bookmaking and a notable addition to art works. The Rhead Brothers' illustrations to "The Pilgrim's Progress" are admitted by experienced critics to be the finest designs yet made for this world-renowned book. An edition of Bunyan's immortal volume with these illustrations was one of the incidents of the close of the year. "London Types" represents one of the most modern and original of English illustrators, William Nicholson. The work found a wide sale in this country. Essays on architectural history are contained in "The Column and the Arch," by an American writer, W. P. P. Longfellow. Also from one of our own writers is John C. Van Dyke's "Nature for Its Own Sake," first studies in light, form, and color for every-day people. Du Maurier's "Social Pictorial Satire" deals with the work of John Leech and Charles Keene and other artists who became famous through Punch. "History of Modern Italian Art," by Ashton Rollins Willard, was written to prove that the statement that modern Italian art is degenerate is founded on prejudice and lack of information. Paul Helleu's "Drypoints and Drawings" consists of reproductions in photogravures from the originals of a Parisian artist's finest work. Eugene Muntz's "Leonardo Da Vinci," also from the French, considers the great Italian painter both as artist and man. Tolstoy's "What is Art?" from the Russian original, is a philosophical contribution to the subject.

Music, which we always include under this heading, received an unusual number of contributions. To American pens are to be credited "Music, How it Came to be What it Is," by Hannah Smith; "What is Good Music?" by W. J. Henderson; "Music and Manners in the Classical Period," by H. E. Krehbiel; to English writers, "Violin Making as it Was and Is," by E. Heron-Allen; "Handbook of Acoustics for the Use of Musical Students," by T. F. Harris; "Handbook of Musical History and Bibliography," by James E. Matthew; "The Masters and Their Music," by W. S. B. Mathews; "Makers of Music," by R. F. Sharp; to the French, Albert Lavignac's "The Music Dramas of Richard Wagner"; and to the German, "The History of Music," by Emil Nauman. The musical works from foreign sources were mostly importations.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

Our currency complications and many financial questions were treated by American authors in Noyes's "Thirty Years of American Finance," Brough's "Open Mints and Free Banking," Edward Dana Durand's "Finances of New York City," Perry Belmont's "Republican Responsibility for Present Currency Perils," H. B. Russell's "International Monetary Conferences," and Moses Samelson's "How to Right a Wrong," in which the author's remedy for all our ills is a single graduated tax on surplus wealth. Timely monographs were Benjamin Kidd's "The Control of the Tropics" and Theodore Salisbury Woolsey's "America's Foreign Policy." The first work attracted wide attention and is a strong argument in favor of the supremacy of the white man in the tropics. The second consists of chapters on various subjects connected with our war with Spain, Cuba, and Hawaii, on the Monroe doctrine, etc. Our national and local methods of government were analyzed in "Modern Political Institutions," by Simeon E. Baldwin; "Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy," by Edwin Lawrence Godkin; "Congressional Committees," by L. G. McConachie; and "A History of the Presidency," by Edward Stanwood. In line with these important works is Francis Newton Thorpe's "A Constitutional History of the American People, 1776-1850," a careful and comprehensive study of the evolution of government in this country, in two large volumes; and the second part of "The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," by Hannis Taylor, being devoted to "The After-Growth of the Constitution," tracing the system out of which grew our own federal government. "Glimpses of England," by the Rev. Moses Coit Tyler, is made up of selected essays on interesting Englishmen, and incidents of English life, social, political, and artistic. "Women and Economics," by Charlotte Perkins, is a study of the economic relation between men and women as a factor in social evolution. The last work of Henry George's life was "The Science of Political Economy," even wider in scope than the world-famous "Progress and Poverty." A peaceable solution of the social problem is Laurence Gronlund's "The New Economy," embracing many practical measures in the way of economic and social reform.

Notes of a visit to co-operative workshops, factories, and farms in Great Britain and Ireland, in which employer, employee, and consumer share in ownership, management, and results, are the substance of Henry Demarest Lloyd's "Labor Copartnership." "Workingmen's Insurance," by William Franklin Willoughby, in the Library of Economics and Politics, is an interesting practical study; "The Bargain Theory of Wages," by John Davidson, is a contribution to the wage question. The second part of Walter A. Wyckoff's "The Workers" was issued in book form. It takes the reader to the slums of Chicago, and makes him acquainted with the anarchists and phases of life among the very poor.

"The History of the Woman's Club Movement in America," by Mrs. Croly, is most comprehensive. Other works belonging to social science and of a popular character are Dr. Josiah Strong's "The Twentieth Century City"; "The Gate Called Beautiful," by Edward A. Warriner; Wingate's "What Shall Our Boys Do for a Living?"; Dr. Banks's "The Christian Gentleman"; Helen Watterson Moody's "The Unquiet Sex"; Mrs. Burton Harrison's "The Well-Bred Girl in Society"; and Elizabeth Glover's "The Gentle Art of Pleasing." These from American writers; while from English came "Maids, Wives, and Bachelors," by Mrs. A. E. Barr; "A Word to Women," by Mrs. C. E. Humphry; and "A Study of Mary Wollstonecraft and the Rights of Woman," by Emma R. Clough. A résumé of the evidence educed by the Lexow Commission in New York City a few years ago is given in "Satan's Invisible World Displayed," by William T. Stead, the editor of Review of Reviews. Sidney and Beatrice Webb's "Industrial Democracy," a scientific analysis of trade-unionism in Great Britain, was one of the works of permanent value. Interesting studies from the French are Gaullieur's "The Paternal State in France and Germany"; and from the German we received Stuckenbergs's "Introduction to the Study of Sociology," and Werner Sombart's "Socialism and the Social Movement in the 19th Century." A little book of an entirely humorous nature from a Western journalist, F. Peter Dunne, called "Mr. Dooley in Peace and War," might find mention here. It wittily scored current topics.

THEOLOGY AND RELIGION.

The contributions to religious literature were notably small. The majority of volumes consist of sermons or addresses, few special studies belonging to the year. Among the latter may be mentioned Dr. Harry E. Richards's "The Mystery of Life," a study of Revelation in the light of science by a scientist and believer in conditional immortality; Dr. W. H. Green's "General Introduction to the Old Testament," treating historically of the canon of the Old Testament; a work in pastoral theology entitled "The Christian Pastor and the Working Church," by the Rev. Washington Gladden, in the International Theological Library. "An Outline of Christian Theology," by the Rev. W. Newton Clarke, an amplification and revision of the volume issued privately by the author a few years ago; "The Post-Apostolic Age," by the Rev. Lucius Waterman, being the second volume in Ten Epochs of Church History; and "The New Testament Church," studies of the doctrines of the Baptist Church, are correlated topics by the Rev. W. H. H. Marsh.

Volumes of sermons or religious papers are embraced in the following titles: "Paul and His Friends," by Dr. L. Albert Banks; "The New Puritanism," by the Rev. Lyman Abbott and others; "Interpretations of Life and Religion," by Dr. Walter W. Battershall; "The Wondrous Cross," by Dr. David James Burrell; "Visions," Sunday morning sermons at St. Bartholomew's, New York City; "A National Church," being the Bedell lectures for 1897, by W. Reed Huntington; "The Message of Christ to Manhood," being the William Belden Noble lectures for 1898, by Dr. A. V. G. Allen, Dr. Francis G. Peabody, and others; "Current Questions for Thinking Men," by Robert Stewart McArthur; "A Door Opened," breathing of religious life in its various relations, by Dr. Alexander McKenzie, of Cambridge; "Afternoons in the College Chapel," short addresses to young men on personal religion, by Francis Greenwood Peabody; and "The Story of the Christian Church," by Dr. G. R. Crooks, originally given as lectures to classes at the Drew Theological Seminary.

The second volume of Dr. George Adam Smith's "The Book of the Twelve Prophets, Commonly Called the Minor," completed the "Expositor's Bible"; the series now embracing forty-nine volumes. Other expository and stimulating studies, likewise from the other side, are "Colossian Studies," by H. C. G. Moule, and "The Poetry and the Religion of the Psalms," by Dr. James Robertson (Croall lectures, 1893-94). Good, practical advice for ministers is the substance of "The Clerical Life," by Dr. John Watson, Dr. Marcus Dods, and others. Also for ministers and teachers is the Rev. Walker Gwynne's compilation of "Five Hundred Stories and Illustrations"; Dr. Watson's "Companions of the Sorrowful Way," nine chapters of reflections upon the last days of Jesus Christ on earth, rich in new meanings set forth in the author's peculiarly fascinating style; "The Gospel of Joy," by A. Stopford Brooke, consists of sermons. Hitherto unpublished addresses of Henry Drummond's are bound together under the title "The Ideal Life"; Dr. Hugh Macmillan's "The Spring of the Day" is a companion book to "The Clock of Nature," and is made on the same lines of teaching and illustration; "Selections from the Works of Bishop Thorold" relates to many subjects; "New Forms of Christian Education," by Mrs. Humphry Ward, is an address setting forth this writer's belief in the coming of a new Christian philosophy; "Behind the Pardah," by Irene H. Barnes, is an inspiring chapter in mission work in India; Renan's "The Apostles," translated from the French by Joseph H. Allen and edited also by him, is the eighth and concluding volume in the Renan histories being published here. It was first issued in the original in 1866.

SCIENCE.

"The Wonderful Century," by Alfred Russel Wallace, takes note of the great material and intellectual achievements of the nineteenth century and also of the failures. "Wireless Telegraphy Popularly Explained," by R. Kerr, is one of the few original contributions to Science proper. Nature books were not so numerous as in past years. To American writers we owe "Birds of the United States East of the Rocky Mountains," by A. C. Agar, "Birds that Hunt and are Hunted," by Neltje Blanchan; "How to Name the Birds," by H. E. Parkhurst; "Bird Studies," by W. E. D. Scott; "Birds of Village and Field," by Florence A. Merriam; "Familiar Life in Field and Forest," by T. S. Mathews; "Moths and Butterflies of the United States," by Sherman F. Denton (pt. 1); and "The Wild Flowers of California," by Mary Elizabeth Parsons. To England we must credit Grant Allen's "Flashlights on Nature"; the third volume of Britton and Brown's "An Illustrated Flora of the Northern United States, Canada, and the British Possessions"; and Richard Kearton's "With Nature and a Camera," being the adventures and observations of a field naturalist and an animal photographer. "The Groundwork of Science," by St. George Mivart, the second volume in Science Series, is for elementary students. The first volume of this series is "The Study of Man," by Alfred Cort Haddon, more for the amateur and the intelligent reader than the experts. Handbooks for the student were "The Sphere of Science," by Frank Sargent Hoffman, a study of the nature and method of scientific investigation; David Starr Jordan's "Footnotes to Evolution"; "Outlines of the Earth's History," by Nathaniel S. Shaler; and "The Art of Taxidermy," by John Rowley. Mental Science was enriched by "Theories of the Will in the History of Philosophy," by Archibald Alexander; "Evolution, Ethics, and Animal Psychology," by Edward Payson Evans; "Outlines of Descriptive Psychology," by George Trumbull Ladd; and "The Psychology of Suggestion," by Boris Sidis. These are all American books. From the German of Nietzsche was translated the tenth volume of his works, "A Genealogy of Morals." From the French we obtained Louis Proal's important monograph, "Political Crime," no. 4 of the Criminology Series, and

"The Play of Animals," a valuable contribution to biology, animal psychology, and the genetic study of art.

The International Education Series, made up of works by authors both in this country and in Europe, had added to it Harris's "Psychologic Foundations of Education," and Taylor's "The Study of the Child." Other works that enriched Educational Science were Charles W. Eliot's volume of essays and addresses, called "Educational Reform"; N. Murray Butler's "The Meaning of Education"; "The Social Mind and Education," by George Edgar Vincent; "Psychology for Teachers," by C. Lloyd Morgan; "The Development of the Child," by Nathan Oppenheim; and Davidson's "Rousseau and Education According to Nature," in Great Educators Series. M. M. M.

ENGLISH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1898.

THE London Publishers' Circular has compiled the following statistics of the books published in England during the year 1898. The table does not include books published in America and not also published in England, nor books of which the prices have been altered, though the notice of such has filled considerable space in the columns of the Publishers' Circular during the year. Of works published in the United States only we have recorded in our weekly lists during the past year 397; of works reduced in price, 159; and of works of which the price has advanced, 31.

The output of new books and new editions has declined, the number for 1898 being 410 less than in 1897. It is nearly 1000 more than in 1896. Law and miscellaneous are the only two classes in which the total numbers show an increase. In the case of law the increase is a score; and there is double that increase in the case of new educational works, while there is a decrease of a like number in educational reprints. The increase of 200 in miscellaneous works is partly accounted for by the fact that pamphlets have been unusually numerous.

Commenting on these statistics, the editor of the Circular says: "Our analytical table of books published in 1898 will cause some surprise. It is generally taken for granted that there is year by year a constant and steady increase in the number of new books issued, and during recent years there certainly has been a remarkable growth in production. This year, however, the total, counting new works and new editions, is some 400 less than that of 1897. This is a fact for which we dare say few will be prepared, and fewer still will expect to be told that the chief decline is in fiction. Yet new novels and stories for the young are 200 under the figures for the preceding twelve months, while on new editions there is a shrinkage of nearly 100. It was inevitable that sooner or later this decline should take place, and it is better to have it soon than late. When the three-volume novel was abolished everybody who could concoct a story, and many who could not, rushed into print expecting by some magic means to secure glory and pelf. But it was found that natural laws were still in operation, and that the six-shilling novel offered no easier road to fortune than did its cumbrous predecessor.

"Then grumbling recruits began to desert, partly because results were seldom commensurate to expectations, partly because publishers looked askance on works for which the public showed no relish. A grievous mistake had been made by such as fancied that the abolition of the three-volume novel would enable all and sundry who had mastered the elementary rules of grammar or had an itch for writing to leap into fame. As a matter of fact, we believe it is much harder for the tiro to succeed to-day than it was ten or fifteen years ago, not because publishers are less enterprising and appreciative, but because of the inordinate competition of authors themselves. There never was a time when the popular novelist reaped such golden harvests as fall to him to-day, but such harvests are, with rare exceptions, for such as have made a name. The decline in fiction, then, is natural; nor is there any reason for alarm. A nation that receives in the course of twelve months 1758 new stories is scarcely to be pitied for lack of reading.

"Several departments show little variation. Theology shows a slight decline, while in education the total stands as it stood a year ago. Law is up, but political economy, art, science, and travel are slightly down. In regard to works of travel, however, it should be said that if the quantity is less the quality is remarkable. The prophets of the daily press are busily engaged in settling which books are to live and which to die, oblivious of the utter indifference of time to their judgments. It is much too soon to decide how many books of 1898 are ephemeral and how many immortal. But it may be predicted with tolerable certainty that at least one book of travel given to the world last year is likely to have a considerable lease of life. In poetry and the drama the figures of last year are practically repeated. 'Hope springs eternal in the poet's breast; were it not so, he could not go on so zealously producing on such slight encouragement. Year-books are down, which is singular, and essays appear to be going out of fashion. The essay is admittedly one of the most delightful forms of literature; how, then, is it permitted to fall into decay? Is it because the essential talent is wanting, or because spicier things have spoiled the public palate? Medicine and surgery are stationary; but miscellaneous and pamphlets show a substantial increase. History is practically as it was a year ago, a fact on which lovers of literature may congratulate themselves.

"From the publishers' and booksellers' point of view what is to be the verdict upon 1898? We fear that in some respects it must be unfavorable. Throughout the whole twelve months the public mind has been disturbed by political excitement. East and west there have been wars and rumors of wars. In spring the conflict between Spain and the United States diverted the people from books, and in the Far East hostilities were threatened. Consequently the spring season was unsatisfactory. Later came the victory of Omdurman and the excitement over Fashoda. Nevertheless, the autumn season has been a fairly good one for booksellers. From most of the large centres they report a satisfactory turn-over. For some weeks before Christmas trade was exhilaratingly brisk, and it is to be hoped that when accounts are finally made up the year will be found at least an average one. If so, we dare say the trade is likely to be satisfied."

FRENCH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1898.

THE Bibliographie de la France in its issue for December 31, 1898, gives the following figures of the number of books, musical compositions, engravings, etc., issued in France during 1898. The number of books published was 14,781, showing an increase of 982 works compared with the total of 13,799 in 1897. The number of musical compositions was 6312, or 227 more than in 1897, and the number of engravings, lithographs, and photographs was 1303, or 368 less than in 1897.

ENGLISH BOOK SALES OF 1898.

J. H. Slater in the London Athenaeum.

ONE noticeable circumstance may be mentioned in connection with the sales held during the year 1898, and that is the unusual importance of the "miscellaneous" collections. It is customary to associate miscellanea with mediocrity; and though this idea receives, so far as books are concerned, a distinct check once or twice at least every season, it is but seldom that it is almost entirely dissipated. During the past year few sales of this kind have failed to let loose upon the world again, so to speak, books of the greatest importance from a literary as well as a pecuniary point of view. It is not the number only, but their extraordinary variety that cannot fail to strike anyone who looks over the records of the sale-rooms; and in these dispersions of miscellaneous literature the fancy has, in this respect, full play. It is somewhat amusing to find Pierce Egan jostled by Diodorus Siculus and Erasmus, and Leigh Hunt rained upon by the tears of Hunnis, whose "Seven Sobs of a Sorrowful Soule for Sinne" have echoed down the corridors for more than three hundred years. And many of these books, too, no one, unless he be very widely read or extremely enthusiastic in the matter of titles, is at all likely ever to have so much as heard of before. They exist, of course, and may possibly be read sometimes; but they live only in the workshop of the bibliographer, and are strangers without his door, for they speak for the most part of incidents long forgotten and of men whose very names have passed into oblivion. Still they sell for good round sums, many of them, and that is the most curious fact of all. Met with but seldom, and consequently "very scarce," they are greatly coveted. Though dead and worm-eaten, many of these old books—though not all, by any manner of means—speak on to the élite, nor can they be listened to for nought.

On the whole, it may be said that the book sales of 1898 have been extremely important. Of late it has become the fashion to declare that each succeeding year has eclipsed its predecessors in this respect, though that is clearly a fallacy, which may, perhaps, be debited to the account of the great Ashburnham Library, sold in sections during many days, thus keeping the notion of high and increasing prices perpetually before the public. Leaving this library out of the calculation the importance of the sales by auction which have taken place during, say, the last five years has not been phenomenal. There is a noticeable increase in the total amounts realized annually, but nothing more substantial on which to found an argument that valuable books and their owners are soon parted. Change is perpetual, and the same volumes are seen in the auction-rooms at periods which seem to recur with mathematic precision. Nay, the length of each period of acquisition might even be estimated by reference to the insurance tables, so punctually comes the hammer and the end. But this is a barbaric and soulless way of looking at facts, and no true book-lover would countenance it for a moment. Still, to parody the immortal phrase of Galileo, it (the hammer) falls notwithstanding. To what tune, merry or otherwise, it has fallen during the last year this record will substantially show.

The first sale of the year was held by Messrs. Sotheby on January 21 and following day. This may be passed by as containing little of importance. The Skene Library, sold a week later, contained some good books, though the majority were made up into parcels. Beaumont and Fletcher's "Comedies and Tragedies," 1647, with a copy of the edition of "The Wild Goose Chase," 1652, brought £10 (old calf;) ten volumes of the mystical and thoroughly incomprehensible works of Jacob Behman, £5 12s.; Champlain's "Voyages," Paris, 1613, 4to, £11; Montfaucon's "Monuments de la Monarchie Française," on large paper, 5 vols., folio, 1729-1733, £12 15s.; and a large-paper copy of the "Sealed Book" of Charles II., 1662 folio, £15 10s. (red morocco, with the arms of Westminster College.) More important was the library of a gentleman dispersed on February 2, when Allot's "England's Parnassus," first edition, 1600, brought £25 10s. (old calf;) Lescarbot's "Histoire de la Nouvelle France," 1618, 8vo, with the four original maps, £16; the "Marguerites de la Marguerite," Lyons, 1547, 8vo, £22 5s. (fine copy in morocco extra;) the first folio edition of the "Paradise Lost," 1688, £7 7s. (fine copy in ornamented morocco;) "The Court of Civill Courtesie," 1591, 4to, of which only one other copy is known, £20 (calf gilt;) and Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," 1493, folio, twenty-two leaves missing, £150. This particular copy sold in 1897 for £200, while the Earl of Ashburnham's brought £233. That belonging to the Earl, by the way, was the very one which sold at the Roxburghe sale in 1812 for £14 3s. 6d. Later on in the month the "Description de l'Égypte," published by the order of Napoleon I., 23 vols., atlas folio, 1809-28, sold for £22 5s. (half morocco;) the four 4to volumes of "La Galerie Impériale Royale au Belvédère," 1821-28, with proof plates, £16 5s.; Gould's "Birds of New Guinea," complete in the 25 parts, £38; Swinburne's "Laus Veneris," 1866, in the original sheets, £13; and a good copy of "The Turner Gallery," Virtue, n.d., atlas folio, £14 10s. (large-paper proofs.)

The library of the late A. C. Lamb, which was sold at Edinburgh by Mr. Dowell on February 7 and three following days, was of an all-round literary character, which under ordinary circumstances would only need casual notice. The Burns portion of it was, however, of quite exceptional interest, the extensive collection of editions being second to none in private hands. It was on this occasion that the uncut copy of the first, or Kilmarnock, edition of 1786 went for the sum of £572 5s. (original paper covers,) a record price. A copy of the first Edinburgh edition, 1787, sold for £8 in the original boards, and another for double that amount in morocco extra. Most people would think that these amounts ought to have been reversed. A third copy of the same edition, with a presentation inscription by the poet on a blank leaf, brought £31 10s., while another presentation copy of the edition of 1793 realized £67 4s., and Small's "Treatise on Ploughs," 1784, 8vo, with Burns's autograph on the title, £30. "Blind Harry's Metrical History of Sir William Wallace," 1790, 3 vols., also had the poet's autograph on the title-page of vol. i., and for that reason went for £28 7s. The other Burnsiana in this extensive collection, autograph letters excepted, sold for small sums; but that in no way detracts from the immense amount of labor and patience that would be required to acquire such an extensive and representative collection. Mr. Lamb's Shakspearean folios and early quartos were not good enough to command much money. A second folio went for £16, and a third for £60; "Poems," 1640, 12mo, brought £23; "Richard II.," 1634, 4to, £40; "The Merry Wives of Windsor," 1630, 4to, £51; "The Two Noble Kinsmen," 1634, 4to, £24 10s.; "The Merchant of Venice," 1637, 4to, £43; and "Romeo and Juliet," 1637, 4to, £43.

To show to what depth of misery the naturalist Adrovandus and all his works have fallen, it is only necessary to quote the fourteen folio volumes which on February 16 were disposed of by Puttick & Simpson for £1 (old calf gilt.) With this remark I pass on to the sale of the library of the late J. H. Johnson, held by the same firm on February 28 and seven subsequent days. The books all sold well, notably the following: Audsley's "Ornamental Arts of Japan," 2 vols., 1882, folio, £10 15s.; "Biblia Sacra Latina," 1477, folio, £9 10s.; "Biblia Sacra Germanica," Nuremberg, 1483, folio, £22; the first edition of Matthew's Bible, 1537, folio, £18 (title in facsimile and some leaves mended;) the third edition of the Great Bible, July, 1540, folio, £60 (a leaf in facsimile;) Caxton's "Cronycles of Englonde," printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1520, folio, £24 10s.

(defective in parts;) the Kelmscott Chaucer, 1896, £27 10s. (selling now for considerably more, so rapidly are all the Kelmscott books advancing in price;) Cicero's "De Officiis," printed by Sweynheym & Pannartz at Rome in 1469, folio, £20; Froissart's "Cronycles of Englande," 1525, folio, £11 (titles and last leaf in facsimile); Tindale's New Testament, 1536, or "Blank stone" Bible, as it is often called, £20; and Coverdale's New Testament, printed by Nicholson in 1538, small 4to, £18 5s. On March 21 Messrs. Sotheby disposed of one of those miscellaneous assortments to which reference has been made. Some 1650 lots were catalogued, and the total sum realized (£7360) shows their importance. The remarkable collection illustrative of the life and works of Shakspeare, which was to have been offered en bloc at this sale, was previously disposed of by private treaty. There remained, however, a choice collection of Herbals, one of them—the "Buch der Natur," 1475, small folio—bringing as much as £101. This is the first edition of one of the finest woodcut books produced at Augsburg in the fifteenth century. The books relating to gardening, flowers, etc., were also very fine, though high prices were the exception in this instance. "The Boke named Cordiale," printed by Caxton, March 24, 1479, brought £505, being £255 less than last year the imperfect Ashburnham copy sold for; and Boethius's "Consolacions of Philosophie," also printed by Caxton, n.d. (about 1478,) realized £181 (thirty-eight leaves missing.) Then we come to a most important series of Thackerayana from the collection of Mr. MacDowell, assistant to the novelist. A volume of manuscript poems, sketches, etc., in the autograph of Thackeray, realized the handsome sum of £225; the original autograph manuscript of a drama, "The Poor Poet," performed at the Adelphi many years ago "with unbounded applause," 18 pp., 8vo, £59; and a small note-book with original autograph notes and sketches, £25 10s. There were also other relics of less importance, though a 4to volume of "Algebra Problems" realized £26. Among the printed books is one, however, that cannot be passed. It is known—or rather not known, as nobody seemed to have heard of it before—as "The National Standard of Literature, Science, Music, Theatricals, and the Fine Arts," and consists of thirty-nine parts or numbers, containing many contributions distinctly traceable to Thackeray. One of them—"The Devil's Wager"—was reprinted with alterations in the "Paris Sketch-Book," but all the rest appear to have been effectually hidden away since 1833, the date of the publication of the periodical in question. The amount realized was £40. Large-paper copies of the Badminton "Hunting" have now crept up to £29. On the whole, this was the most important sale of the year, the third portion of the Ashburnham Library and the Makellar and Morris collections alone excepted. It was of such an extensive character that it is quite impossible to do justice to it in the limited space at my disposal. Room must, however, be found for a copy of the third folio of Shakspeare's works, which brought £260. It was a genuine sound and clean copy in old calf, and measured 13¾ in. by 9 in., a matter of considerable importance to the buyer.

It would be a most difficult task to criticise the collection of books and manuscripts belonging to Harold Baillie Weaver, which Christie, Manson & Woods sold on March 29 and following days. The majority appear to have been bought in 1895 at the Gennadius and other sales, and were now disposed of in nearly every case for very much less than they cost. For instance, a manuscript Novum Testamentum, which was acquired in 1895 for £24, went for a guinea; and though this is an extreme instance of depression, it is apparently the fact that the sale in its entirety showed a loss of more than £24,000 on the original cost. The books and mss. are said to have cost about £30,000 in 1895, and were sold now for £5527 and some odd shillings. This abysmal drop affords cogent evidence, if any be needed, of the pitfalls that often threaten the footsteps of spirited buyers. On April 4 and later a number of Kelmscott books came to the hammer. The Chaucer now brought £28 10s.; "The Story of the Glittering Plain," 1894, £5 10s., and Keats's "Poems," 1894, £12. It looks as though not only these, but all other works from the same press, will soon be unprocureable except at a ruinous price. At the same sale Byron's "Curse of Minerva," 1812, 4to, sold for £97. Only three copies of this scarce pamphlet have appeared in the auction-rooms during the past twelve years, the two previous ones bringing £100 (boards) and £60 (ibid.) respectively. Mention must also be made of Shakspeare's works, the Halliwell-Phillips edition of 1853 16 vols., folio, £58, and Hals's "Compleat History of Cornwall," Exeter, c. 1750, folio, £20. This is a most curious price, as Hals's incomplete work is the scarcest in the whole range of topographical literature. The Earl of Aylesford's copy sold in 1888 for £150, and the Hartley copy for £70 some years before. The Bliss sale, held in April, was remarkable for the collection of song-books disclosed by it. None of these realized much, but the assortment was, to say the least, extensive. I set out a complete list of them in the subject index to "Book-Prices Current," never having previously seen so many at one time. At this same Bliss sale a fine copy of "Poems by Two Brothers" sold for £17 (original boards,) and Allot's "England's Parnassus," 1600, 8vo, £20 10s. (some leaves mended and others soiled).

The library of the late T. M. Whitehead (Sotheby's, May 3) contained an extra illustrated copy on large paper of Selwyn's "Catalogue of Bewick's Works," £71, and some other desirable books, including "Le Decameron of Boccaccio," 5 vols., 1759, £20 (old morocco); a set of the parts of the "Pickwick Papers," £24 10s.; Dorat's "Les Baisers," 1770, 8vo, £16 10s.; and several mss. Books of Hours, three of which brought £200, £151, and £101 respectively. Passing two sales of little importance held during the first days of May, we now come to the third portion of the Ashburnham Library. So much has already been written about this and the other portions of an historic collection of the very first rank that any extended reference here would be mere surplussage. The third portion consisted of 1182 lots, which realized £13,911 8s. 6d., the amount realized for the whole library being thus £62,712 7s. 6d. The first five editions of the "Compleat Angler" attracted the most attention, for each book was in its original binding, the first four in sheep and the fifth in calf. The price obtained for the set was £800. In sharp contrast to this is the £235 paid for a set of the same books at the Snow sale on December 1. These had all been rebound, and, though complete as to collation, were defective in places. There can be no question, however, that the rebinding affected the auction value more than anything else. Among the high prices realized at the Ashburnham sale (third portion) were £190 for the 1472 edition of Pliny's "Historia Naturalis," printed on vellum; £240 for "The Booke of Common Praier," 1559; £148 for Jugge and Cawoode's Prayer Book of 1559; and £150 for a copy of the first edition of John Knox's Liturgy, printed at Edinburgh by Lekprevik in 1565. "A Goodly Prymer in Englyshe," June 16, 1535, printed on vellum, and probably unique, sold for £225; and a collection of "Rappresentationi," printed at Florence during the sixteenth century, no less than £712. Then there is the vellum copy of "Le Roman de la Rose," n.d., to be mentioned. This belonged to one of the earliest editions known, and realized £355. A first folio Shakespeare brought £585; a second folio, £90; a third, £190, and a fourth, £55. Early quartos there were none—a curious circumstance, seeing that the late earl commenced collecting in 1814, when most of these aristocrats could have been secured with comparative ease for a few pounds each. And so we must take leave for good and all of the great Ashburnham sale, with the remark that on December 13 a number of volumes which had been returned for unsuspected imperfections not disclosed in the original catalogues were again sold by auction. To compare the prices realized in these two circumstances will no doubt be an agreeable occupation to those who study the current values of books and try to find the reasons for their notorious ups and downs in the market.

On the approach of the close of the season there is usually less to chronicle. We notice the 1891 edition of "The Story of the Glittering Plain," another Kelmscott book—in fact, the first issued from that press—which brought £16. Five years ago £4 was a very usual price to pay. A fine copy of Sotheby's "Principia Typographica," extra illustrated and bound in 20 folio volumes, the author's own copy, sold for £131, in June; and later on a presentation copy of "Arthur O'Leary," 3 vols., 1844, £17 5s. (original cloth;) Manning and Bray's "History and Antiquities of Surrey," 3 vols., 1804-14, folio, £19 (russia extra;) Notes and Queries, from the commencement in 1840 to June, 1882, with the Indices to Series i. to v., together 70 vols., £19 (publisher's cloth). The library of the late R. W. Wilbraham, of Northwich, which was sold at the end of June, contained a fine copy of that rare book "L'Histoire Notable de la Floride," Paris, 1586. Richard Hakluyt supplied the manuscript from which the narrative was published, and the book is dedicated to Sir Walter Raleigh. Not more than half a dozen copies are known, and this one brought £41. Lord Byron's "The Waltz," first edition, 1813, £51 (half calf;) Caxton's "Chronicle," printed by Machlinia about 1484, folio, £101; "The Apologye of Syr Thomas More," 1533, 8vo, £18 15s. (old morocco;) "Les Œuvres" of Rabelais, 3 vols., 1741, 4to, £18, and the "Practise" of the duellist and P. Stubbes's "The Anatomie of Abuses," 1583, 8vo, £27. There were many other scarce and valuable works in Mr. Wilbraham's library, which, indeed, appears to have been formed with much literary taste and discrimination, as also was that of Henry Howard, of Regent's Park. In the latter case, however, the books were of an entirely different character. Ainsworth, Alken, Cruikshank, Dickens, Leech, Lever, Lover, Thackeray, and other old but yet ever new friends trooped forth as they were wont to do half a dozen years ago, when collectors were more kind. The collection of sporting and humorously illustrated works was also a very good and extensive one, and prices ruled high, as they generally do for fine copies of books of this kind. In this library also were many books of views, among them Silvestre's rare French series, exhibiting parts of France as it was at the time of Louis XIV., 1670, oblong folio, £52 (morocco super-extra). Almost at the very end of the season a made-up copy of the first edition of the Bible in English, Antwerp, October 4, 1535, sold for £61; Statham's "Abridgement of Cases," Rouen, 1490, folio, probably the first book issued by Pynson, £74; a third Kelmscott Chaucer, £33 this time, and yet again a fourth, £36 10s.; Combe's "English Dance of Death," a very clean copy, in the original boards, 2 vols., 1815-16, £17 5s.; and many more.

The new season, now in full operation, began on October 24, with the sale of the library of the late Osbert Salvin; and then follow one or two comparatively unimportant libraries. That of the late Rev. William Makellar will be fresh in the memory, with its wealth of Bibles, Testaments, and Prayer-Books, among them the Mazarin Bible, on paper, of which only twenty-five copies are known. This was the Syston Park copy which sold in 1884 for £3900. It now brought £2950. The entire Makellar library realized £11,118. The angling library of the late Edward Snow, of Boston, U. S. A., to which reference has already been made in connection with the "Compleat Angler," covered a very wide period of time. Very old books were found side by side with very new ones, and the collection was of the best and most comprehensive character. With exceptions, books on angling do not bring sensational prices, and the most that can be said of these is that they sold for considerably more than they are accustomed to do. Thus Denny's "Secrets of Angling," 1652, though imperfect, realized £36; Gilbert's "Angler's Delight," 1676, £11 10s. (with all faults;) and Barlow's "Severall Wayes of Hunting, Hawking, and Fishing," 1671, £7 10s.

The late William Morris's library, dispersed by Sotheby on December 5 and five following days, was of extra importance by reason of the well-known personality of its founder and the scholarly nature of its contents. It contained a large number of valuable manuscripts on vellum and specimens of the productions of early printers, collected by Morris with a definite purpose in connection with his art and typographical work. The total amount realized for 1215 lots was £10,992, an excellent average, due entirely to the manuscripts. The highest price obtained for any single work was £225 for a ms. Testamentum Novum Latinum, a beautiful product of the twelfth century, in which the apocryphal Epistle of St. Paul to the Laodiceans follows the Epistle to Philemon.

A general survey of the book sales of 1898 shows that early printed works, whether English or foreign, are, as heretofore, in great demand, even at prices which are continually advancing. These are the books that find their way ultimately into large public collections, and in transitu to the temporary possession of owners to whom money is no object. Every year sees their number decrease, and it needs no prophet to predict that in the near future they will be conspicuous by their entire absence, even from the largest private libraries. The Kelmscott books are rapidly rising in value, as already stated, and the same remark is applicable to first editions of the earlier works of R. L. Stevenson and Rudyard Kipling. Sporting books, especially those with colored plates, appear to be rapidly taking the place of first editions illustrated by such talented artists as the Cruikshanks, "Phiz," and Leech, at one time all the rage. These will have their day again, no doubt, but the collector of moderate means was driven out of the field by advancing prices, and so all but the very best copies have fallen, for the time being, on evil days. After all, in matters affecting books, the question of literature is the one that very properly predominates over all others. There is, of course, the little matter of this or that edition to be attended to, and one copy of the same edition may, as ever, be more desirable, because in better order, than another. But the cardinal test cannot be ignored. A book is considered to be good or inferior—it is sought for or ignored in the school which exists not for the day only, but for many days—as its literary capacity is evident or the reverse.

AUGUST BRENTANO INSANE.

J. D. R. BALDWIN, Dr. Charles Phelps, and David Gilbert, the commissioners appointed by Justice Truax of the Supreme Court to inquire into the sanity of August Brentano, heard testimony with a sheriff's jury in the county courthouse in New York on January 21. The application to have Mr. Brentano legally declared incompetent was made by his sister, Laura Brentano, who gave evidence that he had been in the sanitarium of Dr. Edwin Goodridge, at Flushing, for some time.

Dr. Goodridge testified that Mr. Brentano was suffering from general paresis, and was incurable. He was hardly able to articulate, and was altogether unable to take care of himself or his affairs. Other medical evidence having been given, the jury found a verdict that Mr. Brentano was of unsound mind.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

THE following circular letter was issued to the members of the Stationers' Board of Trade under date of January 23:

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees held on Wednesday, January 18, Mr. Edwin H. Loveless was appointed secretary of this board. Mr. Loveless has been connected with this office for over seventeen years, having been at the head of the collection department since 1882; his work has always been satisfactory to the officers from every point of view. Mr. Loveless has also acted as secretary pro tem. since November 18, 1898, and is familiar with the duties of the position, and I am confident that he will be successful in meeting the wants of the members of the board.

It is matter of regret that the members of this board have no opportunity of meeting each other. The value of a social feature to an organization of this kind can hardly be calculated. I think a strong effort should be made to have at least one dinner each year. Such efforts during the past two years have failed, but I think the interest of the board demanded that the effort should be made again, and I take this opportunity of asking you if you will support such a movement and help to arrange for an annual dinner, and try and make them in future a feature of this organization.

HENRY C. BAINBRIDGE,

President The Stationers' Board of Trade.

SCRIBNER FELLOWSHIP FOR PRINCETON.

It was announced in Princeton, January 19, that Charles Scribner, of the firm of Charles Scribner's Sons, had founded a fellowship in English literature in Princeton University. It will yield $500 per year. It is open to competition for all seniors who have been in college two academic years and have the other general requirements for all fellowships.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, O.—The reorganization of the Werner Company was effected January 20. It was incorporated in the State of Illinois, but went into the hands of a receiver fifteen months ago. On January 18 the plant was sold to the Reorganization Committee at the appraised valuation of $1,250,000. The new company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with a capitalization of $3,500,000, of which $1,000,000 is in preferred stock, bearing six per cent. interest. There will also be a bond issue of $1,000,000. The following are the directors: F. B. Schenck, New York; Robert Stuart, Chicago; J. J. Sullivan, Cleveland; J. J. Connly, Providence, R. I.; G. E. MR. JOHN LANE

Begs to announce for Publication during February:

THE COLLECTED POEMS OF WILLIAM WATSON. Crown 8vo, 305 pp., designed cover, $2.50.

This volume includes the work contained in the author's several volumes, "Poems," "Odes and other Poems," "The Father of the Forest and other Poems," "The Year of Shame," "The Hope of the World and other Poems," with the exception of a few poems excluded by the author.

The London Daily Chronicle says: "As we look through this collected edition of his work we feel confirmed in our belief that whatever his limitations, and they are not few, it is Mr. Watson's function and his glory to hand on, in this generation, the great classical tradition of English poetry. On the threshold of the twentieth century he reconciles and brings to a common denominator, as it were, the best qualities of eighteenth-century and of nineteenth-century verse. He is the heir no less of Dryden than of Tennyson; it is hard to say whether Keats or Pope has more potently influenced him. There is significance in the fact that his favorite instrument, which he fingers with the utmost mastery, is the classic instrument of the English Muse—the iambic pentameter. Pregnant, resonant, memorable lines flow inexhaustibly from his pen; and some of them, we venture to predict, will live with the language."

THE SILENCE OF LOVE. By Edmond Holmes. Small 4to, $1.50.

A volume of sonnets.

THE RUBÁIYÁT OF OMAR KHAYYÁM. A paraphrase from several literal translations. By Richard Le Gallienne. New edition. With a cover design by WILL BRADLEY. $1.25.

A DAUGHTER OF THE VINE. By Gertrude Atherton. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

A new novel by Mrs. Atherton; a companion volume to "The Californians" and "American Wives and English Husbands."

THE ROMANCE OF A RITUALIST. By Vincent Brown, author of "My Brother" and "Ordeal by Compassion." Crown 8vo, $1.50.

THE SPIRIT OF PLACE AND OTHER ESSAYS. By Alice Meynell. Fcap. 8vo, $1.25.

Uniform with the same author's "The Rhythm of Life," "The Colour of Life," "The Children," and "Poems."

THE LAST BALLAD AND OTHER POEMS. By John Davidson. $1.50.

THE ALHAMBRA AND OTHER POEMS. By F. B. Money-Coutts. $1.25.

By the author of "The Revelation of St. Love the Divine."

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

THE NEW "GOLDEN AGE."

DREAM DAYS By KENNETH GRAHAME.

Third edition. 12mo, $1.25.

The Evening Sun says: "In 'Dream Days' Mr. Kenneth Grahame continues the delightful adventures of the delightful children who were first introduced to us in 'The Golden Age.'"

The Boston Journal says: "It is generally a commonplace of criticism to say that a sequel is quite independent of its predecessor, and has an interest of its own. To the devoted readers of Mr. Grahame's books, such a recommendation seems a sacrilege. What pity would we not offer to the daring unfortunate who would wish to read 'Dream Days' without reading the 'Golden Age,' who would force himself into intimacy with the characters whom he cannot appreciate? This must not deter anyone from reading this very charming book; he must only remember to read also its classic forerunner."

BY THE AUTHOR OF THE "FOREST LOVERS."

PAN AND THE YOUNG SHEPHERD. By Maurice Hewlett. 16mo, $1.25.

The Bookman says: "Like the 'Forest Lovers,' it is bathed in a woodland atmosphere and vitalized with the passion of love and youth. It has the throbbing note of life, the spirit of everlasting youth and the human impulse in it which find the universal heart."

The London Daily Chronicle says: "It is a strange piece of work thoroughly characteristic of the imaginative writer who gave us that delightful romance 'The Forest Lovers.'"

FRENCH AND ENGLISH. A Story of the Struggle in America. With 6 illustrations, and a map showing the scene of the war between the French and English. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.50.

"In 'French and English' we have a tale of the struggle in early American history between these great rival nations. The ferocity of the Indians, the horrors of border warfare and the strange wild life of those primitive times are portrayed by a master hand. It is a boy's book, full of adventure and the free life of the forest. It makes vivid and real the scenes of the past, and teaches patriotism and courage."—S. S. Library Bulletin.

TOM TUFTON'S TOLL. A sequel to "Tom Tufton's Travels." With 6 illustrations. 8vo, extra cloth, $1.25. A story of Queen Anne.

ESTHER'S CHARGE. With 6 illustrations. Cloth extra, 8vo, $1.00.

American Academy of Political and Social Science.

and can be supplied unbound for $42.50; bound in cloth for $48.50; or bound in half leather for $54.50. These twelve volumes contain a total of 8665 pages.

The Annals is published bi-monthly. The annual subscription price is $6.00; with a special rate to libraries of $5.00. It is sent free to all members of the Academy.

Besides the larger papers contributed to the Annals by many eminent scholars both at home and abroad, special attention has been directed to the departments. All important books are carefully reviewed or noticed by specialists. The department of Personal Notes keeps the reader informed of movements in the academic and scientific world. Notes upon Municipal Government and Sociology preserve a careful record of events and other matters of interest in these departments, which at the present time claim so large a share of public attention.

"The publications of the American Academy of Political and Social Science are always of value. The papers and monographs range over a wide field, and are marked by great care and thoroughness."—Guardian, Manchester, England.

Special rates to libraries for complete sets of the Annals.

Publications on Current Topics.

The "Academy" is publishing a series of monographs on political, social, and economic questions.

THIS series now includes 245 papers treating of practically every question embraced within the field of the Academy's interest. A catalogue of this series will be sent on application. The numbers are issued fortnightly. The price for the whole 245 publications to date is $50.00.

A few of the papers which have lately appeared in this series are:

The War as a Suggestion of Manifest Destiny. By H. H. POWERS. Price.....25c.

Proposed Reforms of the Monetary System. By Prof. J. F. JOHNSON. Price.....25c.

Causes Affecting Railway Rates and Fares. By Dr. W. E. WEVIL. Price.....25c.

A BOY OF TO-DAY. By Julia MacNair Wright. 311 pp., $1.00.

This is one of Mrs. Wright's best books, and all her books are excellent.

JESSE: A Story of the Time of Christ. By Annette L. Noble. 220 pp., 75 cents.

An attractive, elevating, and helpful story.

PRO CHRISTO: The Story of a Royal Huguenot. By Mrs. H. A. Clark. 335 pp., $1.25.

An exceedingly interesting story, which gives a graphic picture of life in France in the days of the persecutions, for Christ's sake, endured by the Huguenots.

LUCY BROAD'S CHOICE. By Mrs. A. M. Pickford. 435 pp., $1.25.

Her narrative is natural, and the story one which the reader will follow with growing interest to the end.

NAOMI, The Young Jewess. A Tale. By Chas. B. Conant. 305 pp., $1.

NEW BOOKS ISSUED IN 1898.

The True History of the Missouri Compromise and Its Repeal. By Mrs. ARCHIBALD DIXON. 8vo. Over 600 pages, uniform with recent editions of the work of Jefferson, Hamilton, etc. $4.00

"This is a very valuable contribution to the history of our country. It covers the period of thirty-five years—1819 to 1854—during which the struggle between the Northern and Southern States on the subject of slavery, culminating a few years after in the determination of the Southern States to secede from the Union, with the Civil War as a consequence. This volume relates, as has never before been related, the origin and progress of this memorable struggle in the councils of the nation, and is remarkable, not alone for its fulness, but for the fairness of the narration."—W. W. HENRY, in the Richmond, Va., Dispatch.

Introduction to the Study of North American Archaeology. By Prof. CYRUS THOMAS, U. S. Bureau of American Ethnology. The book has been prepared with a view of presenting in the briefest possible compass a summary of the subject, bringing the work up to date, and in a form best adapted to the use of the general reader and student. 108 illustrations. 8vo, buckram, cloth $2.00

"The Bivouac of the Dead" and Its Author. By GEORGE W. RANCK. 1 vol., 16mo, cloth extra $1.00

"On Fame's eternal camping-ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

The whole story of the poem is given, with a biography of the soldier-poet, compiled from family papers. This well-known lyric was a favorite of Grant, Lee, and Gladstone, and it has been styled "the finest martial elegy in existence."

Immortelles and Asphodels. Poems by LAURA G. COLLINS. 16mo, cloth extra, gilt top $1.00
"Is a readable book, and worth re-reading, remarkably beautiful in thought and language of its poems."

The Ordinance of the Breaking of Bread. By NORMAN FOX, D.D. 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

"After the endless discussions on the Lord's Supper, which for centuries have occupied theologians, one would think it difficult to find a fresh thing to say, but this small work is from beginning to end full of surprises. We predict that those who read it once will read it again."—Christian World, London, Eng.

DON'T WORRY NUGGETS:

Selections from Epictetus, Emerson, Geo. Eliot, and Browning. Compiled by JEANNE G. PENNINGTON. 32mo, cloth, flexible, gilt top, 40 cents. (Seventh thousand now ready.)

"Might be marked Multum in Parvo. . . . Hardly a paragraph that does not bring a new sense of strength and comfort."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

SOME MARKED PASSAGES:

And Other Stories. By JEANNE G. PENNINGTON. 16mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00. (Dec., 1898.)

"The stories are of a curious interest, strong, clear, often pathetic, even tragic, and not without a subtle humor which adds to their attractiveness."—Brooklyn Citizen.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO.,

5 and 7 East 16th Street, New York,

CARRY FULL LINES OF ALL THE PUBLISHERS'

Miscellaneous, Standard, and School Stock, and offer the Book Trade of the United States and Canada the advantages of a perfectly equipped and organized Jobbing House in the Greatest American Book Market. The most favorable market in which to purchase is that where the transactions are most frequent and on the largest scale, and where the producers of, and dealers in, any given article are most numerous. Of the one hundred and seventy-five book-publishers in the United States one hundred and twenty-five are either located in New York or have agencies with representative lines there. None is entirely unrepresented. No general order for books can possibly be completely filled without waiting at some point for a portion of it to be ordered and shipped from New York. The best thing to do with such an order is to send it straight to New York in the first instance. It is probable that it can be filled there at once; if it cannot be, then the "shorts" can be got together for shipment more quickly in New York than at any other point in the country; it is, in fact, the centre of the country's book business.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO., Book Jobbers,

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

"No less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast.'"

THE CRUISE OF THE CACHALOT.

Round the World After Sperm Whales. By FRANK T. BULLEN, First Mate. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This is the graphic story of the life and adventures of the crew of a South Sea whaler, which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. It is one of the rare books which actually prove truth stranger than fiction, and the simple eloquence and unstudied picturesqueness of the author's style clothe his strange experience with a peculiar charm. After reading the proof sheets, Mr. Rudyard Kipling wrote the author: "It is immense—there is no other word. I've never read anything that equals it in its deep-sea wonder and mystery, nor do I think that any book before has so completely covered the whole business of whale-fishing, and at the same time given such real and new sea pictures. I congratulate you most heartily. It's a new world that you've opened the door to."

"Mr. Bullen has given us an epic on whaling, and has presented it with that forcefulness and simplicity with which the epic is associated. . . . The book is of the sea. The author describes some tremendous scenes. . . . The book is real, authentic, a piece of life."—London Academy.

"Written with racy freedom of literary expression and luxuriant abundance of incident, so that it becomes a story of fascinating vividness which thrills the reader and amuses him. The volume is no less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast,' and higher praise cannot be accorded to a story of the sea. . . . A book of such extraordinary merit as seldom comes to hand."—Philadelphia Press.

New Edition.

THE SCAPEGOAT.

A Romance and a Parable. By HALL CAINE, author of "The Deemster," "The Bondman," "The Manxman," "The Christian," etc. New and revised edition. Uniform with the author's works. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This new edition will present itself as practically a new book. It will be found to differ materially from the edition heretofore published, which was issued some years since without the benefit of the author's revision. This powerful romance and expressive "parable" will be certain to obtain a greatly enlarged need of popularity.

THE STORY OF THE COTTON PLANT.

By F. WILKINSON, F.G.S., Director of the Textile and Engineer School, Bolton. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

In clear and simple language the author tells the story of cotton, tracing its progress from the plant to the thread. The early history of cotton, the various phases of its growth, and the processes of preparation and manufacture, are luckily described.

By the author of "Mona Maclean."

WINDYHAUGH.

A Novel. By GRAHAM TRAVERS, author of "Mona Maclean, Medical Student," "Fellow Travellers," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This charming story is written with an insight into life and a sympathetic portrayal of character which show a continued and notable development on the part of the author of "Mona Maclean." It is the story of a modern woman, but a story which will be read by men and women alike. The heroine "carved no statue, painted no picture; she did not even write a book, but when all these things have been excluded, there remains that little art of living which has been open in all ages alike to the wise and the simple."

Of "Mona Maclean" the London Spectator says: "The cleverest novel we have read for a long time, and yet it is thoroughly enjoyable as well. . . . The more charming in virtue of the fact that its simple entertaining quality does not exclude a certain fine seriousness of intent which gives it an intellectual and moral as well as a merely narrative or dramatic interest."

"The name of the author of 'Mona Maclean' should assure anyone of at least pleasant reading, and 'Windyhaugh' has a great deal about it that is pleasant. . . . The story works itself out well and is the result, quite evidently, of a great deal of thought and care."—London Saturday Review.

"We congratulate the author very heartily upon her success. The characters are all alive and the conversation suits them. . . . We cordially recommend 'Windyhaugh.'"—London Literary World.

PUERTO RICO AND ITS RESOURCES.

A Book for Travellers, Investors, and others, containing full accounts of Natural Features and Resources, Products, People, Opportunities for Business, etc. By FREDERICK A. OSER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees," "Cruise's Island." With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

No helter-skelter narrative is this, patched together to catch a sudden market in the wake of war, but a careful, well-proportioned volume by an author who has seen more and written more of Latin-America than almost any other living American. . . . Undoubtedly the best book on Puerto Rico yet written, and the likelihood is that it will be a long time before we shall get another so good."—Boston Journal.

A New Novel in

Appletons' Town and Country Library.

The Knight of the Golden Chain. An Historical Romance. By R. D. CHERWICK, author of "John of Strathbourne." 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY, 72 Fifth Ave., New York.

Little, Brown, & Co.'s

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Curtin's Indian Myth Tales.

CREATION MYTHS OF PRIMITIVE AMERICA. In Relation to the Religious History and Mental Development of Mankind. By JEREMIAH CURTIN, author of "Myths and Folk-Lore of Ireland," etc. Translator of "Quo Vadis," "With Fire and Sword," and the other works of Henryk Sienkiewicz. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50.

These twenty long myths were taken down by Mr. Curtin from Indians who knew no language nor religion but their own. The tales, which are of exceptional interest in the light they throw upon the primitive mind, are also of remarkable beauty and wealth of incident.

History of the Royal Navy.

Volume III.

THE ROYAL NAVY. A History from the Earliest Times to the Present. By WILLIAM LAIRD CLOWES, Fellow of King's College, Gold Medallist U. S. Naval Institute, etc. Assisted by Sir Clements Markham, Captain A. T. Mahan, H. W. Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, etc. Twenty-five photogravures and hundreds of full-page and other illustrations, maps, charts, etc. In five volumes. Vols. I.-III. ready. Royal 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $6.50, net, per volume.

Volume III., now issued, contains an important chapter on the American Revolution by Captain Mahan. This occupies over 200 pages, one-third of the volume.

Harnack's History of Dogma.

Volume V.

THE HISTORY OF DOGMA. By Dr. ADOLPH HARNACK, Ordinary Prof. of Church History in the University, and Fellow of the Royal Academy of Science, Berlin. Translated from the Third German Edition by Neil Buchanan. Vols. I.-V. now ready. 8vo, cloth, each, $2.50.

Having reached a period of decline in the Church councils, Dr. Harnack discusses in Volume V. dogma in relation to the doctrines and life of Augustine.

Pollock and Maitland's English Law.

New Edition.

THE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LAW BEFORE THE TIME OF EDWARD I. By Sir FREDERICK POLLOCK, Bart., M.A., LL.D., Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence in the University of Oxford; and FREDERIC WILLIAM MAITLAND, LL.D., Downing Professor of the Laws of England in the University of Cambridge, author of "Domesday Book and Beyond." Second Edition. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, $9.00 net; delivered, $9.60.

Besides general revision, this edition contains a new introductory chapter by Professor Maitland, entitled "The Dark Age in Legal History." Two important sections of Book II.—on "Fictitious Persons" and "The Borough"—have been rewritten.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. R. HERRICK & Co. will publish shortly "And Then Came Spring," a novelette by Garret Van Arkel, the scene of which is laid in the picturesque surroundings of western Pennsylvania.

DOUBLEDAY & McCLURE Company promise for early publication in February a new novel by Maurus Jókai, entitled "An Hungarian Nabob." Mr. R. Nisbet Bain has translated this romantic tale, which has attained the position of a national classic in Hungary. The character of the old nabob and the wild life of the Magyar nobles are revelations to the American reader, while the dramatic interest of the tale never flags.

THE ORANGE JUDD COMPANY, 52 Lafayette Place, New York, call the attention of the trade to a work that has already had a gratifying welcome from American and English educators and the press. We refer to the work by J. Liberty Tadd, with the voluminous title of "New Methods in Education—Art, Real Manual Training, Nature Study—explaining processes whereby hand, eye, and mind are educated by means that conserve vitality and develop a union of thought and action." Sampson Low, Marston & Co. are the publishers of an English edition, and arrangements are under way for German and French editions. As a piece of bookmaking it has also received high praise.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued Frederick A. Ober's "Puerto Rico and its Resources," a work intended to answer all questions arising in connection with the acquisition and occupation of the new tropical possession of the United States, and specially prepared for travellers, investors, etc. The sixth volume in the excellent series of Literatures of the World, which Edmund Gosse is so ably editing, will be "Japanese Literature," by W. G. Aston, of which two-thirds is a translation from the valuable histories of literature existing in Japan. The narrative of Mr. Aston is brought up to the very latest writers. A new novel entitled "Windyhaugh" is by "Graham Travers," now discovered to be a pseudonym for Dr. Margeret G. Todd, who made a great success with her previous volume, "Mona Maclean, Medical Student"; and Hall Caine's "Scapegoat" is promised, revised and enlarged by the author, with whom it is a favorite work.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have just ready "The Two Standards," a new novel by the Rev. Dr. William Barry, whose first novel, "The New Antigone," published about twelve years ago, had a pronounced success. The scene of the new novel is laid in London and on the Continent. There is a beautiful singer who marries for money, a handsome tenor, almost an elopement, and a lot about music that is most interesting and instructive. The book is said to be suggestive of Moore's "Evelyn Innes," but by contrast rather than by similarity. They have also just ready "The Life and Letters of Lewis Carroll," by his nephew, S. D. Collingwood; "The 'Maine,' an account of her destruction in Havana harbor," in which Captain Sigbee describes the destruction of the Maine, and gives considerable matter supplementing his magazine articles; and "Campaigning in Cuba," a collection of the war correspondence prepared for The Outlook, by George Kennan.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "Creation Myths of Primitive America," by Jeremiah Curtin, which contains twenty long myths taken down word for word by him from Indians who knew no religion nor language save their own. The volume contains an elaborate introduction and all necessary notes. The fifth volume is also ready of Harnack's "History of Dogma," dealing with Augustine as the reformer of Christian piety and as a theological teacher. This volume is perhaps most full of original researches of any yet published. Having reached a period of decline in the great church councils, Dr. Harnack considers the changes in dogma due to the influence and teachings of Augustine. He gives a masterly exposition of the varied and almost conflicting elements of Augustine's character, environment and doctrines, and traces the modifications of Augustinianism in the dark centuries and during the Carolingian Renaissance that followed. There are two more volumes yet to come.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (qto: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (4mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 13½ cm.); Fe. (8mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adler, Cyrus, and Casanowicz, I. M. Biblical antiquities: a description of the exhibit at the Cotton States International Exposition, Atlanta, 1895; from the "Report of U. S. National Museum," [Smithsonian Institution.] for 1896. Wash., D. C., Government, 1898. 943-1023 p. pls. 8", pap., n. p. [164]

The section of Oriental antiquities in the United States National Museum was established in 1887, and in 1889 there was added to the Museum a section of religious ceremonial institutions. Although not at all identical in scope, it was found best, for practical reasons, that the exhibit of these two sections in the Atlanta Exposition should be united in the form of a collection, which, for want of a better name, may be called "Biblical antiquities." The space allowed was limited; hence, although the subdivisions of the subject were all represented, an outline in this important field was all that was possible. The present monograph is an exact record of the collection.

American Agriculturist year-book and almanac, 1899: a cyclopedia of progress and events; a treasury of statistics for farm or home, and office or factory, by Herbert Myrick. V. 3, no. 4. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., [1899.] 513 p. D. pap., 50 c. [165]

A reference work on every subject pertaining to agriculture, industry, commerce, and markets, public affairs, economics, and politics, household education, religion and society, an almanac of calendars, astronomy of 1899, the weather, hints for each month, dates, etc.

Apthorp, W: Foster. By the way: a collection of short essays on music and art in general, taken from the program-books of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Bost., Copeland & Day, [1898.] c. 2 v., 12+157; 9+196 p. S. cl., $1.50. [166]

The material was first printed under the heading of "Entre'acte," in the programmes prepared for the Boston Symphony Orchestra, concerts. In this department the editor has been free to print any sort of matter he considered of musical interest to the audience. The little volumes are full of interesting matter for readers of artistic feelings and impulses.

*Bailey, Liberty Hyde, ed. Principles of agriculture: a text-book for schools and rural societies. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 15+800 p. il. 16", (Rural science ser.) cl., $1.25. [167]

Bardeen, C. W. Commissioner Hume: a story of New York schools. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1899. c. 210 p. S. (Standard teachers' lib.) cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c. [168]

A description of rural New York schools in 1875. The story, which is a sequel to "Roderick Hume," was originally published serially, twenty years ago, in The School Bulletin, and at the same time the first hundred pages were printed in book form. The author, however, being dissatisfied with parts of his work, recalled the printed pages, with the intention of rewriting them. This has since been reconsidered, and the text is here given as it was first written, and as a contribution to educational history.

Bates, Frank Greene. Rhode Island and the formation of the union. N. Y., published for Columbia University by The Macmillan Co., 1898. 8-320 p. 8", (Studies in history, economics, and public law, vol. 10, no. 2.) pap., net, $1.50. [169]

This monograph embodies the results of investigations begun in the American History Seminary of Cornell University, under the guidance of Professor Moses Colt Tyler, and completed in the School of Political Science of Columbia University, under Professor Herbert L. Osgood. The work gives the facts of Rhode Island's history from 1763 to 1790, and explains why Rhode Island so long delayed her ratification of the Federal constitution. Bibliography (4 p.).

Beers, H: A: A history of English romanticism in the eighteenth century. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. '98. 6+455 p. D. cl., $2. [170]

Consists of a series of lectures given in elective courses in Yale. By romanticism the author means "the reproduction in modern art or literature of the life and thought of the Middle Ages." He does not treat his subject chronologically, but in the following order: The Augustans, Spenserians, Landscape poets, Miltonic group, School of Warton, the Gothic revival, Percy and the ballads, Ossian, Thomas Chatterton, the German tributary. Bibliography (16 p.). Index.

*Blaine, G. R. Quick and easy methods of calculating: a simple explanation of the slide rule, logs, etc.; with examples worked out. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1899. 144 p. 16", cl., $1. [171]

Brain, Belle M. The transformation of Hawaii: how American missionaries gave a Christian nation to the world. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1899. 6-193 p. il. D. cl., $1. [172]

A record of fifty years' missionary work is given in a series of papers, some of which were first published in The Christian Endeavor World and in Forward. The purpose of the articles is to diffuse missionary knowledge. Some of the titles are: The Hawaiians a hundred years ago; The overthrow of idolatry; The missionaries at work; Story of Kaploani; The Roman Catholic mission; Hawaii a Christian nation; Hawaii a territory of the United States, etc.

Bryan, Alfred Cookman. History of state banking in Maryland. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1899. 8-144 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies, 17 ser. nos., 1, 2, 3.) pap., $1. [177]

A study of the system of banking which existed in Maryland before the passage of the National Bank Act in 1863. The organization and line of development are studied chiefly as they are reflected in the legislative regulations on banking by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland. An examination is also made of political, economic, and industrial conditions for the purpose of showing the reason for legislative action. The relationship between development in banking and industrial progress is emphasized. Includes state banking statistics and bibliography (4 p.).

Butterfield, Consul Willshire. History of Brulé's discoveries and explorations, 1610-1626; being a narrative of the discovery, by Stephen Brulé, of Lakes Huron, Ontario, and Superior, and of his explorations (the first made by civilized man) of Pennsylvania and Western New York; also of the Province of Ontario, Canada; with a biographical notice of the discoverer and explorer, who was killed and eaten by savages. Cleveland, O., The Helman-Taylor Co., 1898. 12+184 p. il. map, O. (Publications of the Western Reserve Hist. Soc.) buckram, corr. price, $2. [178]

Stephen Brulé was born in Champligny, France, about the year 1592. He came to New France in the ship commanded by Champlain in 1603, which brought men, arms, and stores for the settlement to be founded on the River St. Lawrence. He was one of the eight white men who were the original settlers of Quebec. Brulé wrote nothing, but his verbal recitals of adventures among savages were recorded by Champlain, Sagard, and Le Caron. From their narratives the author has written this narrative which was presented in manuscript in 1897 to the Western Reserve Historical Association. An appendix of fifty pages gives the writer's authorities. Index.

Canfield, Arthur Graves, comp. and ed. French lyrics; selected and ed., with an introd. and notes. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1899. c. 382 p. D. cl., $1. [179]

This work, intended as an introduction to the reading and study of French lyrics, sketches the main points in the history of the lyric in France, and gives an outline to help the reader place the lyrics in the right historical relations. In order to fill out the points not covered, readers are advised to use in conjunction with the present study some history of French literature. Biographical notes. Index.

Carnegie, D. W. Spinifex and sand: a narrative of five years' pioneering and exploration in western Australia. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., 1898. 16+454 p. por. il. maps, O. cl., $5. [180]

A record of five years (1892-1897) spent in the gold-fields and far interior of Western Australia. On the journey described Mr. Carnegie was accompanied by Lord Percy Douglas (now Lord Douglas of Hawick). Besides recounting the interesting personal experiences of himself and companion, the author describes the customs, resources, and inhabitants (particularly the aborigines), and gives information about geological specimens, and his theories as to the wisdom of exploring these regions.

Carpenter, Edmund Janes. America in Hawaiian Islands. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1899. 11+275 p. D. cl., $1.50. [181]

Traces the development of American influence in Hawaii, from the beginning of the movement for annexation to the time the Archipelago was finally annexed (1898). Many facts touching upon the early commercial relations of the United States and Hawaii are given, and the diplomatic and political issues of the Hawaiian question are carefully considered. The information is based on the public documents of Hawaii and the United States, also on the works of noted historians. The time covered is from 1778-1898. King Kalakaua, Liliuokalani, and other prominent figures in the Revolution of 1893 are introduced.

Caspari, K. Paul. A grammar of the Arabic language; from the German; ed., with numerous additions and corrections, by W. Wright; 3d ed., revised, by W. Robertson Smith, and M. J. de Goeje. v. 2. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 20+450 p. 8°, (Cambridge University Press ser.) cl., net, $4. [182]

Cheiro, [pseud. for Comte Leigh de Hamong.] The hand of fate; or, a study of destiny: a novel. N. Y., F. Tennyson Neely, [1899.] c. '98. 6-156 p. por. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [183]

Tells in a sensational way the history of a young Englishman, who is first seen near the ruins of the Great Pyramid, in El Karnak. Introduces two Egyptologists, who make the revolting discovery described. The author says in his preface that his intention is to warn humanity.

Clark, J. C. L. Verses. Lancaster, Mass., published by the author, J. C. L. Clark, 1899. c. '98. 4+24 p. S. pap., 15 c. [184]

Colonna, Egidio. Li livres du gouvernement des rois: a 18th century French version of Egidio Colonna's treatise, "De regimine principum," now first published from the Kerr ms.; with introd. and notes, by S. Paul Molenaar. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 43+461 p. 8°, (Columbia University Press ser.) cl., net, $3. [185]

Cooke, G. Willis. John Sullivan Dwight, Brook-farmer, editor, and critic of music: a biography. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1898. c. 14+297 p. por. O. cl., $2. [186]

John Sullivan Dwight is the man to whom "The Early Letters of George William Curtis" were written. See "Weekly Record," P. W., Aug. 20, 1898, [1896.] This biography was undertaken at the request of Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney, and she has given it her aid and revision. Three phases of Dwight's life are kept specially in view: his connection with Brook Farm, his membership in the Saturday Club, and his work for music in Boston. The writer claims some errors have crept into the volume of "Curtis letters," and he corrects them in the preface. Two dozen letters appear from celebrated literary Americans, which are here published for the first time. No index.

Cornelius, Mrs. M. A. Uncle Nathan's farm: a novel. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1898. c. 2+318 p. 1 il. D. cl., 50 c. [187]

The heroine, who seems an almost perfect being, tries, through much tribulation, to impress upon all with whom she comes in contact the virtue of tolerance. Members of the Roman Catholic, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, and Presbyterian churches hold long discussions, and in the end become conscious that they are all striving for the right. A thread of romance strings together some excellent lessons of truth and liberality.

Curtin, Jeremiah. Creation myths of primitive America in relation to the religious history and mental development of mankind. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1898. c. 39+532 p. il. O. cl., $2.50. [188]

The author's methods have already been shown in "Myths and folk-lore of Ireland": "Myths and folk-tales of the Russians," "Western Slavs and Magyars," etc. This book is on the unwritten mental productions of primitive America. It contains twenty long myths taken down word for word by the author from the Indians, who knew no language or religion but their own. These masterpieces of the primitive human mind in America antedate by many ages the earliest forms of thought represented in the records of Egypt and Assyria and explain many things taught in the religion of these countries. Elaborate notes make the book valuable.

Emma Willard and her pupils; or, fifty years of Troy Female Seminary, 1822-1872. N. Y., Mrs. Russell Sage, [for sale by The American Tract Soc., 1899.] c. '98. 895 p. pors. Q. subs., cl., $8.50; mor., $5. [189]

Contains an extended biography of Emma Hart, afterwards Mrs. Willard; a historical sketch of the celebrated Troy Female Seminary; and biographical sketches of the pupils of five decades, 1822-1872. The work is published in response to a movement of the Emma Willard Association of Troy to honor Mrs Willard.

Fassett, Ja. H. Colonial life in New Hampshire. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1899. c. 6+145 p. il. sq. D. cl., 70 c. [190]

Subject is treated topically rather than chronologically. In some instances, however, incidents are narrated in consecutive order. Aims to cultivate the child's taste for historical reading by familiarizing him with localities of historic interest. This method is believed to be superior to the mere memorizing of events by dates.

Fernald, Ja. C. The imperial republic. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., [1899.] c. '98. 192 p. maps, D. cl., 75 c. [191]

The editor of the "Student's Standard Dictionary" is an avowed and ardent believer in expansion. He here undertakes to show that its dangers are fewer than many thoughtful men believe, and at the same time he points out the material advantages that lie along the line of expanding policy. He would have "our flag floating over peaceful commerce in every port on the globe," and he would have that flag mean everywhere "what it means in our own land, civil and religious liberty, industrial advancement, popular education—the church, the school, the home, in the light of freedom, under the shield of law."

Fotheringham, Ja. Studies of the mind and art of Robert Browning. 3d ed. rev. and enl. [N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co.,] 1898. 22+576 p. D. cl., net, $2.25. [192]

A critical estimate of the life and literary labors of Robert Browning, first published in 1889. The work has been some time out of print. This new edition now covers the whole period of Robert Browning's work. The additions comprise three entirely new chapters, and five chapters which have been largely rewritten, with groups of studies of Browning's later poems. The parts of the book affected by the publication of Mrs. Orr's "Life and letters of Robert Browning," and "Letters of Eliza Barrett Browning," edited by F. G. Kenyon, have also been rewritten.

Gelow, Mrs. Martha S. Mammy's reminiscences, and other sketches. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1898. c. 7+109 p. il. D. cl., $1. [193]

Ante-bellum southern stories and rhymes, told in the quaint musical dialect of the plantation negro, which picture the peculiar characteristics of the "mammy," the "Sambo," the "pickanniny" and other figures of slave life. Many Voodoo superstitions are also recalled.

Gould, G. M., M.D., ed. American year-book of medicine and surgery: being a yearly digest of scientific progress and authoritative opinion in all branches of medicine and surgery, drawn from journals, monographs, and text-books of the leading American and foreign authors and investigators; collected and arr., with critical editorial comments, by S. W. Abbott, J. J. Abel, M.D., J. M. Baldy, M.D., and others, under the general editorship of G. M. Gould, M.D. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 1899. c. 1102 p. 8°, subs., cl., $6.50; hf. mor., $7.50. [194]

Greene, H. Copley. Plains and uplands of old France: a book of verse and prose. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1898. c. 5+139 p. S. cl., $1.50. [195]

Describes incidents of a modern pilgrimage in Medieval France. The titles are: The Yonnais and the Seren; Gerard de Roussillon; Château-Chinnon; In Morvan; Perigoux; Where the English ruled; The miracle of Our Lady's bell; The desert and a shrine; The brooks; Fantastic friends in a fantastic land; Jocus sancte fidis; Conques; A boating song; Through a land of Bizarre; Pierre of Provence to Maguelone the fair; Maguelone; The holy peak; A pilgrimage to the past.

Gunter, Archibald Clavering. Jack Curzon: (being a portion of the records of the managing-clerk of Martin Thompson & Co., English merchants, doing business in Hong Kong, Manila, Cebu, and the Straits Settlements.) N. Y., The Home Publishing Co., [1899.] c. '98. 4+380+9 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c. [196]

The clever, up-to-date author uses the fall of Manila and the plots of the Philippine insurgents as a background for his exciting story connected with an English trading house.

Hall, Tom. When Cupid calls; with decorations by Blanche McManus. N. Y., E. R. Herrick & Co., [1899.] c. '98. 11+119 p. D. cl., $1.50. [197]

Society verses which were first printed in Truth, by the author of "When love laughs."

Hardy, T. Wessex poems, and other verses; 80 il. by the author. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. '98. 6+200 p. O. cl., $1.75. [198]

Only four of the poems contained in the volume have been published before. The poems are dramatic and personative. The illustrations are of later date than the poems, and were added for local and personal reasons rather than for intrinsic merit. Many of the verses have been turned into prose and the thoughts they embody have been used in the author's novels.

Harnack, Adolph, D.D. History of dogma; from the 3d German ed., by Neil Buchanan. V. 5. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1899. 20+331 p. O. (Theological translation lib., v. 10.) cl., $2.50. [199]

This volume is the first of three that will cover Vol. III of the original work. It deals with the epoch-making service of St. Augustine as a reformer of Christian piety and as a theological teacher, and with the influence he exercised down to the Carolingian Renaissance. Vol. II will complete the history of the development of dogma, by telling the story of Medieval theology, and the concluding volume will treat of the issues of dogma since the Reformation, and will give a general index to the whole work.

Harwood, Annie. An English view of Christian science: an exposure. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1899.] c. 96 p. D. cl., net, 35 c. [200]

The writer is assistant mistress in a London high-school. She is a member of the Congregationalist Church. Her health broke down one summer and she came into the hands of Christian scientists. She explains their methods and Mrs. Eddy's doctrines especially. Her chief arraignment is based upon the fact of this sect calling themselves Christians while they deny the efficacy or need of baptism and the Lord's supper, the foundation of Christian church doctrine.

Higham, T. Hydraulic tables for finding the mean velocity and discharge in open channels. 2d ed. enl. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1899. 80 p. 8°, cl., $3. [201]

Hoffmann, L. The Supreme court building at Leipzig: containing full views and details, exterior and interior, reproduced from the architect's original designs, giving all the measurements, also photographic views of the entire building and its most prominent parts. Hofman, H. O. The metallurgy of lead and the desilverization of base bullion. 5th ed. rewritten and enl. N. Y., The Scientific Publishing Co., 1899. 559 p. il. 8°, cl., $6. [203]

Holland, Clive. The seed of the poppy. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., [1899.] 5-309 p. D. cl., $1.50. [204]

The hero and heroine, living at Owlscroft, in Somersetshire, plan a literary career in London. After a lapse of six months they again meet. Paul's hopes have been realized; his first novel has been a success, and he is collaborating on a second book. His collaborator is a beautiful woman, who has also achieved literary fame. A letter from this woman is the cause of a lovers' quarrel and the hero's engagement to the authoress. Following this comes the revelation that his second love's talent was due to the morphine habit. The ending of the story is surprising.

- Horsley, Rev. J. W. Prisons and prisoners. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., [1899.] 4+233 p. facsimile, D. cl., $1.25. [205]
A study of the English prison system, and of the mental, moral, and physical status of prisoners (particularly of juvenile offenders). Some causes of crime are also studied, alcoholism and suicide being especially considered. Effects of education and religion on criminal life are likewise shown. Includes suggestions for reform, and comparisons of American prisons, with a prison calendar, 1577-1878, and the prison statistics (English) of 1896. The period covered is from the middle of the eighteenth century to 1896.

A selection of the voluminous and interesting correspondence of a period celebrated for letter-writing. This inexhaustible material is presented in groups. The choice has been governed by literary rather than historical or even biographical considerations. It is planned to cover the whole century. The volumes will be ultimately arranged according to date, although they are published according as they are finished. Each volume is carefully indexed, and each correspondent has his biography told in a table of dates.
- Johnson, R. Brimley, ed. Eighteenth century letters: Swift, Addison, Steele; with an introd. by Stanley Lane-Poole. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1898. 28+251 p. por. D. cl., $1.75. [210]
See notice under Johnson of the first volume entered in "Eighteenth century letters."
- Jones, Rev. E. C. Lyrics of the Revolution. Phil., [published by Mrs. Julia L. Walker.] for sale by H. T. Coates & Co., 1899. c. '98. 134 p. S. cl., 75 c. [211]
Poems written almost half a century ago. Intended, says the preface, for the patriotic people of America, who hold in grateful remembrance those who fought the battles, framed the Constitution, and administered the government in the early days of the history of our country.
- Jordan, Kate, [Mrs. F. M. Vermilye.] A circle in the sand. Bost., Lamson, Wolfe & Co., 1898. c. 4+303 p. D. cl., $1.25. [212]
The title signifies a rounded episode in a woman's life; the story is metropolitan, the scenes shifting among the streets, the slums, and the drawing-rooms of a great city. The author portrays the young broad-minded professional woman at her desk in the editorial office of a great "daily" and in her modest home. She paints her as especially womanly, with none of the unattractive characteristics of the so-called "new woman." A love-story of rare charm is interwoven with descriptions of a miners' strike and other episodes.
- Legouvé, Ernest, and Labiche, Eugène. La cigale chez les fourmis: comédie en un acte; ed., with notes and vocabulary, by T. J. Farrar. N. Y., American Book Co., [1899.] c. '98. 2+56 p. D. bds., 25 c. [213]
- *Lord, W. S. Jingle and jangle, and other verses for and about children. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1899. 58 p. 12°, cl., 75 c. [214]
- Luquer, Lea Mollvaine. Minerals in rock sections: the practical methods of identifying minerals in rock sections with the microscope, especially arranged for students in technical and scientific schools. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1898. c. 7+117 p. O. cl., $1.50. [215]
An elementary text-book, prepared with the view of putting before the student only those facts which are absolutely necessary to enable him to identify the common minerals in rock sections. In foot-notes references are made to standard publications, in which are given details of the methods of investigation outlined in the text. The microscopic and optical characters are given in the order in which they would follow if examined by a petrographical microscope. The order followed for minerals is essentially that of Rosenbusch (based on the symmetry of crystalline form). Minerals are grouped according to their common optical characteristics.

The first twelve chapters of St. John's Gospel were treated in a volume entitled "The life and light of men." See "Weekly Record," P. W., April 16, 1892, [1905.] This is an exposition of thirty-seven texts chosen from the remaining chapters of the Gospel. The closing chapters of this book weave together the narrative of the four evangelists so as to give a succinct and connected account of the last hours of the life of Jesus and of his death.
- *Molesworth, Sir Guilford Lindsay. Metrical tables. 3d ed. enl. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1899. 86 p., 32°, roan, 80 c. [221]

- Our new possessions, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Philippines. N. Y., American Book Co., [1899.] 82 p. O. (Current events for school use.) pap., 10 c. [237]
- Describes physical features, climatic conditions, inhabitants, productions, resources, and industries, etc., of the territory acquired through the Spanish-American war. Intended as an elementary text-book.
- Oxenham, J. God's prisoner: a story. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1899. c. '97, '99. 5+314 p. D. cl., $1.25. [238]
- A story concerning partners in a large English business firm doing extensive trade in China is combined with an exciting tale of piracy, buried treasure, and romantic love upon an island which furnishes all things required, even to reading matter, in true "Robinson Crusoe" abundance. The author shows great ingenuity in puzzling his characters and his readers. The descriptions of sea voyages are exciting and enough happens to make many volumes. God's prisoner is a hero who escapes human justice. Ends happily.
- Paston, G. A writer of books. N. Y., D. Appleton & Co., 1899. 2+344 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 256.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [239]
- Until she was twenty-two the heroine lived in an English library with a father whose interest centred chiefly in the Belgic of Terror, upon which subject he had collected far beyond the limits of library funds. Knowing nothing of life except as she had read of it in heterogeneous and undigested literature, Cosima came to London to become "a writer of books." During the first days of natural disappointments with real life she married an average man whom she had known as a boy. He was good to her, but utterly failed to understand her. Comprehension she received from a brother and sister who made studies at the British Museum and knew books as she did.
- Pitman, Sir I. Deutsche stenographie: an adaptation of Pitman's shorthand to the German language; with rules and explanations printed in both the English and German languages. N. Y., Sir I. Pitman & Sons, [1899.] 8+60 p. S. cl., 50 c.; pap., 40 c. [230]
- *Pliny, [Caius Plinius Cæcilius Secundus.] Letters 1-12; ed., with introd., notes, and vocabulary, by C. J. Phillips. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 20+55 p. 18°, (Macmillan's elementary classics.) cl., net, 40 c. [231]
- Porter, Linn Boyd, ["Albert Ross," pseud.] That gay deceiver. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham Co., 1899. c. 3-306 p. D. (Albatross lib., no. 20.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [232]
- Scenes are laid in New Hampshire, Boston, and New York. The "gay deceiver" assumes a protectorate over an inexperienced youth ostensibly to guard him from the evils that had beset his own youth. A choleric and dyspeptic old gentleman plays a leading part.
- Porter, Rose. A daughter of Israel. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1899. 4+211 p. S. cl., 75 c. [233]
- Elishaba, daughter of Jephthah, is the heroine. According to Old Testament history, when Jephthah returned from warfare with the Ammonites, he vowed that whosoever came forth to meet him would be offered as a burnt offering. His daughter, coming out of the house, is sacrificed as described. The sad story is retold for the purpose of showing the spiritual motive of the sacrifice.
- Price, Ella Perry. The cry heard. Cin., O., Curtis & Jennings, [1899.] c. 2+331 p. il. D. cl., $1. [234]
- A missionary story written for the evident purpose of interesting young people in the mission cause, and of training their minds and hands for practical missionary work.
- Raimond, C. E., [pseud. for Eliz. Robins.] The open question: a tale of two temperaments. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. '98. 8+523 p. D. cl., $1.50. [235]
- A serious novel dwelling on the problems of heredity. One "open question" is "Should the ardent, mutual love of two human beings be tramped under foot and their happiness destroyed because their marriage would probably entail physical and mental misery upon generations yet unborn?" The scene is chiefly laid in an Ohio settlement and the action takes place in an old manor-house inhabited by a southern woman who has ruled three generations with a rod of iron. The real heroine is her granddaughter, whose childhood is described with literary skill. The details all work into a story advocating the survival of the fittest and leaving suicide a second "open question."
- Reeves, W. Pember. The long white cloud Ao Tea Roa. [N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co.,] 1898. 12+480 p. il. map, O. cl., net, $2.50. [236]
- Ao Tea Roa is the Maori name for New Zealand. A concise history of New Zealand, that deals with the picturesque side as well as the official characteristics of the colony. Gives a full account of its history from the discovery to present time. The work is based on a previously published sketch, which has been revised and enlarged. Besides describing the physical features of the country the author deals with the Maoris, the modes of warfare, navigation, the Provinces and public work policy, etc., and other social conditions.
- Remington, F. Sundown Leflare; written and il. by F. Remington. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 4+115 p. D. cl., $1.25. [237]
- A collection of five short stories, with twelve illustrations by the author. Sundown Leflare is the central character, and the tales are told in teepee or around the camp-fire, in Sundown's Indian patois. Their subjects are his experiences and adventures, and they are tinged with a mystical Indian superstition. They give some conception of the Western Indian's attitude towards the white man, his idea of religion, and an interesting glimpse of a modern Indian's wooing.
- *Routh, E. J. Treatise on dynamics of a particle; with numerous examples. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 11+417 p. 8°, (Cambridge University Press ser.) cl., net, $3.75. [238]
- Rudiger, M. Waldtraut: according to the chronicle of the Pastor of Hinrichshagen; tr. by Corinth Le Duc Crook; il. by Dorothy Cole. Chic., H. S. Elliott, 1898. c. 3+235 p. D. buckram, $1.25. [239]
- The story is told in the diary of a young priest sent to a lonely German parish in the year 1405, when the first stirrings of Protestantism were following the death of Wyclif. Waldtraut was the daughter of a gypsy mother who became the nurse of the squire's son born upon Waldtraut's birthday. The life of the German peasants is poetically described.
- Savage, R. H. The White Lady of Khaminavotka: a story of the Ukraine. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1899.] c. '98. 370 p. D. (Rialto ser., no. 84.) pap., 50 c. [240]
- A sombre tale of Russian enmity and vengeance concerning a deadly feud between the heads of two illustrious families.
- Sellers, Alfred. Instructions for photo-engraving in line and half-tone on copper and zinc. N. Y., The Fuchs & Lang Manufacturing Co., [1898.] c. 33 p. O. pap., $1.50. [241]
- Contains only practical formulas and instructions. Any person who wishes to do photo-engraving either in line or half-tone, and who follows explicitly the directions, is supposed quickly to become proficient.
- Sévigé, Marie de Rabutin-Chantal (Marquise) de. Selected letters of Madame de Sévigé; ed. for school use by L. C. Syms.

- N. Y., American Book Co., [1899.] c. '99. 128 p. por. D. bds., 40 c. [242]
 Especial care has been taken to include the idiomatic phrases of the text in the vocabulary. Contains biographical sketch of Madame de Sévigné. Annotated.
- Sheldon, C. M. One of the two. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1899. 3-50 p. D. (Little books for life's guidance.) leatherette, 50 c. [248]
 An allegory showing the power of Good Influence and Bad Influence in human life.
- Smith, E. Franklin, M.D. Text-book of anatomy, physiology, and hygiene. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, [1899.] c. 21+198 p.+5 blank p. il. D. cl., $1. [244]
 This volume is practically an epitome of lectures delivered by Mr. Smith in the New York Preparatory School. The theories advanced are in accord with Kirke, Flint, Dalton, Wilson, Pye, Kobert, Doty, and other noted physiologists. The subjects discussed are: Minute structure of the body; Framework of the body; Muscles; Skin; Food; Digestion; Blood; Circulation; Respiration; Nervous system; Special senses; Voices and speech; Stimulants and narcotics; Emergencies; Contagious and zymotic diseases; Sanitation. Contains questions on the subjects discussed, with glossary and index.

 Symons met Beardsley in the summer of 1896, when he had been expelled from the staff of the "Yellow Book," and secured his ideas, enthusiasm, and highly original talent for the "Savoy," the new rival of the "Yellow Book." Beardsley was already very ill, and his great ambition was to fill his few working years with the immediate echo of a great notoriety. The temperament, self-admiration, petulant self-assertion, literary ability, immense capacity for work, etc., of this man, whose work ended at twenty-six, are studied and explained by the author with sympathy and enthusiasm. Includes three portraits: 1, after a painting by Jacques Blanche; 2, after a photograph by F. Hollyer; and 3, after a photograph by W. J. Hawker.

 Judge Tenney was born in New Hampshire in 1833, and died in December, 1897. He specially tried to impress upon young men their privileges, duties, and responsibilities. He looked upon the age of thirty-three as "the table-land of man's activity." In this little book he speaks of the young men of history in every walk of life and tells what they strove for and accomplished at this age.

- Todd, Marg. G., M.D., ["Graham Travers," pseud.] Windyhaugh. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. '98. 6+418 p. D. cl., $1.50. [255]
 Windyhaugh is the name of a castle situated in an outlying rural district of Edinburgh. The heroine first appears as a small child tormented with religious fears, [produced by the teachings of her Calvinistic grandmother. Her father is a man of the world who all through her life continues to put her in wrong positions. The book is a plea for womanliness and goodness aside from all intellectual gifts, formulated creeds, conventionalities, etc. The great benefit to the world of right living is the theme which runs through a story of decided originality.]
- Walker, Francis A. Discussions in education; ed. by Ja. Phinney Munroe. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1899. c. '98. 5+842 p. O. cl., $3. [256]
 Papers and addresses edited in accordance with the expressed intention of the late president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The material is grouped under the headings, Technological education; Manual education; The teachings of arithmetic; College problems. In the first division, immediate problems of technological education are considered with other weighty questions of the subject. In the second, important issues of industrial education are discussed. Group number three is devoted to methods of teaching arithmetic, and number four treats of college athletics, study of statistics, normal training, and other timely topics. Index.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 4, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A "LEAKAGE" IN PUBLISHING EXPENSES.

A SOURCE of "leakage" in the expenses of the publishing business has recently been discovered which, though it may amount to very little in each single instance, aggregates to considerably more in a year than most retailers would be ready to believe. It is the common practice for out-of-town buyers to have their parcels sent to some central firm for enclosure. This has always been done without question, notwithstanding the fact that it may cost the publisher almost as much to send out a single book for enclosure as to mail it direct to the customer, the difference being that in one case the postage would be charged to the customer, while in the other no charge is made. It is not probable that any retail bookseller deliberately does this with the intention of making the cost fall on the publisher rather than on himself. It is much more likely that he imagines that there is no cost entailed in sending it to another store in the same city, and hopes thereby to save expense, without cost to anyone. Neither is there any desire on the part of the publishing trade to seem unaccommodating, and complaint is not made against those whose orders are large, but only in the case of small orders, where the profit is very slight at best, and such expenses in handling often more than eat it up.

One large publishing house is about to take the initiative, and will notify the trade that on all parcels sent out for enclosure which do not amount to one dollar net in value a small charge will be made for delivery. Should this rule be generally adopted it may possibly call a halt on the growing practice of shopkeepers who deliberately keep no stock, but offer to supply every known book on demand—at the expense of the publisher. It may also stiffen the backbone of the half-hearted bookseller who habitually underestimates the purchasing capacity of his customers, and almost every second or third day for months sends to the publisher for single copies of the same new book, instead of ordering from the travellers a quantity sufficiently large to supply a demand he should be able to estimate, if he has intelligently studied his constituency.

BIBLIOGRAPHERS have been sufficiently bothered and readers correspondingly perplexed by the change of titles of existing books when reprinted in new editions without the latest development on the part of two enterprising publishers recorded elsewhere in this issue. In one case a new book has been issued under two different titles with two different imprints, although it is not improbable that the two imprints represent really the same publisher; and in the other case the same book has been issued with different titles under identical publishers' imprint. This is a flagrant abuse, extending almost to self-confessed fraud, and should receive the severe condemnation of booksellers, librarians, and the reading public. In connection with this it may be well to emphasize again the importance of greater clearness, and in some cases greater honesty, in the use of the word "edition." It would be much to the benefit of all concerned with books if publishers would use the word "edition" to designate a new form of book, the word "revision" to indicate changes in text, and the word "thousand" to denote the number of copies published. This practice on the part of the best publishers would greatly facilitate accurate bibliographical record, and would indirectly be of service to all who handle and buy books.

WORK OF THE COPYRIGHT OFFICE.

THE following, relating to the work of the copyright office during the past year, is extracted from the "Report of the Librarian of Congress for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898," presented by the late John Russell Young on December 12, 1898:

TITLE ENTRIES OF WORKS COPYRIGHTED.

By the amendment of the copyright law of 1891, Congress made it the duty of the Librarian of Congress to prepare a weekly catalogue of all books and other articles for which copyright had been granted. This publication was designed, primarily, to serve the collectors of customs in the prevention of the illegal importation of copyright works. To render it more useful for this purpose and give it special bibliographical value, the articles catalogued have been classified, and each issue provided with a complete index of copyright proprietors. The work is edited and arranged so as to comply strictly with the law, which requires that it should contain a complete transcript of the title entry, and that each title should state the name of the copyright proprietor, the date and number of the copyright entry, and the date of the receipt of the copies deposited to complete the copyright.

This publication is of special importance as the official, contemporaneous record of the growth of American literature and American art. Its value in this particular is not only current, but permanent; as a historical record of the first production of the books and other articles recorded, its usefulness to the student will increase with time. Every effort has been made to improve it as a chronicle of current literature. The titles are prepared with completeness and arranged for ready reference. Care is taken also to number each title so that statistics can be obtained of the annual intellectual and artistic progress of the nation. Some idea of the volume of this productiveness is conveyed by the mere statement that this catalogue of title entries for a single year requires four octavo volumes of 1000 pages each.

FOREIGN COPYRIGHT ENTRIES.

By the act of March 3, 1891, amending the copyright law, the privilege of copyright protection in the United States was extended to the citizens of such foreign countries as granted copyright to Americans upon equal terms with their own citizens.

This enactment, which was the result of an awakened sense of the justice due to foreign authors and artists, has not only secured commendation from right-minded people the world over, but it has proved a source of revenue to the Government, as well as advantage to the library. During the last fiscal year the entries of titles of works by foreign authors amounted to something over one-tenth of the total number of entries for the year, there being 7731 foreign entries to 67,814 by citizens of the United States, out of a total of 75,545. A comparison of fees received during the same period makes an even more favorable showing for the foreign entries, owing to the fact that a double fee is charged. The total amount of copyright fees earned and paid into the Treasury for the fiscal year 1897-98 reached $55,926.50, of which amount $45,711 were fees for American books and other articles, while $8942 were earned by recording the titles of foreign products. The sum represents more than one-fifth of the entire amount of the annual cost of running the copyright office.

The operation of the act of March 3, 1891, not only results in thus adding to the Treasury reserve, but it is also a source of distinct gain to the library, owing to the statutory requirement that two copies of each book, or other article, copyrighted shall be deposited in the library in order to complete the copyright. Thus the 7731 foreign entries made in the copyright office during the last fiscal year have resulted in a large and valuable accession to the library of books and engravings, as well as to maps, music, and other articles. As the law requires the American manufacture of all books copyrighted, only such foreign works as are of sufficient importance or popularity to justify the expense of the double production thus rendered obligatory are reproduced and copyrighted, the result being that these foreign books form an exceptional body of literature. Thus the library has obtained, gratis, handsome editions of the works of Kipling, Stevenson, George Meredith, Balzac, Bulwer-Lytton, etc.; éditions de luxe of Tennyson and Voltaire; the important biographical edition of Thackeray's complete works; books by Carlyle and Morley; editions of the classics, and valuable works in the domains of science, medicine, and the law.

THE COPYRIGHT DEPARTMENT.

The articles deposited in compliance with copyright law are as follows—the enumeration being from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898.

July, 1897, to September, 1898.

1. Books:
(a) Books proper (volumes).....	6,986
(b) Miscellaneous articles entered under the term "book," as used in the copyright law, e.g., circulars, leaflets, etc.....	6,001
(c) Newspapers and magazine articles.....	4,279
2. Dramatic compositions.....	4,464
3. Periodicals (numbers).....	16,400
4. Musical compositions.....	20,687
5. Maps.....	1,640
6. Engravings, prints, etc.....	4,136
7. Chromos and lithographs.....	4,177
8. Photographs.....	8,492
9. Miscellaneous (unclassified articles).....	376
Total.....	70,538

Of each of the above, two copies were deposited, making a total number of articles..... 141,176
Photographs deposited with titles for works of art..... 1,172

Grand total to September, 1898..... 142,248

The business for the fifteen months from July 3, 1897, may be briefly summarized as follows:

1. There have been 98,391 entries of copyright.
2. There have been collected and paid into the Treasury $64,455 as fees for copyright business.
3. Letters to the number of 36,376 containing remittances have been received.
4. We have received 21,528 orders for the payment of money, which was paid into the Treasury. This included 14,521 money orders, 1352 drafts, and 938 express orders for money.

There have been drawn 2075 checks, which were mailed to persons to whom excess fees or unused fees were to be returned, and for each check thus drawn an index card has been made, giving a concise statement of the transaction requiring the refund.

Previous to October 21, 1897, no record was kept, but from that date to September 30, 1898, inclusive, 58,452 letters and postal cards have been received. Deducting the 29,931 letters containing money remittances, there remain 28,521 miscellaneous letters and postal cards, mainly letters of inquiry.

From November 5, 1897, the practice was begun of making an index card for each important letter, giving such letters a consecutive number and putting on the card the name and address of sender, date of writing and receipt, with a brief of the contents of the letter. Up to September 30, 1898, 21,526 of these invaluable index cards have been made, and a corresponding number of letters have been read, answered, and filed.

No exact record of the mail despatched from the copyright office was kept prior to March 1, 1898; but from March 1 to September 30 of this year (seven months, only) the total number of articles, letters, certificates, postal cards, parcels, etc., sent out reaches the grand total of 56,636, or more than 8000 per month.

From July 27, 1897, to September 30, 1898, 36,726 receipts for moneys received have been mailed.

Thirty-two thousand eight hundred and ninety copyright certificates have been mailed up to September 30, 1898.

Copyright entries to the number of 55,625 have been recorded and revised.

One thousand four hundred and twenty-seven assignments of copyright have been certified.

One hundred and forty-two thousand two hundred and forty-eight articles—books, maps, music, engravings, photographs, etc.—have been received as copyright deposits from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898, and were properly stamped, numbered to correspond with the number of date and entry, credited, and disposed of.

Seventy thousand six hundred and twenty-four articles, duplicate copies, have been transferred to the other departments of the Library.

In addition, 800 first copies of books have been transferred to the reading-room by order of the Librarian.

The weekly catalogue of title entries provided by law has included, from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898, 71,710 articles—books, maps, music, engravings, etc.

One hundred and forty-three thousand four hundred and twenty cards have been made to secure the printing of this catalogue, and these cards have been added to the general index to the copyright business.

Four volumes of the catalogue, averaging a thousand pages each of closely printed octavo, have been printed, and the fifth volume is two-thirds through the press.

The applications for copyright and accompanying documents number about 80,000 yearly. These require much handling in the process of passing through the office, and we have just been supplied with suitable boxes in the way of furniture. After final recording, these documents must be filed away for future use, as they are frequently needed for reference. We are now obliged to tie them up in paper parcels, which is an unsafe as well as unsatisfactory method of disposal, and, when the loss of time is taken into account, it is not economical. A sufficient number of strong pasteboard boxes should be provided out of the furniture fund for holding the accumulation of titles.

Of the 142,000 deposits, a large proportion are of such nature as maps, engravings, photographs, and miscellaneous articles, difficult to handle and keep track of because of their size and form. Some special furniture should be devised and provided to aid us in the task of managing this material, not only with celerity and accuracy, but so that the articles shall not be injured. This last consideration is of importance, as these articles will become assets of direct value.

The publishers, as a rule, show every reasonable desire to comply exactly with the requirements of the copyright law in the matter of depositing duplicate copies. The importance of fulfilling the statutory stipulations is realized, and especially that it would be a questionable economy to risk throwing doubt upon the validity of the copyright entry for the sake of saving the cost of the two copies.

Moreover, a commendable liberality is shown in regard to the Library of Congress. When extra copies have been sent to the copyright department through inadvertence, their return is rarely requested. In other cases, where a single volume of a set of books has been copyrighted, in which event a strict compliance with the law would only require the deposit of two copies of the exact volumes copyrighted, two complete copies [sets] have been deposited.

It should be always borne in mind, when considering the apparent discrepancy between the entries in any one year and the actual deposits, first, that a certain number of entries are accidental duplications, in which cases only one of the entries is required to be completed by the deposit of copies; second, that a great many entries are made of titles of projected works, many of which are never written, and many others only after the lapse of considerable time—months, or even years—in which cases usually new entries are made and completed by deposits, leaving the original entries apparently incomplete. It is agreeable to bear testimony to the prompt desire expressed to make the required deposits when a failure to do so has been pointed out, even in cases of entry made twenty or more years ago, and any failure to comply with the law is due to inadvertence or ignorance.

FOR FREE PAPER PULP.

SEVERAL reasons were given on January 30 to the President and to the members of the American-Canadian Joint Commission by a committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association for the removal of the duty on paper pulp. The users of news paper seek to gain something from the conditions that favor the removal of a tax that brings the Government a mere bagatelle of revenue, they favor the protection of American spruce forests by granting an opportunity to use the spruce forests of Canada, and they desire to be released from the burden of a great combination in paper-making that helps to maintain prices above what they would be if the restrictions were removed.

Strong efforts will be made to impress upon the Joint Commission the propriety and advantage to both nations of the putting of paper pulp on the free list. When the paper-makers of the United States are making paper so cheaply that they are able to outsell British manufacturers in their own markets, and can send news paper to Japan and sell it there at a profit, it is assumed by the users of printing paper in the United States that the necessity for a duty to protect the American manufacturers cannot easily be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the commissioners from either side of the Canadian boundary.

OTHER PAPER MILLS TO JOIN THE "TRUST."

JOHN E. SHIBLEY, representing Lee Hibbinson & Co. and other Boston bankers, left Cincinnati on January 21 for the East, after securing options on the printing-paper mills in the Miami Valley between Cincinnati and Dayton. These mills will go into the trust formed in Massachusetts with $42,000,000 of capital stock. It is thought that the Harding mills of Franklin, the Friend Mills at West Carrollton, and the Aetna at Dayton, will be included in the combination that will absorb the forty writing-paper mills of the country. The Warren Mills will be appraised in the near future. It is stated that Shibley secured options on the mills in Wisconsin and Michigan before he visited the Miami Valley district.

THE INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY has just completed the biggest deal since its organization. It has purchased outright fourteen mills engaged in the manufacture of paper and pulp outside the combination. These mills represent the chief opposition which the print paper trust has had to encounter. The trust has now almost undisputed possession of the print paper industry. The fourteen mills purchased represent a capacity of 122 tons of print paper and 168 tons of wood pulp per day. Negotiations for the purchase of these properties have been pending for months. The International Company will take hold at once. The names of the companies and the number of mills owned by each are as follows: Wilder & Co., Ashland, N. H., two mills; Wilder & Co., Barnet, Vt., one mill; Olcott Falls Company, Wilder, Vt., two mills; Remington Paper Company, Watertown, N. Y., six mills; C. R. Remington & Son, Watertown, N. Y., two mills; the H. Remington & Son Pulp and Paper Company, Black River, N. Y., one mill.

The International Company has also bought the plants of the Moosehead Pulp Company at Solon, Me., a fifty-ton ground wood mill, which is important to the combination chiefly because of its water-power facilities. It has also bought the Mysterich patents and has secured control of the Russell patents, which give it practical control of the best methods for manufacturing sulphite pulp. Outside of these two patents there is said to be only one other method of making sulphite that amounts to anything.

SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF VICE.

THE Executive Committee of the Society for the Suppression of Vice held its annual meeting on January 31 at Association Hall, New York, Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue. The session was an executive one. Anthony Comstock read his report, showing that during the year the society had paid off an indebtedness of over $3000 in addition to meeting all bills and expenses. The report also showed that the society had made sixty-five arrests, fifteen prisoners were tried in the Federal courts, and the remainder in the State courts. Forty-one persons were convicted and thirty-seven sentenced. 5265 pounds of indecent books and pamphlets and 2714 pounds of obscene pictures were destroyed.

COPYRIGHT NOTICES.

HAS AN AUTHOR PROPERTY RIGHTS TO HIS WORK BEFORE COPYRIGHT HAS BEEN PERFECTED?

A NOVEL point of law has been raised before Judge Seaman of the Federal Court, Chicago, Ill., in the case of John Maxwell vs. Nat C. Goodwin for alleged piracy of the play "Congress." The point raised by Attorney F. F. Reed, representing the defendant, is that an author has no property rights to his work until the copyright has been perfected.

TO TAKE ROSTAND'S TESTIMONY.

A FEW weeks ago the people of two continents were laughing over what seemed the preposterous claim of a "Chicago man" that he was the real author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," and that Rostand was nothing but a very clever plagiarist. Judge Grosscup, of the United States Circuit Court, at Chicago, however, takes a more serious view of the claim of S. E. Gross, and has confirmed the commission agreed upon by the attorneys in the case of S. E. Gross vs. A. M. Palmer, Richard Mansfield, and others, by which two English attorneys in Paris are authorized to take the deposition of Edmund Rostand. If M. Rostand so wills, they will meet him before one of Consul-General Gowdy's properly accredited attachés on the 9th inst. The answers to the questions of the commissioners will be forwarded to the United States court at Chicago as soon as they have been translated into English.

A NEW MOVE IN THE SUIT TO PROTECT THE "AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," secured a victory on January 23 (although it may be only temporary) over the autocracy of the Supreme Court of the United States. An edition of the book was published by George B. Hurst and Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., as executor for his father, began a suit for damages under the copyright law. The facts appearing in the briefs of counsel are that the "Autocrat" first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly from November, 1857, to October, 1858. On November 2, 1858, a copyright was issued to Dr. Holmes on the book in its entirety, but no effort was made to copyright the parts as they appeared from month to month. The lower courts decided that the publication of all the parts of the work separately was a "publication" within the meaning of the copyright law of 1831, in force in 1858, and therefore that no ground of complaint lay against the defendant. Judge Holmes brought the case to the Supreme Court, and it was recorded January 19, just a few minutes before the hour for adjournment arrived, and Rowland Cox, counsel for the Holmes heirs, began his opening argument, speaking about a quarter of an hour. The next morning when court reconvened Mr. Andrew Gilhooly, counsel for Hurst, in answer to a question, stated that he did not desire to address the court, therefore the Chief Justice notified Mr. Cox and the case was canceled and he was shut off from finishing his argument. This was a radical departure from the practice of the court, and on the 23d ult. the Chief Justice announced that the case had been restored to the docket for "reargument."

CHANGED TITLES.

Two remarkable instances of books being published simultaneously with entirely different titles are reported by a correspondent to the January Library Journal. The first book in question is Murat Halstead's "Our New Possessions," published by the Dominion Pub. Co., of Chicago, and also issued (an exact duplicate except title) as "The Story of the Philippines," by a firm styling itself "Our Possessions Pub. Co.," of the same city, which is possibly the same firm under another name. The second book, issued almost at the same time, is "The Sexual Instinct, its uses and dangers as affecting heredity and morals," by J. F. Scott, published by E. B. Treat & Co., of New York, which also appeared simultaneously under the title "Heredity and morals as affected by the use and abuse of the sexual instincts." The reissue of an old book under a new name is a practice with which most bookbuyers are familiar, but the simultaneous issue of the same book under two titles is a curious variation of the scheme. The changes were evidently made in the desire to attract different classes of readers, and it is likely that the authors are to be acquitted of any share in the deception. Dr. James Foster Scott, author of the Treat book, is a Yale alumnus, and stands high in the medical profession.

ARTHUR PATERSON, author of "The Gospel Writ in Steel," is stated on the title-page of that novel to be also the author of "A Son of the Plains" and "The Man from Snowy River." The former statement is correct, but "The Man from Snowy River" is the work of Mr. A. B. Paterson, an entirely different person. The error is said to have been due to carelessness in passing the title-page for press, and it is corrected in a statement issued by Messrs. A. D. Innes & Co., Mr. Paterson's publishers.

CANTON'S "W. V.'s Golden Legend," was published in England originally as "Child's Book of Saints."

OBITUARY NOTES.

CLARK W. BRYAN, known throughout the country through his long connection with many publications, committed suicide by shooting, at his home in Springfield, Mass., on January 23. Since the death of his wife a few years ago, followed by business reverses that occasioned his failure, his proud spirit and hopeful disposition seemed to have been crushed, and many times he said he wished he might die. Bryan was born in Harpersfield, N. Y., August 12, 1824. After attending the public schools, he in 1841 entered the office of the Catskill Messenger, then published by his brother, William Bryan. He remained there until 1845. Afterwards he worked in Hudson, N. Y., and also in New York City as a journeyman printer. Some time between 1846 and 1852 he became connected with the late J. D. Cushing in the publication of the Berkshire Courier, of Great Barrington. In 1852 he entered the office of the Springfield Republican, taking a position in the editorial department. Later he was employed in the business department, and was made a partner in the firm of Samuel Bowles & Co. In 1872 he became connected with the Springfield Union. He was later associated with his son, James A. Bryan, in publishing the Berkshire Courier. He established the Paper World on January 1, 1880, at Holyoke. In May, 1885, he established Good Housekeeping; in 1889 he became the publisher of Amateur Gardening, all of which publications later parted from his hands.

CHARLES SEYMOUR ROBINSON, D.D., died in New York on the 1st inst. He was born in Bennington, Vt., March 31, 1829. In 1855 he became pastor of the Park Presbyterian Church in Troy, N. Y. Five years later he was called to the First Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn. In 1868, owing to the illness of his wife, he went abroad and was invited to the American Chapel in Paris. In 1871 Dr. Robinson returned and became pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian Church of New York, afterwards the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. He resigned the charge in 1887 and had not since been regularly connected with any church for any length of time. Dr. Robinson was the author of many books on religious subjects, but was best known through his hymn-books, among which are "Laudes Domini," "Songs of the Church," "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Psalms and Hymns," and "Spiritual Songs." Among his other books are "Studies of the New Testament" and "Simon Peter: His Life and Times."

HENRY SEDLEY, a well-known literary man, died in New York City on January 25. He was born in Boston in 1829, and when a young man was an actor. He practised law in San Francisco for some time. Thirty years ago he was dramatic critic for the New York Times, and subsequently held a similar position on the Evening Post. He was editor in chief of The Round Table for three years, and was in charge of The Commercial Advertiser for two years. His last active connection with newspaper work was as a member of the editorial council of the New York Herald from 1885 to 1888. He had recently written on various subjects for the London Spectator, and for Harper's Monthly and Harper's Weekly. He was the author of "Dangerfield's Rest, a Romance," and "Marion Rooke, or, the quest of fortune." In May, 1891, he was appointed a member of the Board of Civil Service Examiners for the customs district of New York.

CHARLES FAYETTE TAYLOR, M.D., one of the leading orthopedic surgeons of the country, died January 25, at Los Angeles, Cal. He was born at Williston, Vt., April 25, 1827. He was graduated from the medical department of the University of Vermont in 1856, and soon after came to New York to practise, devoting himself mainly to deformities and cripples. He invented several surgical appliances still in use, and wrote medical books dealing with his specialty. Among his better known books are "The Theory and Practice of the Movement Cure," "The Mechanical Treatment of the Spine," and "The Mechanical Treatment of Hip Joint Disease."

ROBERT BRINCKERHOFF FAIRBAIRN, D.D., a well-known theologian and educator in the Episcopal Church, and formerly president of St. Stephen's College, Annandale-on-the-Hudson, died at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn, N. Y., January 27. He was born in New York City in May, 1818, and as a youth was employed as a clerk in a bookstore. His theological writings are well known, among the more important of them being "The Child of Faith," and "Doctrine of Morality in its Relation to the Grace of the Gospel."

BENJAMIN EASTWOOD, rector emeritus of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Pawtucket, R. I., died there January 26. He was born in Lancashire, Eng., July 4, 1825. He wrote a book entitled "Trials and Triumphs Among the Lowly," and a work on "Cranberry Culture."

ADOLPHE PHILIPPE D'ENNER, a well-known French playwright, and author of "The Two Orphans," and "A Celebrated Case," died in Paris, January 25. He was born in Paris on June 17, 1811, of Jewish parents.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Newsdealers' Booksellers' and Stationers' Monthly is the title of a new publication issued from 28 Lafayette Place, New York City, under the auspices of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers, etc.

THE February issue of McClure's Magazine contains a poem of considerable length by Rudyard Kipling. It is entitled "The White Man's Burden," and has evidently been called forth by the colonial development of the United States.

THE Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants has begun the publication of a quarterly magazine under the name of The Mayflower, "a Quarterly Magazine devoted to the History and Genealogy of the Mayflower Passengers and their Descendants." George Ernest Bowman, secretary of the society, 623 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass., is the editor.

THE Paris correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: "Lady Randolph Churchill (formerly Miss Jerome, of New York,) is about to start a magazine on new lines. It will be sumptuously bound and sold at a guinea per copy. Her son, the Hon. Winston Churchill, will assist her in conducting it, and the list of contributors will include Emperor William and other royal personages.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce the publication of a new quarterly journal devoted to the interests of anthropology. This periodical, which has been established under the auspices of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, will be issued under the title of The American Anthropologist (New Series). It will be addressed to the general reader, as well as to the specialist in the study of man; every effort will be made to render it representative of the science of anthropology, and especially of anthropology in America. Each number will contain 200 octavo pages, and will be fully illustrated. The subscription price per year will be $4.00; the price of single numbers will be $1.25.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IAN MACLAREN has finished his "Life of Christ."

IT is reported that John Morley has been paid $50,000 for writing the "Life of Gladstone."

DEAN FARRAR is supplementing his "Life of Christ" with the outcome of some studies in Palestine.

AUSTIN DOBSON desires it to be known that a much-quoted verse attributed to him satirizing American poets is a forgery.

IT is proposed that the Memorial of William Black take the form of a life-boat, named after him, and stationed in the Hebrides.

MRS. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG is preparing for publication a compilation of the best writings and letters of her husband, the late Librarian of Congress.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH is writing a popular history of the United Kingdom down to the Reform act of 1832, to be published in the autumn. He says this is the last work he will undertake.

MRS. GERTRUDE ATHERTON, the author of "American Wives and English Husbands," etc., is at present in Washington studying life there for a forthcoming novel on American life and manners.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, O.—The Werner Company was released formally on the 26th ult. from the charge of the Receiver.

ALBANY, N. Y.—John D. Walker has recently purchased the book business of J. M. Briggs at 172 South Pearl Street, where he will conduct a book, news, and stationery store, and will be pleased to receive catalogues, etc.

DETROIT, MICH.—The book and stationery department of Hudson's Big Store will lose its manager, Miss Mary Boyd Davis, daughter of Mr. James B. Davis, formerly of Utica, New York. She is to be married on February 14 to Edwin Francis Ryan, of Detroit. Miss Davis, who enjoys the distinction of being the youngest manager in her line in the United States, will be missed at the Big Store, where her tact, courtesy, and business ability are recognized and appreciated by a large circle of friends. She has been with the book department for seven years, the last two years having had entire charge as manager and buyer. The happy pair will leave for a Western trip immediately after the ceremony, returning to their new home in Detroit March 15.

JOHNSTOWN, PA.—C. A. Frank has disposed of the stock, fixtures, and good-will of his book and stationery business on Franklin Street to William B. and Joseph L. Waters, who have already taken possession and will continue the business at the old stand. William B. Waters, the senior member of the firm, has been with Mr. Frank for nine years, and is thoroughly conversant with every branch of the business.

LAWRENCEBURG, IND.—Edward Lee has purchased Tom McKim's bookstore.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—H. G. Campbell, bookseller, has leased the Goldsmith store for a term of five years, and will open there about March 15. Mr. Campbell is at present occupying the store at 91 Wisconsin Street, but his business has grown to such a size that he found it necessary to move to a larger store. Three years ago the H. G. Campbell Book Company did business in a news and book stand at West Water Street and Grand Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—The sheriff, on January 26, received an execution against the Great Round World Publishing Co., at 3 and 5 West 18th Street, for $1573, in favor of the Jessup & Moore Paper Co. The Great Round World Publishing Co. was incorporated July 27, 1897, with a nominal capital stock of $25,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—William B. Hadley has acquired the interest of E. Roscoe Mathews in the business of Hadley & Mathews, 156 Fifth Avenue, and will continue the business under his own name at the same address.

NEWPORT, ARK.—M. W. Burkett, bookseller, has sold his business to J. H. Fuller.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The trustees of the estate of T. W. Durston have made a final account of such, and a last meeting of the creditors of T. A. and J. F. Durston will be held at the office of C. L. Stone, Referee in Bankruptcy, 921 Onondaga Co. Savings Bank Building, on the 13th inst., at 11 o'clock A.M. The report of the trustee shows no property for distribution.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following extraordinary circular has just been received by the creditors of Robert H. Merriam, of the insolvent firm of The Merriam Company:

"Notice is hereby given that on the 15th day of December, 1898, the said Robert H. Merriam was duly adjudicated bankrupt, and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at my office, Room 16, No. 472 Louisiana Avenue, Washington, D. C., on Monday, the 13th day of February, 1899, at four o'clock, P.M., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

"EDWARD S. McCALMONT, Referee in Bankruptcy."

The Stationers' Board of Trade has notified its attorneys, and will represent those of its members who may be creditors of the bankrupt.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready a new story by Rose Porter, entitled "A Daughter of Israel."

THE HELMAN-TAYLOR Co., Cleveland, will publish "An Anglican Study of Christian Symbolism," by Miss Elizabeth Clifford Neff.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will publish in book form Walter Pulitzer's new novel, "That Duel at the Château Marsanac," which is now running as a serial in The New Voice.

HENRY BLACKWELL, the bookbinder, University Place and Tenth Street, New York, has issued an attractive little pamphlet containing some pertinent "Notes on Bookbinding."

JOHN LANE announces a sequel to "Aylwin," by Theodore Watts-Dunton, entitled "The Coming of Love—Rhona Boswell's Story." This was written before "Aylwin" was published.

GINN & Co. have in preparation an entirely new translation of Saintine's "Picciola," that classic story of the love of a prisoner for a flower, which a new generation of readers will, perhaps, appreciate more when they learn that Napoleon III. read it while a prisoner at Ham, and took great comfort in its beauties of thought and style.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have made arrangements with the German publishers of Dr. Henry Kiepert's "Atlas Antiquus," to control his entire line for the United States. They will shortly publish a new edition of the Students' Series of the "Atlas Antiquus." This work was formerly published in this country by Leach, Shewell & Sanborn.

THE G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY, having secured the American rights, now have in press Le Queux's novel, "If Sinners Entice Thee," and will publish, following it, during the year, "In The Day of Temptation." "The Bond of Black," which is now running serially in some twenty newspapers, will be issued before the close of the year.

THE MERSHON COMPANY, New York City, announce the New Holly Library, in which they have put about 150 popular books, chiefly novels. These volumes are brought out in polychrome paper covers and are printed from new type on good paper. The best-known works of standard authors published in England are included in the new series.

LAIRD & LEE, of Chicago, take a hopeful view of the future of the book trade. They have increased their force in all departments, and are running some of them night as well as day. They have just made sweeping reductions in a number of their popular hand-books and novels, which are intended to benefit especially the smaller dealers who cater to the class who buy such books.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a new edition of Andrews's "Christianity and Anti-Christianity in Their Final Conflict," in which the author takes occasion in the preface to refute his critics who accused him of pessimism. They said he was doubtful of the fight for Christianity. He says he is no pessimist; he merely acknowledges the fight's existence and the existence of an opposing force.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish an American edition of Frank T. Bullen's clever book, "The Cruise of the Cachalot, or, round the world after sperm whales." Mr. Bullen is the ex-cabin boy, who, like Mr. Hamblen, the engineer, trained himself to write through force of native wit and much good reading. They also have in press the fifth volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States."

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce a new textbook in scientific German, Walther's Meereskunde, a very instructive and interesting text, which can also be further recommended for science reading in colleges, because of the large range of sciences—botany, geology, mineralogy, etc., that are incidentally introduced. The book will be excellently illustrated, and is edited by S. A. Sterling, instructor in German in the University of Wisconsin.

FRANCIS P. HARPER, publisher and well-known dealer in scarce and out-of-print books, has purchased the building at 14 West Twenty-second Street, New York City, and will remove May 1 from 17 East Sixteenth Street. The new building will be entirely remodelled and a portion reserved for tenants. The building is a most desirable one for either the book or the publishing business, as the location is one of the choicest in the very centre of both wholesale and retail book trade.

THE SHAKESPEARE PRESS, Westfield, N. J., will publish in March numbers 11 and 12 of the Papers of the Shakespeare Society of New York. No. 12 is entitled, "A Further Study of the Othello; have we misunderstood Shakespeare's Moor?" by Welker Given. No. 12 is a third edition of Appleton Morgan's "Study of the Warwickshire Dialect, with a glossary and notes touching the Edward the Sixth Grammar Schools and the Elizabethan pronunciation as deduced from the puns in Shakespeare's plays."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish at once new and improved issues of the following books, heretofore published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston: "Bible Readings on the Progressive Development of Youth and Experience in the Books of the Old Testament," "Frank, or, the record of a happy life," and "Holiness as set forth in the Scriptures," all by Hannah Whitall Smith; also, "The Characteristic Differences of the Four Gospels," and "The Law of the Offerings," both by Andrew Jukes.

THIS year the London Academy has split its hundred guinea prize, and instead of "crowning" two books, it has "crowned" three, viz., Sidney Lee's "Life of Shakespeare," Maurice Hewlett's "The Forest Lovers," and Joseph Conrad's "Tales of Unrest." In making the awards the aim, the Academy explains, is "to seek for promise, sincerity, and thoroughness in literary art rather than to acknowledge fulfilment." It is not, therefore, a question of crowning the best books of the year, but of encouraging original talent.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish in the near future Carlyle's letters to his younger sister, Mrs. Jane Hadding; a "Life of Thaddeus Stevens," by Samuel W. McCall; a "Life of Edwin M. Stanton," by George C. Gorham; "Fields, Factories, and Workshops," by Prince Peter Kropotkin; "A Federation of the World," by Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood; "Papias, a study of the second century," by the Rev. Edward H. Hall; "Every-day Butterflies," by Samuel H. Scudder; and "Corn Plants," by F. L. Sargent.

COPELAND & DAY have just ready "By the Way About Musicians," by William Foster Apthorp, being a collection of short essays on music and art in general, taken from the program-books of the Boston Symphony Orchestra which the author has edited since 1892. From the beginning there has been a department in these program-books headed "Entr'acte," in which the editor has been free to print any sort of matter he considered of musical interest to the audience. This material has now been issued in two neat little volumes full of interesting matter for readers of artistic feelings and impulses.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready "Discussions in Education," by the late Francis A. Walker, late President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, addresses and papers that have been edited by James Phinney Munroe; "English romanticism of the XVIIIth Century," by Henry A. Beers, consisting of a series of lectures given in elective courses in Yale College; and "Eighteenth Century Letters," edited by R. Brimley Johnson, with an introduction by Stanley Lane-Poole, of which one volume contains letters of Swift, Addison and Steele, and the other letters of Johnson and Lord Chesterfield. A novel by John Oxenham is also ready, entitled "God's Prisoner," a thoroughly original story of a man who escapes human justice, but remains God's prisoner, guarded by his tormenting conscience.

THE Rev. James Brittain Miller, the alleged book thief, who has, it is charged, during the past five years, stolen nearly 5000 volumes from Yale students, professors, and various New Haven libraries, failed to make his appearance in the City Court, New Haven, January 31, to answer the forty-seven separate charges the authorities had prepared against him. His bond, amounting to $1500, was called and forfeited. During the past few days the authorities have discovered new cases against Miller, including burglary and fraudulent use of the United States mails. The local post-office inspector is said to have a good case against Miller, and there is a likelihood that he may still have to stand trial in the Federal courts. When last heard of Miller was in Boston.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish at once K. Waliszewski's "Marysienka-Marie de la Grande d'Arquien, Queen of Poland and wife of Sobieski, 1641-1716," translated from the French by Lady Mary Loyd. It is a somewhat elaborate biography of the little-known but fascinating French woman who became Queen of Poland. They announce for early spring publication a new novel by Amelia E. Barr, entitled, "I, Thou, and the Other One"; a collection of stories by Ira S. Dodd, entitled "The Songs of the Rappahannock"; Ruskin's Letters to Rossetti and others of his Contemporaries (one of the most important contributions to recent Ruskin literature). Joubert's "Thoughts," translated into English, with a preface by Mrs. Humphry Ward; and a new volume of poems by Paul Laurence Dunbar, the author of "Lyrics of Lowly Life."

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co., Boston, will publish on the 21st inst. Washington's Farewell Address, edited by Worthington C. Ford, who is now connected with the statistical department of the Boston Public Library. It will contain a facsimile of the Washington manuscripts. They will also issue a new edition of the New England Primer—not a reproduction, but a reprint for popular use, since it is believed that the little book which served our ancestors so well will be no less useful to our children. They are preparing a volume to be entitled "The Memory of Lincoln," which will contain a selection of the best-known poems which Lincoln inspired. The authors represented will be James Russell Lowell, in a selection from the Commemoration Ode, Tom Taylor with his famous Punch poem, Walt Whitman's splendid tribute, and others by John James Piatt, R. H. Stoddard, George Henry Boker, Herman Melville, Bayard Taylor, Whittier, Stedman, and others. The volume will be edited by M. A. De W. Howe.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly "The Stolen Story," a collection of the newspaper stories by Jesse Lynch Williams, which have appeared from time to time in Scribner's Magazine; "If I were a Man," a novelette by Harrison Robertson, author of that excellent Southern story, "How the Derby was Won"; a new book by George W. Cable, which, under the title of "Strong Hearts," will include the three short stories recently published in Scribner's—"The Entomologist," "The Taxidermist," and "The Solitary." They also announce F. J. Snell's "Literature of the Fourteenth Century"; a "History of Yiddish Literature in the Nineteenth Century," by Leo Wiener, instructor in Slavonic languages at Harvard University; "The Life of Danton," from the French of Hilaire Belloc; two important books of travel—"On the South African Frontier," by William Harvey Brown, and "In the Klondyke, with an account of a winter's journey to Dawson," by Frederick Palmer; and two books on music—"Mezzotints in Modern Music," by W. J. Huneker, and "The Orchestra and Orchestral Music," by W. J. Henderson, the first volume of a new series to be entitled The Music Lovers' Library.

R. H. RUSSELL will issue immediately a profusely illustrated and handsomely bound edition of "Trelawny of the Wells," Arthur W. Pinero's latest comedieta, which is being presented in New York with such distinguished success. "The Story of the Princess des Ursins in Spain," by Constance Hill (Camarera-Mayor,) will also be published at once. This book presents the picture of a brilliant Frenchwoman of the early eighteenth century, who is a central and dominant figure during the turmoil and chaos of the wars of the Spanish Succession. Her history affords glimpses of Spanish and French Court life, the work of the Holy Inquisition, and the intrigues of the time, and forms a live and vital chapter in a period of history of never-ending value and interest. A number of reproductions of admirable contemporary portraits further enrich a work which throughout is most interestingly as well as most carefully written. A new and improved edition of "Phil May's Sketch Book," in new binding is announced; and new editions of "Cyrano de Bergerac," by M. Rostand (authorized translation,) with illustrations by Ernest Haskell; "Sketches and Cartoons"; the Maude Adams edition of "The Little Minister," and the "Maude Adams Souvenir," will also be issued immediately. Mr. Whistler's new book, "The Baronet and the Butterfly," is also announced for publication at an early day.

FREDERICK A. STOKES Co. are making preparations for an active publishing season. Their specialty is fiction, and they will provide a good deal of it of a very good kind in the near future. "The Sturgis Wager," by Edgar Morette, will be a detective story; Stephen Crane's new novel, with illustrations by Will Bradley, will be entitled "War Is Kind"; Tom Hall, the author of "When Hearts are Trumps," has written a new book, to be issued under the title "All Along the Line"; Fred Whishaw's historical novel, "At the Court of Catherine the Great," recently completed in the New York Evening Sun, will be issued as a companion volume to Charles Graham's successful "The Son of the Czar"; Sara Jeanette Duncan (Mrs. Cotes) is to have a novel entitled "Hilda" in this country and "A Harbour City" in England, India, and Australia; and Crockett's new story will be published under the name of "The Silver Skull." Many volumes of fiction and of juvenile literature published last year by the Stokes were very successful, and second editions are already in preparation of Mrs. Cragie's "Ambassador," Baring-Gould's "Domitia," Robert Barr's "Tekla," Morrison's "A Yankee Boy's Success," Miss Sage's "A Little Colonial Dame," and Clinton Ross's "Heroes of Our War with Spain." Outside of fiction the publishers have second editions of Charles Nelan's "Cartoons of Our War with Spain," and of "The Chap Record," the original little book for young girls in which to keep their conquests tabulated.

THE MACMILLAN Co. are already issuing the fourth edition of Prof. Dean C. Worcester's "The Philippine Islands and Their People," which, owing to the author's appointment as a member of the special commission to visit the Philippine Islands, is sure of a speedy sale. In biography the house announces Purcell's "Cardinal Newman as Anglican and Catholic"; "The Life and Letters of Archbishop Benson"; and "The Life and Remains" of Rev. R. H. Quick, edited by Francis Starr, who has shown great discrimination in choosing material to make known the life-work of the great English educator. Of scientific value will be the two final volumes in Albutt's "System of Medicine"; Part II. of "Experimental Morphology," by Charles Benedict Davenport, instructor in zoölogy in Harvard University; and "The Spirit of Organic Chemistry," by Arthur Lochman, professor of chemistry in the University of Oregon. Two contributions to economics will be "The Development of Thrift," by Wilcox Brown, of the Children's Aid Society, Baltimore, Md.; and "The Theory of the Leisure Class," an economic study in the evolution of institutions by Horstein B. Veblen, of the University of Chicago. "European History, an Outline of its Development," is the title of a work by Prof. George B. Adams, of Yale University; "The Roman History of Appian of Alexandria" has been translated from the Greek by Horace White, and will be published in two volumes; and George Willis Botsford, of Harvard, has completed "A History of Greece for High Schools and Academies." In applied science there will be "A History of Physics, including the evolution of physical laboratories," by Florian Cajori; and "Steam, Gas, and Oil Engines," by John Perry, of the Royal College of Science, South Kensington. Other books announced for early publication are an entirely new edition of Charles Herbert Moore's "Development and Character of Gothic Architecture"; "The Rogue's Comedy" and "The Physician," two plays by Henry Arthur Jones; and "Don Quixote," with the illustrations of Cruikshank, intended for schools, in a translation by John Ormsby.

FOREIGN NOTES.

JOHN LONG, London, will publish at once a novel entitled "Oswald Steele," by Eibbon Berkley, the plot of which turns on Ritualism.

PREPARATIONS are being made at Paris for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Racine's death, which falls on April 26.

S. CALVARY & Co., Berlin, have now ready the first volume and the first four parts of the third volume of the "Babylonische Talmud text nach der editio princeps mit varianten nebst Übersetzung und erklärungen," edited and translated by Lazarus Goldschmidt. This first complete and critical edition of the Babylonian Talmud will be complete in nine volumes—to be published at the rate of a volume a year.

A. DUCKWORTH & Co., of London, have just published a volume of "New Letters of Walter Savage Landor, private and public," edited by Stephen Wheeler. The publication of these letters has been authorized by Lady Graves-Sawle, to whom most of the correspondence was addressed. The letters cover a period of twenty-five years, and are full of allusions to the political, literary, and social history of a quarter of a century, from 1838 to 1863.

GRANT RICHARDS, London, will publish in March or April Dr. Conan Doyle's new novel "A Duet—with an Occasional Chorus." This story has been withheld from serial publication because it appeared to the author that a work depending, as this does, for its effect upon feeling and atmosphere rather than upon incident is liable to produce a false impression if published in that form. His endeavor is to draw married life and to describe the humors and incidents of the domestic experiences of a young couple of the middle class.

How grievously the censorship galls the Russian book trade we learn from the Vossische Zeitung, whose St. Petersburg correspondent reports that for many weeks many thousand copies of Bismarck's "Gedanken und Erinnerungen" have been lying in all the larger towns of the empire, booksellers being refused permission to sell them. If a bookseller here and there has succeeded in withdrawing a few copies from the prying eyes of the censorship officials, the great majority are still kept under lock and key by the authorities. Even the highest official authority, the Supreme Press Department, dare not authorize the giving out of the books, as they contain matters which are usually erased by the censorship, such as the mention of the assassination of the Emperor Paul—only the sudden death of the Emperor is allowed to be mentioned in public—the candid opinions on the late Chancellor of the Empire, Prince Gortschakoff, etc. So the Supreme Press Department has left to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the decision as to authorization of the sale of the Bismarck Memoirs, and Count Mouravieff will now have to judge if the posthumous work of Prince Bismarck may or may not be read in Russia.

THE STRUGGLING YOUNG AUTHOR.—"I sometimes wonder," said the struggling young author, "if I shall be compelled to wait until I have achieved a name before my contributions will be accepted, and it always makes me think of what a neighbor said about the lady next door, who was always practising, that she never ought to be permitted to touch a piano until she had learned how to play."—N. Y. Sun.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Nature Study

By J. LIBERTY TADD Director of the Public School of Industrial Art, Member of the Art Club, Sketch Club, and Educational Club, and of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia.

Based on 22 Years' Experience with thousands of children and hundreds of teachers

tional institution or to the family, and limited only by the capacity of the individual; a method covered by natural law, working with the absolute precision of nature itself; a process that unfolds the capacities of children as unfold the leaves and flowers; a system that teaches the pupils that they are in the plan and part of life, and enables them to work out their own salvation on the true lines of design and work as illustrated in every natural thing."

The Highest Indorsement by educators and teachers still more by parents whose children have had the benefit of this training. James Cuthbert Hall, President Union Theological Seminary, New York: "The latest advance in pedagogic science." Dr. A. E. Winship, editor New England Journal of Education: "Must be of great service to the profession." Prof. Herman T. Lukens, Pennsylvania State Normal School: "A duty to use my influence in helping to make Tadd's methods known." President Dixon, Bible Normal College: "In entire sympathy and delighted with his natural method. Such a clear-cut presentation of eternal principles has long been needed." Talcott Williams, editor Philadelphia Press, speaking for parents: "I have been urging Tadd's methods for seventeen years." Dr. George E. Dawson, Professor of Psychology (Clark University and Bible Normal): "Tadd is working upon sound pedagogical principles, and is utilizing in a most successful manner hitherto almost undiscovered resources of the human mind and body." Dr. W. H. Hailmann: "To each individual, Tadd would afford opportunity to gather strength and insight, as well as stimulus to rise into enthusiastic mastership."

showing children and teachers practicing these new methods or their work. A revelation to all interested in developing the wonderful capabilities of young or old. The pictures instantly fascinate every child, imbuing it with a desire to do likewise. Teachers and parents at once become enthusiastic and delighted over the Tadd methods, which the book enables them to put into practice. Size, 7½ x 10½ inches, almost a quarto; 456 pages, fine plate paper, beautifully bound, in cloth and boards, cover illuminated in gold, weight 4½ pounds. Boxed, price, $3.00. Prospectus free.

THE "MAINE"

An Account of her Destruction in Havana Harbor

THE PERSONAL NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN

CHARLES D. SIGSBEЕ, U.S.N.

8vo, 270 pages, richly illustrated. $1.50.

"Every detail, as told by Captain Sigsbee, seems to acquire new interest and meaning."—Portland Times.

The War with Spain was precipitated by the explosion of the Maine, and it is fitting that the memory of so fatal an event should be preserved for posterity by the captain of the battleship. Captain Sigsbee tells his story with a simplicity that emphasizes the impressive facts. While he declares his belief that the explosion was external, he does not attempt to fasten the act on any individual. A series of appendices presents the findings of the Court of Inquiry, and there is a list (not before published) of the dead and wounded members of the crew of the Maine, showing the present location of the remains of such as were identified.

On May 5, 1898, just two weeks after the Spanish-American War broke out, Mr. Kennan started for the front as correspondent for The Outlook. The basis of this book is the material which he contributed to that paper, with revisions and a great deal of new matter. Mr. Kennan is famous for his powers as a descriptive writer, and for his accuracy in gathering facts, and all of these qualities are conspicuous in this interesting volume.

CAMPAIGNING IN CUBA

By GEORGE KENNAN,

Author of "Siberia and the

8vo, 100 illustrations. $2.50.

No more welcome book could be offered to American readers than the life of the author of the famous "Alice in Wonderland," edited by Lewis Carroll's nephew, and made up largely of the letters and diaries of the author of "Alice." The book contains many interesting explanations of the humor of "Alice," and the illustrations are of extraordinary interest, including a number of portraits of Lewis Carroll taken at different ages; portraits of his family and of his correspondents and friends—Tennyson, the Duke of Albany, Ruskin, Tom Taylor, George MacDonald, Ellen Terry, Sir John Millais—all from photographs by Lewis Carroll himself; illustrations from his diary; sketches from amateur papers edited by him in his boyhood; etc., etc.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF LEWIS CARROLL

Author of
"Alice in Wonderland."

12mo, 513 pages. $1.50.

Dr. Barry has waited twelve years before following up his first success with a new novel. In "The Two Standards" Dr. Barry presents very vividly many phases of English social, artistic, and religious life at the present time. The characters are strikingly lifelike, and the intellectual and moral atmosphere of London at the close of the nineteenth century is reproduced in his pages with remarkable fidelity.

Folio, 10½ x 14, with 161 illustrations, including a number of original lithographs. $25.00.

LITHOGRAPHY AND LITHOGRAPHERS

By Joseph Pennell and Elizabeth Robins Pennell

Superbly Illustrated.

THE TWO STANDARDS

An International Romance
By Rev. William Barry, D.D.

Author of
"The New Antigone."

This is a work that will appeal to all lovers of beautiful books, and especially to collectors, artists, art students, and practical lithographers. It is published one hundred years after the invention of lithography, and it tells the story of the growth of the art, while its many illustrations by the masters of lithography, from the earliest days of the art to the present time, add a rare interest and value to its pages. The frontispiece is an original lithograph by Whistler—a portrait of Joseph Pennell—and one of the pictures is a colored lithographic portrait of Gladstone, drawn by J. McLure Hamilton. The edition is limited and orders should be placed early.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

IN REGARD TO

The March "BOOKMAN."

READY FEBRUARY 25th.

DODD, MEAD & CO., the publishers of THE BOOKMAN, are glad to announce that, in addition to the other attractions which they will present to their readers during the year, they have secured a Serial Story of the time of THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, entitled

"Janice Meredith"

By PAUL LEICESTER FORD,

Author of "THE HONORABLE PETER STIRLING," etc., etc.

It has been said more than once that if any man were qualified to write the great American historical novel it is Mr. Ford, for he combines with an intimate knowledge of the subject and period, the power to write a strong, absorbing, and successful novel.

His "Honorable Peter Stirling" is now in its 60th thousand.

The following is a brief description of "JANICE MEREDITH" by an eminent critic who has read the manuscript :

"It is an attempt to do in the North what Thackeray did in the South with 'The Virginians' during the same period. It is a picture of the social life of the people of that time.

"Just as in 'The Virginians' Mr. Ford opens his story with a series of chapters which show us the way in which people thought and acted in 1776 in the State of New Jersey; through the story we hear the hum of the oncoming strife, and by-and-by the story gathers force and impetus as General Washington comes on the scene, and we are introduced to the struggles on Manhattan Island, on the Jersey shore, crossing the Delaware, camping out at Morristown, and so on through the war.

"The interest in the story is strong from the start. The first chapter opens brightly and winningly, and in the second we are brought upon a mystery—and there is nothing that your reader loves so much in a story as a mystery.

"With the introduction of a mystery there also begins to appear an incipient love-story, but both are so dexterously handled that not until the end does the reader know what the end is to be.

"Washington comes repeatedly into the story, and the character of its hero is based on Alexander Hamilton."

"JANICE MEREDITH" begins in the March BOOKMAN (ready February 25th) and will be concluded during the year 1899.

All booksellers and newsdealers should revise their order to the News Company, as the demand will be heavy.

NOTES IN SEASON.

POTTER & PUTNAM Co., 63 Fifth Avenue, New York, announce an attractively gotten up volume, entitled "The Crocus Tragedy," by R. M. Streeter, suitable for an Easter gift. The book is illustrated with photogravures from original drawings, and is printed in two colors on heavy lithograph coated paper.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will issue about the 20th of this month a book by Dr. C. W. Doyle, entitled "The Taming of the Jungle." Dr. Doyle was born at Landour, in the hills of the Himalayas. He lived in India for some years and then went to England to study medicine. His father was killed in the Sepoy war of 1857-58, at the head of a regiment of native cavalry.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish at once Justin McCarthy's "The Story of the People of England in the Nineteenth Century." The work is said to be a picture rather than a record of England's development in all the arts of peace since the close of the great war with Napoleon. Since that time a complete revolution has taken place in all that relates to applied and industrial science. The portraits of the great men who led all these different movements are carefully and vividly drawn, and the object is to impress the mind of the reader with a clear idea of each man and each man's work in that period of English history. They will also publish at once a work on "The Law and History of Copyright in Books," by Augustine Birrell (not Burrell, as previously announced.) The volume is based on a series of lectures recently delivered by Mr. Birrell at University College, London, where he is Quain Professor of Law.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "Essay on the Bases of the Mystic Knowledge," by E. Récéjac, translated by Sara Carr Upton, a work concerned not specially with Christian mysticism, but with all transcendental methods from the Alexandrian ecstasy down to the last novelties of occultism. The author compares mysticism with other methods of knowing and gives it a place in philosophy. Other books just published include "A Manual of Patrology," by Wallace Nelson Stearns, a concise account of the chief persons, sects, orders, etc., in Christian history from the beginning to the period of the Reformation, with select bibliographical references; "A Short History of Astronomy," by Arthur Berry, of King's College, Cambridge; "The Higher Education," by George Trumbull Ladd, four essays which have appeared in various magazines; and "The Porto Rico of Today," by Albert Gardner Robinson.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. will publish shortly Stephen Bonsal's description of the Cuban campaign from Tampa to the surrender, entitled "The Fight for Santiago," which will contain a number of illustrations from drawings and photographs made on the spot and several large maps; "Through the Turf Smoke," by Seumas [Shamus] MacManus, who is doing for his native Donegal much the same service that J. M. Barrie did for Thrums; "Two Men o' Mendip," a pathetic story of life among the miners in Western England, by Walter Raymond; "The Minister of Carthage," a novelette by Miss Caroline A. Mason, whose stories of ministerial life have won wide popularity; "McTeague," another novel of San Francisco life, by Frank Morris; and "How to Plan the Home Grounds," by S. Parsons, ex-superintendent of parks of New York City, whose book supplies the first authoritative and complete, yet cheap, popular manual on landscape gardening, covering the whole subject, from laying out the yard of the suburban residence to the designing and arrangement of city parks and squares, and the beautifying of the grounds about railroad stations. They have in press for immediate publication a novel by Miss Jane Helen Findlater, called "Rachel." It is an unusual story, tracing the development of Michael Fletcher, a modern prophet, whose wonderful mental and spiritual gifts, and power over his auditors, finally lead him into devious paths. The scene is laid chiefly in Edinburgh, and the sect of the "Foreseers" to which Michael joins himself typifies some of the rather spiritualistic tendencies of religious thought.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illus., vated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Barry, W: The two standards. N. Y., The Century Co., 1899. c. '98. 9+516 p. D. cl., $1.50. [266]

"The title is taken from one of the Exercises of St. Ignatius, the famous parable which is the Christian counterpart of the Choice of Herakles. The problem is as old as the world—the choice between the pleasing evil and the bitter good. The purpose of the book is to trace the progress from indeterminate ease to the crisis which arrives soon or late for every man, when the standard of right and wrong reveals itself as solitary and final. But this is a mere general description; in detail the problem presents itself in a thousand forms. From first to last the history of Marian Grey-stoke's life is a tissue of problems—from the schwermütisch girl's longing for the great world, to the final renunciation of the lust of the eyes and the pride of life."—The Academy.

"The heroine's favorite metaphor is that "upon the altar of life we must make constant offering." Having beauty, wealth, and social position, she cheerfully resigns all these and her cherished aims for the love of a man whose past is shadowed. Touched by her self-sacrifice, her lover is eventually converted to her higher ideals, and in turn shows himself capable of self-oblation. The last act in their unconventional love-story is decidedly the most interesting. The scenes are English.

omy. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. 81+440 p. il. D. (University ser.) cl., net, $1.50. [268]

An outline of the history of astronomy from the earliest historical times to the present day; presented in a form intelligible to a reader who has no special knowledge of either astronomy or mathematics, and has only an ordinary educated person's power of following scientific reasoning. Short biographical sketches of leading astronomers are included in the narrative. Authorities and books for students covers six pages. Index.

Mr. S. Dodgson Collingwood is a nephew of "Lewis Carroll" and knew him well. In the task which he has completed he has suffered almost from an embarrassment of riches, for Lewis Carroll kept a copy of every letter he wrote, and all that came to him were carefully filed. The book consists in great part of his letters to children, and these are most delightful reading, resembling "Alice" itself, and running over with the drollest nonsense. Lewis Carroll's diary of a tour in Russia and other journals are also drawn upon. Apart from amusing anecdotes and quaint reflections, they show in a most interesting way the incessant ingenuity of his mind. He was full of problems and notions of new games, and all these ideas he noted down.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

The book contains many interesting explanations of the humor of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the looking-glass."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 11, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereto."—LORD. BACON.

WAITING ON CUSTOMERS.

EVERY bookseller's assistant should learn how to wait on several customers at one time, when necessity demands it. In a normal state of affairs it might be unscriptural to endeavor to serve two masters at one and the same time; but on occasions when customers crowd the store, not to be able to engage the attention of more than one customer, means the loss of one or more sales. Politely greeting a waiting customer often suffices to encourage him to tarry. It is not necessary to neglect one customer for another; the knack is simply to entertain as many of those who may be waiting while the customer who is being served is kept busy looking over the books selected for his choice. The small wants of later customers can often be disposed of while the first customer is making up his mind. The pressing question of another may be answered while the clerk's eye is watching the movements and moods of the customer who first engaged his attention. Waiting in a store is very much like waiting for a train. Every incident is welcomed for the sake of while away the time; hence the salesman should be prepared to furnish his customers incident or diversion of some kind. If any of those who are waiting are known to the clerk, a new book on a subject in which the customer is known to be interested or a friendly word may help him to wonder how quickly the time of waiting has passed.

A nervous or fussy clerk had better not attempt to become involved with more than one customer at a time, because bungling in such a matter will cause havoc that can possibly never be made good again. Handling customers is an art; handling more than one at the same time without confusion is a fine art which only a self-possessed, suave, and well-posted clerk can master thoroughly; nevertheless, every well-balanced clerk with a good knowledge of his stock and ordinary training should be able in time to approximate even if he cannot attain to perfection in this direction.

THE OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESSES DENY THE CHARGE OF BAD FAITH.

THE following "Memorandum," which has been drawn up at the request of the Delegates of the Oxford University Press and the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press, is published by their authority, and explains itself:

"A statement has been circulated in the American newspapers to the effect that the publication in America of an edition of the Revised Version of the Bible, in which the American preferences hitherto printed in an Appendix have been incorporated in the text, is a violation of the compact made in 1877 between the English University Presses and the American Revision Committee.

"It is desirable that such a statement, imputing dishonourable conduct to the University Presses should not pass unnoticed, and it is necessary to call attention to the precise terms of the Agreement with the American Revisers on this point.

"After protracted negotiations with regard to the cooperation of the American Revision Committee, a Memorandum of Agreement was submitted by the University Presses, 3 August, 1877, and accepted and ratified by the American Committee on the 28th of September following. The 7th Clause of this Agreement stands thus:

"The American Committee will in no case interfere with the interests of the two University Presses in the Revised Version as finally settled.

"They will do what lies in their power to promote the freest circulation of the editions of the University Presses in the United States, not only by abstaining from issuing any editions of their own, but by recognizing the editions of the University Presses as the authorized editions, and in all proper ways favouring such issues and discouraging irresponsible issues, for the period of fourteen years."

"There is no compact, express or implied, that the University Presses were prohibited from issuing, if they thought proper, either during the period of fourteen years, or after its expiration, such an edition as has recently been published by them in the United States.

"In ratifying the Agreement the American Committee wisely undertook only to do what lay in their power to protect the interests of the University Presses, and this undertaking they have loyally fulfilled. But they have not of course been able to check the issue of surreptitious editions which appeared as soon as the Revised Version was published in the United States, nor more recently have they been able to prevent Messrs. Thomas Nelson and Sons from announcing and publishing in 1896 a new Series of 'The Revised Bible and Revised Apocrypha,' and drawing attention to the fact that 'These are American made books.'

"In the year 1887 an application was made to the University Presses, by the American Revisers, to issue, for use in America, editions of the Revised Version with the American preferences incorporated in the text, or to allow the Revisers themselves to do so. For some reason the proposal was not entertained, although the Presses were informed that there was a great demand for such editions, which the American Revisers were desirous of meeting before their number was seriously diminished. Several such editions of the Revised New Testament had already been published without authority before 1883.

"At the time that the Agreement was made the University Presses were informed that the American Committee was not incorporated, and would dissolve as soon as the Revision was completed. They have had no intimation from the American Revisers that they were engaged in preparing a revised edition of the Revised Version for use in America, to be published as soon as the term of the Agreement had expired. The preliminary announcement of this edition, dated December 10, 1898, shews that it will be an essentially different work from that which appeared with the deliberate approval of the original Committee in 1881-1885.

"In order to meet the growing demand for editions of the Revised Version with Marginal References, which the Revisers themselves had declined to undertake, the University Presses took steps for the preparation of such editions. For the sake of such American purchasers as might desire it, the marginal references were in one edition adapted to a text in which were incorporated the American renderings hitherto relegated to an Appendix. In dealing with this re-arrangement of material the Presses believe that they were acting strictly within their own rights, and certainly that they were not doing anything in contravention of their Agreement with the American Revision Committee. The Preface indicates that the book does not lay claim to be put forth by the Committee now sitting, or to incorporate in the text any renderings other than those for which the American Revision Committee expressed their final preference at the time of the publication of the Revised Version.

A MEMORIAL TO A COLONIAL PRINTER AND BOOKSELLER.

SUPPLEMENTING the brief mention of the event at the time it occurred, we now give space to fuller details of a part of the exercises at the unveiling of the handsome brass memorial tablet to Christopher Sower (2d) pioneer bishop of the Brethren Church in the United States, and to his father, Christopher Sower (1st), the Colonial printer, on January 1, at the Germantown Church of the Brethren, Main and Sharpnack Streets, Philadelphia. On that occasion an address was made by Charles G. Sower, a lineal descendant of the men honored and the president of the Christopher Sower Company, reviewing the life-work of Christopher Sower (1st), one of the pioneer printers of the American colonies, and printer of the first American quarto edition (in the German language) of the Bible in 1743. The first edition numbered 1200 copies. A second edition (of 2000 copies) was printed in 1763 by his son and namesake, and a third edition (of 3000 copies) in 1776. The third edition is the scarcer in number than the preceding ones, as most of the sheets were used as gun wadding by the British artillerymen, who discovered them in a barn, where they had been hidden for safekeeping.

In the course of his address Mr. Sower spoke of the influence of the early German settlers in developing the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of the rise among them, both in their native land and in that of their adoption, of religious sects. He then took up briefly the history of those Germans who united themselves with non-resisting sects in their fatherland and who subsequently gladly accepted the invitation of William Penn to come to a province where liberty of worship, according to the dictates of conscience, was guaranteed. Of the life and character of Christopher Sower (1st) he said: "Christopher Sower [or Christoph Sauer, as it was originally written] was born in 1693 in Laasphe, a small town near Witgenstein and Marburg, in Germany. The town remains to this day, probably changed very little since he left it to come to America in 1724.

"But little is known of his ancestors beyond the fact that they were in comfortable circumstances and able to give a good education to their children. In Marburg is a university where Christopher is said to have graduated, after which he spent five years in a great medical dispensary in Halle. There he obtained the medical education of which he made practical use through the remainder of his life in prescribing and compounding remedies and specifics for various complaints and disorders, mainly in this way earning his means of support.

"He was surrounded by a body of earnest religious inquirers in his German home, and so at an early age became filled with the desire for religious liberty which induced so many of his countrymen to come to America. Already he was married, and his son Christopher (2d) was born in Laasphe, Germany, in 1721.

"He was a man of remarkable ingenuity, who thought it his duty and did not hesitate to undertake any employment in which his services were needed and might be useful in a new colony, even though it might be one very different from that in which he had been educated.

"Intercourse with Germany was infrequent at that time, and the early settlers were at times greatly in need of articles that for want of training and materials they could not make for themselves. German books and periodicals, especially almanacs suited to American longitude, were exceedingly difficult to obtain, and also copies of the Holy Scriptures, although these were partially supplied by occasional importations.

"Letters and solicitations were continually sent to friends in Germany, begging them to obtain and send out materials and outfit for printing. At length, in 1738, after much correspondence, a small supply was obtained from old friends in Halle. There being no printers among the German settlers, these materials were placed in the hands of Sower as one most capable of making proper use of them, although he was not a printer 'by trade.'

"Immediately he commenced printing, completing an almanac for 1739, a volume of hymns partially compiled by his talented though eccentric friend, Conrad Beissel, and one or more other works. Any news obtainable on which he might rely he also printed, at first in form of a 'broadside,' and then in a periodical or newspaper form, monthly, and, finally, weekly, until it had a circulation of 4000 copies. In the meantime he continued his regular medicinal business, and the demand for his specifics became so great that long lines of Conestoga teams, waiting their turns for obtaining supplies, would be formed, at certain busy seasons of the year, in front of his place of business.

"Bibles in the German language were difficult to obtain, although, as already stated, a limited number were imported. He became so impressed with the importance of supplying this want that in 1740 he determined to commence the great work of setting the type and printing an edition of the German quarto Bible, which was completed and published in 1743. Stereotyping had not been invented and the magnitude of the undertaking at that time can now be scarcely estimated. Only forms of four pages could be set up at a time, on which the sheets for the whole edition would be printed, when the types were distributed before commencing the next form. Finding his supply of type insufficient even for this, he contrived moulds and commenced casting his own types. He also made paper, compounded his own printers' ink, bound his books, besides various other employments in which his services could be made useful. Indeed, like a sensible immigrant in a new country, he refused no employment in which his ready ingenuity and abilities were needed. He enlarged and increased his business of publishing until his publications in the German and English languages numbered over two hundred different works, mainly of a religious character.

"Open fireplaces, besides consuming wasteful quantities of fuel, did not always fulfil their purpose; so he invented portable six-plate or box stoves, even before Franklin's iron fireplaces were made. He also made tall, eight-day 'grandfather's clocks.'

"About 1752 his only child Christopher (2d), in addition to his clerical duties, began to take active part in the publishing business and preparation of medicines, finally assuming entire charge when his father died in 1758.

The descent of the publishing business of the present firm of Christopher Sower Company is an interesting one. The heritage, according to the American Printer, can be clearly traced to Christopher Sower (1st). He died in 1758, and the business was continued by Christopher Sower (2d), and by him transferred to his son Samuel, whose son subsequently became the well-known type founder of Baltimore. In 1799 David, Sr., another son of Christopher Sower (2d), assumed direction of the business and transferred it to Norris-town. He was succeeded in 1816 by his son and namesake, who in 1842 was in turn succeeded by Charles G. Sower, son of David, Jr. In 1844 he transferred his business to Philadelphia, first establishing himself on Vine Street, below Third Street. In 1847 his establishment was removed to the west side of Third Street, below Race Street, where Mr. Sower united with himself William H. Barnes and conducted business under the title Sower & Barnes. The next move of the establishment was to Third Street, below Arch Street. In 1871 a location on Market Street was taken and retained until 1888, first as Sower, Barnes & Co., then as Sower, Barnes & Potts, and, finally, as Sower, Potts & Co. In 1888, just one hundred and fifty years after Christopher Sower (1st) received his printing materials, the business was incorporated under the title Christopher Sower Company. A short time subsequently the location of the establishment was changed from Market Street to 614 Arch Street. Charles G. Sower is president, J. Miles Jamison secretary, and David Bentley treasurer of the Christopher Sower Company.

The tablet measures four feet by two and a half feet, and is handsomely ornamented. It bears the following inscription:

"In memory of Bishop Christopher Sower, Bishop of the Church of the Brethren. Born 1721; deacon, 1747; minister, 1748; bishop, 1753; died, 1784. Only son of Christopher Sower, who was born 1693 in Laasphe, Germany, and came to America 1724. Published first Am. quarto edition of Holy Bible, 1743. Died in Germantown, 1758."

THE STORY OF A GREAT PUBLISHER.*

THE first two volumes relating the history of the great publishing house of Blackwood were noticed in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, November 13, 1897. They had been almost completed by Mrs. Oliphant just before her death, on June 25th of that year. In them she had given the history of the founding of the Blackwood publishing house, and of Blackwood's Magazine, by William Blackwood, and she had decided to devote a third volume to the life and work of John Blackwood, the youngest of the sons who followed their father's profession, and the one to whom the longest life was granted. In this volume Mrs. Oliphant was to have had the aid of a daughter's recollections of the details of the life of an honored father, and much of the material had already been gathered by Mrs. Gerald Porter. Upon the death of Mrs. Oliphant she was persuaded to put her facts into permanent shape, and the result is the present volume, which, while lacking the peculiar charm of all of Mrs. Oliphant's biographical work, has the impress of truth and is full of information of greatest interest. John Blackwood was editor of "Maga" for years, and his associations with almost all the best-known writers of his day have invested his name with special glamour. He was born December 7, 1818, and was the sixth son of William Blackwood. At the age of ten he entered the High School at Edinburgh, where he worked well and obtained many prizes. Latin was his strong point and history his favorite study. At a very early age his father and his brother Alexander discovered in John signs and indications which led them to suppose that of all the family he was the one most likely to assist in lightening their publishing labors in years to come, and in very early days he was jokingly called "the little editor." In early manhood he travelled on the Continent and learned French and German thoroughly. In November, 1838, John Blackwood was placed with Messrs. Whitaker to learn the practical details of the publishing business, and in 1840 he was given charge of the branch of Blackwood business which his brothers had started in Pall Mall. Here he first became known to the literary world as the representative of a well-known name, and formed acquaintances and literary connections which resulted, in most cases, in ties of the closest and happiest friendship. His real work as an editor did not begin until a few years after; but from the start he was constantly near the fountain-head of all that was interesting the world politically and socially both at home and abroad, and he kept his brothers constantly informed of all that was important for them to know, while making connections for them with Samuel Warren, Walter Savage Landor, Bulwer-Lytton, and many others who were making their mark in the literary world. In 1845 his brother Alexander died, and John was called to Edinburgh to relieve his brother Robert of cares and responsibility, and to take the editorship of Blackwood's Magazine, which he kept until his death in the autumn of 1879.

By means of letters written by himself and to him, we get an excellent idea of John Blackwood's generous way of regarding all men—always willing to see the best there was in everyone, and always merciful to those who were less morally and intellectually gifted than himself. Friendship contributed largely to his happiness, and few men had more friends so true and tried. The most fruitful period of the Victorian literary era was comprised in his time of active work as editor, and this third volume of the history of the Blackwood house is full of incident and anecdotes of authors appealing to the general reader. Trollope, George Eliot, Laurence Oliphant, and Lever stand out among the many well-known names. Almost all the books with which their names are identified are criticised and described in the letters of Blackwood. Especially interesting are the letters written to him in which the writers of the day weighed each other's work.

The volume was needed to round out the work begun by Mrs. Oliphant, and it completes a history of publishing and of authors that will be of great value in studying the period of Victorian literature.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FREDERICK BEECHER PERKINS, well known as a literary man and librarian, died at Morristown, N. J., on the 3d inst. He was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1828, and was the son of Thomas C. Perkins; his mother, who survives him, is a sister of Henry Ward Beecher. Mr. Perkins was a member of the class of '50 at Yale, but left college in 1848 and began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar at Hartford in 1851, and a year later he entered the Connecticut Normal School, where he was graduated the same year. He taught school for a time, and held other posts in Hartford until 1854, in which year he came to New York and became connected with the New York Tribune, remaining until 1857. Returning to Hartford he became assistant editor of Barnard's American Journal of Education, and was appointed librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society. From 1868 until January, 1870, he assisted the late George R. Cathcart in the editorship of the American Publisher and Book-seller, a monthly "record of American and foreign literature," published chiefly for the book trade. Early in 1869 Mr. Cathcart sold out his interest to Mr. Perkins, who edited and published the periodical alone until the beginning of the following year. Later he became secretary of the Boston Public Library. From 1880 to 1887 he was librarian of the San Francisco Free Public Library. While there he published his "Rational Classification of Literature for Shelving and Cataloguing Books in a Library." He was editorially connected with various papers and magazines. Among his writings are "Life and Work of Charles Dickens," "President Greeley, President Hoffman, and the Resurrection of the Ring, a history, by Pharaoh Budlong" [pseud.], "Burlington, 1872," "Scrope, or, the Lost Library," "Congressional District Vote Map of the United States," "Check-List for American Local History," "Devil Puzzlers," "My Three Conversations with Miss Chester," and the fourth edition of Putnam's "Best Reading." His short stories are especially remarkable for their brilliancy and cleverness. He was as noted for his historical and antiquarian knowledge as he was for his knowledge of books and of literature generally. He leaves two children—a son, Thomas, and a daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson, a poet. One of his sisters is Mrs. Edward Everett Hale.

THE RT. REV. JOHN WILLIAMS, Bishop of Connecticut and Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Church in America, died at Middletown, Conn., on the 7th inst. He was born in Deerfield, Conn., August 31, 1817. He was consecrated a bishop October 29, 1851, and for years assisted Bishop Brownell in the administration of the diocese of which he subsequently became bishop. He was for some years president of Trinity College and subsequently dean of the Berkeley Divinity School. His literary works include many valuable contributions to The American Church Quarterly Review, The Churchman, and other periodicals, a charge on "Everlasting Punishment" (1845), "Ancient Hymns of Holy Church" (1845), "Thoughts on the Gospel Miracles" (1848), "Paddock Lectures on the English Reformation" (1881), "Bedell Lectures on the World's Witness to Jesus Christ" (1882), historical sermons in "The Seabury Centenary" (1885), and "Studies in the Book of Acts" (1888). He also edited, with additional notes, in 1864, an American edition of Bishop Harold Browne's "Exposition of the Thirty-nine Articles."

IRVING BROWNE, a well-known lawyer and writer, died at his home in Buffalo, N. Y., on the 7th inst. He was born at Marshall, Oneida County, N. Y., in 1835, and was for many years editor of The Albany Law Journal and of the "American Reports." He was also a Shakespearean scholar of repute. Among his published works are a translation of Racine's comedy "The Suitors," "Humorous Phases of the Law," "Short Studies of Great Lawyers," "Elements of the Law of Domestic Relations," "Judicial Interpretation of Common Words and Phrases," "Law and Lawyers in Literature," "Iconoclasm and Whitewash," "The Character of the Nurse's Deceased Husband in Romeo and Juliet," etc. Before his last illness he was engaged in writing the American notes to the series of "English Ruling Cases," now in its sixteenth volume.

NELLIE CARROLL, who owned three book and periodical stores in Chicago, died in that city on the 9th inst., aged thirty. Miss Carroll was the eldest of ten children. Her father's death threw the care and maintenance of the family on her shoulders. She worked for her uncle, a plumber, then for a bookseller. In a year or two she bought out her employer and started out on her own splendidly successful career. She contracted consumption while a girl, and nothing but an indomitable will kept her alive. Her estate is valued at $30,000.

FRANK H. STEPHENS, bookseller, died at Binghamton, N. Y., January 16. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1836, and when quite young went to Binghamton. He was first a clerk in a dry-goods store, and then he went into the book business on his own account. Later he was associated with G. S. Perry. When the firm dissolved, that of Stephens & Miller was formed. About six years ago this firm in turn was dissolved, Mr. Stephens taking Mr. Miller's place in the business.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Rev. Dr. John Watson ("Ian Mac-laren") will give a reading in New York in the Waldorf-Astoria ball-room on the evening of March 3.

REV. E. H. HALL, formerly minister of the Unitarian church in Cambridge, has written a book of special interest to students of ecclesiastical history. It is entitled "Papias: A Study from the Second Century." Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will be the publishers.

A YEAR ago the president of the Cercle Français of Harvard University endowed a French lectureship in the university for the purpose of bringing over from France each year a man of letters to lecture before the university on some subject relating to French art, literature, or science. The first series of these lectures was given by M. René Doumic. This year the lecturer will be M. Edouard Rod, who will treat of "The History of French Dramatic Poetry," in eight lectures. Mr. Rod will also deliver lectures in many other American colleges, including Yale, Princeton, Columbia, the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell, Williams, Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Adelphi and Packer institutes in Brooklyn, and several French clubs. Mr. Rod is a young man, having been born in 1857 in Nyon, near Geneva. He made his first appearance in French literature as a champion of Zola in 1879, in a pamphlet about the novelist's "L'Assommoir." This was followed by several novels, but the first book really to disclose his talent and his real personality was "La Course à la Mort," published in 1885. He was also one of the founders of the Revue Contemporaine, and was appointed professor of foreign literature at the University of Geneva, at the same time keeping up his literary activity, especially in the domain of criticism and biographical studies, although he did not cease in his production of novels. After Mr. Rod the Cercle Français of Harvard expect M. Paul Bourget, of the Academy, to lecture in 1900.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

A NEW financial journal, Wall Street Topics, has just made its appearance in New York. Howard Irving Smith is editor and publisher.

TENNANT & WARD, New York, announce for March 1 a new monthly magazine, the Photo-Miniature. The first number will treat of Modern Lenses, and each issue will be a like monograph pertaining to the theory or practice of photography.

PAUL LEICESTER FORD has written a story of the American Revolution, entitled "Janice Meredith," which will be published serially in The Bookman. The first instalment will appear in the March issue, which is expected to be ready on the 25th inst.

Rhodora is the name of a new monthly journal published by the New England Botanical Club under the editorship of Dr. Benjamin Lincoln Robinson, Curator of the Gray Herbarium of Harvard University. Its aim is to further the study of the local flora. Among the contributors to the initial number are Dr. Robinson, Merrit L. Fernald, and Hollis Webster, of Harvard University.

THE first number of Bird-Lore, the new bi-monthly magazine published by The Macmillan Company, and edited by Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator in the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, contains articles by John Burroughs, Miss Merriam, and others well calculated to attract the rapidly growing number of bird students. In addition to general articles, book reviews, and editorials, there are departments for "Young Observers," "Teachers and Students," and the Audubon Societies, of which Bird-Lore is the official organ. The latter is under the charge of Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright, the author of "Birdcraft," "Citizen Bird," etc. The illustrations include a full-page photograph of John Burroughs before his study fire, and numerous pictures of wild birds photographed in life, which not only possess great interest in themselves but are noteworthy as feats in photography.

GEORGE REDWAY, London, will publish shortly a new book by G. C. Leland ("Hans Breitmann,") entitled "Have You a Strong Will?"

J. F. TAYLOR & Co., 66 Fifth Avenue, New York, will publish by subscription the Westminster edition of "The Novels and Poems of Charles Kingsley" in fourteen medium octavo volumes.

GINN & Co. will publish at once, in their Latin and Greek School Classics, the sixth book of the Odyssey, edited, with introduction, notes, and vocabulary, by Charles W. Bain, of the Sewanee [Tenn.] Grammar School.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will issue at once Edward Marshall's "The Story of the Rough Riders," illustrated with many engravings from photographs taken on the field and with numerous artistic drawings by R. F. Outcault.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have just published a volume of "Anecdotes and Morals," by Dr. Louis Albert Banks, containing over 500 interesting anecdotes, with forceful lessons that will be found useful by public speakers, preachers, and teachers.

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION, 25 Beacon Street, Boston, has printed for free distribution a pamphlet of twenty-eight pages, entitled "A Plea for Sincerity in Religious Thought," by the Rev. Joseph Henry Crooker, author of "Jesus Brought Back" and "Problems in American Society."

M. F. MANSFIELD & A. WESSELS, New York, will publish at once an exact reproduction of the (1886) Lahore edition of Kipling's "Departmental Ditties and Other Verses." The volume will resemble the original as to type, paper, binding, etc., and the edition will be limited to 250 copies, attested.

THE executors of "Old Sleuth" (Harlan P. Halsey) have sold all the plates and stock of the Old Sleuth Library to the J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Co. By this transaction about 135 sets of plates and 200,000 books were turned over to the Ogilvies, who will supply this series to the trade direct and not through the news companies.

F. T. NEELY, New York, will shortly issue "The Mark Twain Story Book," with a biographical sketch of Mark Twain, by Will M. Clemens; "Theodore Roosevelt, the American, his life and work," also by Will M. Clemens; and three works of fiction—"Tom Huston's Transformation," by Mrs. R. J. Love; "Thad Perkins," a story of early Indiana, by Frank A. Myers; and "Tanka," by T. H. Bean.

THE next volume in Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s Cambridge edition of the poets will be devoted to Milton. Its editor is William Vaughn Moody, of the University of Chicago, a comparatively recent graduate of Harvard, and it is said that his work has been done with rare success. This volume will be followed shortly by an edition of Keats, prepared by the general editor of the Cambridge series—Horace E. Scudder.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co., New York, have received a supply of Sir Henry Thompson's "Food and Feeding," the 9th enlarged edition of which was taken up almost immediately on publication. They will issue in a few days the second edition of Justin McCarthy's "Leo XIII." in the Public Men of To-Day series. For this edition Mr. McCarthy has written an additional chapter and made several minor corrections in the text.

DYRSSEN & PFEIFFER, 429 Fifth Avenue, New York, have published a volume of verses by Dr. L. Conrad, entitled "Grüsse an meine Freunde in New York, zum Besten des Deutschen Hospitals." The volume is attractively gotten up and will be welcomed as an interesting souvenir of one whose best years were given to the service of medicine in New York by the many patients who in after years became Dr. Conrad's firm friends.

THE CHISWICK PUBLISHING CO., 23 Duane Street, New York, of which Thos. J. Carey is now manager, have just published No. 1 of "Travellers' Yarns," a collection of anecdotes and "goaks"; also, "Cushing in a Nutshell," a vest-pocket guide for deliberative assemblies, based on the highest authorities and adapted to general use by W. E. Hallenbeck. They announce a revised and corrected edition of "Spanish at Sight, a practical system on the most simple principle for self-tuition, with English pronunciation of every word," by A. M. A. Beale, and lessons in Spanish phonography by Fred. R. Guernsey.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just published the long-delayed volume of "Book Auctions in the 17th Century," by John Lawler, compiler of the Ashburnham and Sunderland sales catalogues. The volume deals very fully with the origin, method, and progress of selling books by auction. The prices given for notable books, and the books which were most in demand at that period, are specially dealt with. The auctioneer's quaint introductions and terms appear in full, and the chronological table of the auctions is given in the index. They have nearly ready Dr. James Orr's Morgan Lecture, entitled "Neglected Factors in the Study of the Early Progress of Christianity."

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has just brought out the fifth impression of "Euphorion," which, most people agree, is Vernon Lee's most successful book. Of those who have not dipped into "Euphorion," by the way, we wonder how many there are who know what "Euphorion" means. The so-called "superogatory" is often useful, and therefore we do not hesitate to explain that "Euphorion" is the name given by Goethe to the marvellous child born of the mystic marriage of Faust and Helena. Vernon Lee takes Faustus to be the impersonation of the Middle Ages, Helena the impersonation of Antiquity, and "Euphorion," therefore, the impersonation of the Renaissance. Hence Vernon Lee's studies of the antique and the mediæval in the Renaissance are appropriately named.

DOUBLEDAY & McCLURE Co. announce an English translation of one of M. de Bergerac's own books, which no doubt will be interesting news to admirers of Rostand's much-discussed play. Soon after its appearance in Paris in the seventeenth century Bergerac's book was brought out in London, bearing the imprint of Henry Rhodes, 1687, and entitled "The Comical History of the States and Empires of the World of the Moon." The new edition, which will simply be called "A Voyage to the Moon," will be edited by Curtis H. Page, of Columbia University, and will be illustrated with four quaint contemporary engravings. The text, with the exception of a few verbal changes, will be that of 1687, "newly Englished by A. Lovell, A.M." What makes this tale of M. de Bergerac particularly interesting is the fact that from it M. Rostand drew the long speech of Cyrano de Bergerac in the third act of the play, where the Gascon keeps the Duke from entering the house by fascinating him with the story of his trip to the moon.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "Methods and Problems of Spiritual Healing," by Horatio W. Dresser, author of "The Power of Silence," etc. This book is expected to prove of interest to all who are investigating the problem of mental cure, or cure by suggestion. It makes a careful study of the phenomena of metaphysical healing, and is the result of a long series of careful investigations of the subject. In connection with the publication of this new volume, Messrs. Putnam have arranged to take over from George H. Ellis, of Boston, the publication of the entire series of the works of Mr. Dresser, of which new editions will shortly be in readiness. This series comprises the following titles: "The Power of Silence," "The Perfect Whole," "The Heart of It," "In Search of a Soul," "The Voices of Hope." They announce as in preparation "Historic Towns of the Middle States," including Albany, Kingston, Newburgh, Saratoga, Pittsburgh, Tarrytown, Philadelphia, Princeton, Wilmington, Schenectady, Brooklyn, and New York City, to be issued uniform with "Historic Towns of New England"; "History of the Territorial Expansion of the United States," by Charles Henry Butler; a volume on "Volcanoes," by Prof. T. G. Bonney, which will form No. 5 in their Science Series; "Industrial Cuba," by Robert P. Porter; "Miss Cayley's Adventures," by Grant Allen; and "Shakespeare in France," by J. Jusserand.

HENRY FROWDE, of the Oxford University Press, has just published a quarto volume entitled "The Master E. S. and the 'Ars Moriendi,' a chapter in the history of engraving during the 15th century," with facsimile reproductions of engravings in the university galleries at Oxford and in the British Museum, by Lionel Cust, Director of the National Portrait Gallery. The illustrations are collotypes from engravings of the greatest importance and interest, which will now, for the first time, be rendered generally accessible by accurate facsimiles of the exact size of the originals. They are as follows: (1) The unique set of eleven copper-plate illustrations to the "Ars Moriendi" by The Master E. S., in the Douce collection now in the university galleries at Oxford; (2) The all but unique set of eleven copper-plate engravings from the originals of The Master E. S., executed by The Master of St. Erasmus, and now in the Print Room of the British Museum; and (3) The exceedingly rare block-book (of twenty-four pages) acquired by the Trustees of the British Museum at the Weigel sale in Leipzig in 1872, and now in the Library of the British Museum. This has hitherto only been reproduced by inferior processes. Mr. Cust, in an introduction of twenty-one pages, discusses the relation of these sets of prints to each other. He accepts and confirms the conclusions of Dr. Max Lehrs, Director of the Cabinet of Prints and Drawings in the Royal Museums of Dresden, that the unique series of the engravings at Oxford is the true editio princeps of the "Ars Moriendi," which played so important a part in the life of the fifteenth century; that the designs must be regarded as belonging to the earlier work of The Master E. S., and that the illustrations of the block-book are little more than enlarged copies.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce the early publication of Professor H. Morse Stephens' second, revised, and enlarged edition of his "Syllabus of European History, 1600-1890," with bibliographies. To each lecture in the syllabus is appended a bibliography of authorities, secondary and primary, for the use of both students and teachers. These bibliographies are not exhaustive, but contain the titles of the principal primary authorities, and of the best secondary authorities in English, French, and German. They will also publish at an early date a supplement to the abridged edition of Bryce's "American Commonwealth," by F. H. Clark, of the Lowell High School, San Francisco, entitled "Outlines of Civil Government," which supplies additional information by means of documents printed entire or in abstract, by reference to other books easily accessible in school or public libraries, and by abstracts of general laws establishing county and township governments; "A Brief Introduction to Modern Philosophy," by Arthur Kenyon Rogers, who attempts to show how the problems of philosophy arise from the presuppositions of our ordinary beliefs and practical needs, and what are the most significant solutions that have been given to them by modern thought; and a series of four "Child-Life Readers," by Etta Austin Blaisdell, Supervisor of Schools, Brockton, Mass., the scope and contents of which may be gathered from the titles, which are: (1) "Child Life," (2) "Child Life in Tale and Fable," (3) "Child Life in Many Lands," and (4) "Child Life in History." The new volumes announced for publication in the spring in Macmillan's Classical Series are "Selections from Plato," edited by Lewis L. Forman, Instructor in Greek at Cornell University; "Selected Letters of Pliny," edited by Elmer Truesdell Merrill, Professor of Latin Language and Literature at Wesleyan University; and "Selections from the Greek Lyric Poets," Vol. 1.—"The Melic Poets," edited by Herbert Weir Smyth, Professor of Greek at Bryn Mawr College.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE sixth dinner of the Booksellers' League will be given at the French Restaurant, 111 W. 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 15th inst., at 6:30 sharp. Ernest D. North, of Charles Scribner's Sons, will give an informal talk on old book from the point of view of a dealer, and also of a collector, with a word on some notable private libraries in New York and vicinity. Those who wish to attend must give word to Frank Appel, at Brentano's, 31 Union Square, not later than the 13th inst.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

HAVE RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

BEERS'S ENGLISH ROMANTICISM—XVIII CENTURY.

By Prof. HENRY A. BEERS. With gilt top, 12mo, $2.00.
Literature:—"The author presents in himself a rare combination—a scholarly and historical knowledge, which places at his command a seemingly inexhaustible fund of literary data, and a keen and appreciative taste. The style of the book is happily easy, and a certain characteristic humor runs pleasantly between many of the lines. . . . Always interesting and lucid, his analyses are clear and profound, and his lighter details of literary happenings are often delightfully amusing. The book is a notable example of the best type of unpedantic literary scholarship."

WALKER'S DISCUSSIONS IN EDUCATION.

By the late FRANCIS A. WALKER, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Edited by JAMES P. MUNROE. 8vo, $3.00 net, special.
 The author had hoped himself to collect these papers in a volume. They are very fresh, incisive, and broad in treatment, and are grouped under Technological Education, Manual Education, The Teaching of Arithmetic and College Problems (including College Athletics). A Valedictory closes the book.

OXENHAM'S GOD'S PRISONER. A Story. 12mo, $1.25.

N. Y. Commercial Advertiser:—"A very intense sort of book—as, indeed, it would have to be to carry out effectively the central idea. . . . Contains many thrilling scenes and strong delineations of emotion."
N. Y. Times, Saturday Review:—"A romance of adventure carried out to its ultimate degree. . . . It is the ingenuity of the romance-maker which is so remarkable. . . . As good a piece of artistic work as we have seen is shown on the cover."

GODFREY'S POOR HUMAN NATURE.

A Musical Novel. 2d Impression. 12mo, $1.50.
Bookman:—"It is curiously convincing. The characters, too, are peculiarly real. . . . Each and every one stands out with vivid distinction, and is not soon to be forgotten. . . . The portrayal of local life, particularly that appertaining to operatic circles, is full of freshness and interest. . . . It is well written, it is nobly felt, it is altogether an admirable work."

PUGH'S TONY DRUM.

With cover and illustrations in color by WM. NICHOLSON and JAMES PRYDE. $1.50.
Life:—"There is a good deal more to Edwin Pugh's pathetic story . . . than the striking pictures by Wm. Nicholson . . . who succeeds in making visible and actual with a few broad strokes and splashes, the personality of the 'London Types' in this story. But Mr. Pugh also has a style of his own, and simplicity is the crayon with which he sketches . . . He is an artist in simple statement. He never slops over, or entices you to tears. . . . All the minor characters are drawn with the same firm touch of a realist who has a heart."

A Revised Edition of a Book for Young and Old.

LUCAS'S A BOOK OF VERSES FOR CHILDREN.

Over 200 poems from 80 authors. With illustrated title-page and cover-linings in color by F. D. BEDFORD, two other illustrations, and elaborate binding. 12mo, $2.00.
(Descriptive circular free.)
Critic:—"We know of no other anthology for children so complete and well arranged."

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY LETTERS.

Edited by R. BRIMLEY JOHNSON. With gravure portraits. Half vellum, 12mo, $1.75 net per volume.
 Swift, Addison, and Steele. (Poole.) One volume.
 Johnson and Lord Chesterfield. (Birkbeck Hill.) One volume.

MRS. VOYNICH'S THE GADFLY

16th Impression. $1.25.

HOPE'S RUPERT OF HENTZAU.

Illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson. 6th Impression. $1.50.

A Revised Edition of

CHAMPLIN AND BOSTWICK'S YOUNG FOLKS' CYCLOPÆDIA OF GAMES AND SPORTS.

* 8vo, $2.50.
 The following articles have been fully revised in accord with the latest official rules: Cycling, Baseball, Football, Golf, and Whist, and numerous other improvements, including the addition of a number of new illustrations.

WELLS' HER LADYSHIP'S ELEPHANT.

With cover by Nicholson. 5th Impression. $1.25.

They Will Publish in February

LAVIGNAC'S MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Edited for America, by H. E. KREHBIEL, and translated by WILLIAM MARCHANT. With 94 illustrations and 510 examples in musical notation. 12mo.
 A brilliant, sympathetic, and authoritative work covering musical sound, the voice, musical instruments, construction aesthetics, and the history of music.

STACPOOLE'S THE RAPIN. A Novel. 12mo.

Rapin is Parisian studio slang for a professed student of art who has neither the talent nor energy to succeed. There were exceptional reasons to make this Rapin more interesting than Rapins in general. The story is, on the part of one of the chief actors, an idyll; on the part of the other, something else. The characters range from the Bohemians of the Latin Quarter to the nobles of the Fabourg and the Elysees, are all bold types, and drawn with exquisite clearness and finish.

above-named valuable and unique collection will be offered by public auction in six separate classes.

CLASS I. Includes the famous library containing numerous precious manuscripts of the 11th and 12th centuries, richly illuminated in gold and colors, and adorned with original colored illustrations of great rarity. The works comprise specimens in Hebrew, Latin, Spanish, and other languages.

Valuable old engravings, rare prints, and pamphlets (most of them regarding the history of the city of Amsterdam), curious first editions, handsome old bindings, etc., etc., etc.

CLASS II. A magnificent collection of rare coins and medals.

CLASS III. A fine collection of antique jewelry in gold and silver, handsomely encrusted with diamonds, pearls, and other precious stones.

Saxon, Chinese, Japanese, and other valuable porcelains.

CLASS IV. Numerous pieces of quaint, antique furniture.

CLASS V. A fine collection of laces and clothes, including a piece of lace that was bestowed upon a rich Jew at the Hague, a nobleman who was Portuguese by birth, by the Stadhouder William III., king of England, in the year 1683.

CLASS VI. Ancient and modern pictures (among them masterpieces of Alb. Cuyp, Israëls, etc.).

The foregoing is a portion of the personal estate of the late D. HENRIQUEZ DE CASTRO.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain :

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890-95.

One volume, if ordered before date of publication, half leather, $3.00; in sheets, $2.50.

After publication the price will be raised to half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

IN PREPARATION.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

NOTES IN SEASON.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a volume on "The United States Naval Academy," by Park Benjamin, of the Class of 1867. The author "spins" a "yarn" of the American midshipman, or, (as he is now improperly termed,) naval cadet, showing his life in the old frigates and ships of the line, and then at the Naval School at Annapolis; and how he grew wiser and wiser as that institution developed to an academy and a college in its progress to a great naval university, and so became the most accomplished and versatile young seaman in the world; together with some reference to the boys who make the best naval officers, and what they must do and know to enter the Naval Academy, and what they have to expect while there. The volume will contain many pictures, "all properly stopped to the 'yarn' as it is handsomely paid out."

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. will publish in March S. R. Crockett's new novel, "The Black Douglas," a romance of the fifteenth century; also "The Memoirs of Sergeant Burgoyne, 1812-1813," which gives much light on the character of Napoleon as his soldiers knew him during the terrible Russian campaign. They have in preparation a "Kipling Calendar" for 1900. It will be mounted from a bas-relief by Mr. J. Lockwood Kipling. The 365 selections for the calendar are made under the author's supervision. Mr. Kipling, Sr., has modelled an extraordinary plaque representing a profile likeness of the author, flanked by two elephants' heads, with a figure of Mowgli and his jungle companions below. This has been reproduced in relief, making a very striking and unusually artistic calendar. There will be two editions—the regular one in heavy paper, embossed; the other an édition de luxe in bronze.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly Ostrogorski's "Democracy and the Organization of Political Parties," translated from the French by Frederick Clarke, and furnished with an introduction by Prof. James Bryce, M.P.; "The Government of Municipalities," by the Hon. Dorman B. Eaton, formerly Commissioner of the United States Civil Service; the third and concluding volume of Prof. James F. McCurdy's "History, Prophecy, and the Monuments," which will follow the history of Israel up to the end of the exile and the close of the Semitic régime in western Asia; "General Physiology: An Outline of the Science of Life," by Max Verworn, M.D., Professor of Physiology in the Medical Faculty of the University of Jena, translated from the second German edition, and edited by Frederic S. Lee, Adjunct Professor of Physiology in Columbia University; "Jesus Delaney," a novel, by Joseph Gordon Donnelly, which incidentally gives a very interesting view of the relations between Catholic and Methodist missionaries in some parts of Mexico; also, a story for boys by Beulah Marie Dix, entitled "Hugh Gwyeth, a Roundhead Cavalier."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day a work entitled "The Christian Conquest of Asia," by Dr. John Henry Barrows, which is, in some degree, the outcome of the World's Parliament of Religions and of the author's trip through the Far East in 1897; "Catholicism, Roman and Anglican," by Dr. A. M. Fairbairn, which includes an analysis of the ideals of Catholicism and of the Catholic revival in England, and discusses scepticism and apologetics as represented by Newman and other exponents of Catholic theology; "If I Were a Man, the story of a Southerner," by Harrison Robertson, a new volume in the Ivory Series; and new editions, uniform with Froude's other works, of "The Life and Letters of Erasmus," "Lectures on the Council of Trent," and "The Divorce of Catherine of Aragon." They will publish next week a collection of stories by George W. Cable, entitled "Strong Hearts," which will include "The Entomologist," "The Taxidermist," and others recently published in Scribner's; also "The Amateur Cracksman," a new novel, by E. W. Hornung, whose hero is a fascinating rascal of modern fiction. A gentleman born and bred, he enters upon an astonishing career of crime, bringing to every enterprise an iron nerve, as well as a perfect ease and self-possession—an artist in crime, just as Sherlock Holmes was an artist in detection.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.: n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Consists of the letters written by the Brownings to each other during the period of their courtship. As stated in the preface, they are given to the world with the full consent of their writers. The letters are the record of a great love, and the love-story told in them has all the elements of a novel of the old letter-writing school. There are, of course, many instructive comments on books, authors, and critics of the time, but for the most part the writers are concerned only with their love for each other and for each other's work.
- *Caine, T: H: Hall. The scapegoat: a romance and a parable. New rev. ed. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. 12°, cl., $1.50. [475]

- Fish, G. Williston. Short rations; il. by C. J. Taylor. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 20+189 p. D. cl., $1.25. [482]
A series of sketches of American army life at West Point and in garrison in a fort on the Minnesota plains. The connecting link of the stories is a love affair between Lieutenant McVey and Ruth Lancaster, that begins when McVey is a cadet at West Point. The first half-dozen sketches describe the social life of the national military academy, and then the scene shifts to Fort Snelling in Minnesota.
- *Fontane, Theodor. Vor dem sturm; roman aus dem winter 1812 auf 18; ed. by Aloys Weiss. Authorized ed. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 28+212 p. 16°, (Siepmann's advance German ser.) cl., net, 75 c. [483]

The story opens in a small summer hotel in New England. Clementina Claxon, the daughter of a poor family in the neighborhood, is the heroine. She is employed in the hotel in a general capacity, and here Gregory, the head waiter and a college student, falls in love with her. Mr. and Mrs. Lander, a wealthy, quaint, old-fashioned New England couple, are captivated by Clementina's pretty face and pretty ways, and when Mr. Lander dies, two years later, Mrs. Lander practically adopts Clementina. They travel together through Italy, where Gregory is again met as a private tutor, and Clementina finds other admirers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 25, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament therunto."—LORD BACON.

"NEW" BOOKSELLING.

THE suggestion made at the librarians' conference last summer by Mr. Dewey that libraries in small towns should add bookselling to their other functions seems to have borne fruit in one instance at last. A circular issued prior to the Christmas holidays by an Illinois library has come to our notice, in which announcement is made of a week's exhibition of Christmas books for children, affording "an opportunity to get the best books without going downtown to the crowded stores." It adds: "Defendants will give help in the selection by looking up reviews and calling attention to lists of 'best books' furnished by competent critics. Orders will be taken upon cash payments at downtown prices." The circular closes with the invitation: "Come to the exhibit even if you do not buy."

We should not be surprised to have imitations shortly of the successful adventure in book-selling by Caleb Atwater, described in a recent issue of the Dial. Mr. Atwater, it seems, loaded a cart with copies of his "History of Ohio," and, travelling through the State, sold the work to the farmers and factory hands at their own doors. It would undeniably be a novelty to have Marion Crawford drive up in a Roman chariot to a probable customer's doorstep with a supply of "Ave Roma Immortalis"; or gentle Lafcadio Hearn amble along in a jinrikisha with a lapful of his latest Japanese "Exotics"; or Colonel Roosevelt dash up on a mustang with a knapsackful of his forthcoming book on the "Rough Riders," and a commissary wagon with the rest of the edition following behind! Who could resist the temptation to buy, especially when the distinguished author could, without any extra charge, put his autograph on the flyleaf while the customer was fumbling in his pocket for the money?

This would be interesting for a while, and some books might be sold through such experiments; but would it be bookselling!

SUIT OVER THE SPANISH LETTER OF COLUMBUS.

BRAYTON IVES, the well-known New York book collector, has begun suit against Ellis & Elvey, the London booksellers, to recover $4374, with interest, representing in part the amount paid for the Spanish letter of Columbus to Luis de Sant' Angel, Escribano de Racion, of the Kingdom of Aragon, dated February 15, 1493, supposed to have been printed, in quarto, by Johann Rosenbach at Barcelona early in April of the same year. Mr. Ives claims that the defendants guaranteed that the book was a copy of Columbus's letter first announcing his discovery of the New World, printed from movable types, and not a reproduction by photography, lithography, engraving, or any other process. He therefore, on March 21, 1890, gave £900 for the book. He says that some five years afterward he discovered that he had been deceived, and that the book was only "a counterfeit presentment" of the work which he believed he had bought—a skilful reproduction of the original work by means of photographic plates. He says that, if this be so, the book is worth only 10s. 6d.

Mr. Ives states that he bought other books from Ellis & Elvey, in May, 1895, to the value of $583.16, and says the defendants have a right to a counterclaim for this sum. He asks that a judgment be given in his favor for $3788.29, with interest on $4374 from March 21, 1890 to May 25, 1895, and with interest on $3788.29 from that date.

The defendants say that they sold the book to Mr. Ives in good faith, and that they believe it to have been worth the money he paid for it. They say that, so far as their knowledge and information goes, it is a copy of the original letter written in Spanish, printed from type. They say that Mr. Ives never indicated that he thought he had been deceived for over five years, and that if the book has deteriorated in value it is because he has discredited the value of the work himself.

Charles E. Hughes, in opening the case for the plaintiff, said that Gilbert Ellis, one of the defendants, had come here in 1890 to try and sell the book for £10,000, but after a stay of some months found it impossible to get that price for it. He was introduced to Mr. Ives, who was a collector of rare books, and on Mr. Ellis's representations that it was one of the original books printed from Christopher Columbus's letter, Mr. Ives bought it for £900.

Until 1866 it was supposed that no copy of Columbus's letter in Spanish was to be found. Then, however, a copy was discovered in the Ambrosian Library in Milan. In 1889 the Ives copy was found in the possession of an Italian family. It was thought to resemble the Ambrosian copy; but the typographical differences were such as to seem to prove that they are separate and different editions. At the time Mr. Ives's copy came into the market it was considered to be the editio princeps, and the Ambrosian a copy. In 1889 another copy of the Spanish letter, in folio, was offered by a dealer in Paris at $13,000; but eminent authorities, among them Henry Harrisse, did not hesitate to assert that it was not a genuine early edition. Some time later Quaritch obtained possession of this folio copy and offered it at about two-thirds of the former owner's price, or $8000. Quaritch professed to be quite confident both as to the time and place when and where his copy was printed. Inasmuch as the printed letter bears no mark of date or place or printer's name, it would be a difficult matter to sustain such an assertion by proof whether the copy be folio or quarto. The defence is foreshadowed that Mr. Ives gave too much weight to Quaritch's claim. It will be a nice question to settle; and whichever way the verdict goes now, it will not definitely settle whether the book is genuine or spurious.

BOOKS ONLY TO BE IMPORTED BY MAIL.

IMPORTERS of photographs and engravings are exercised over the enforcing of the "Department Circular No. 13," issued by the Treasury Department, which bars all importations from the mails except books. The text of the order is as follows:

The department has decided (Synopsis: 1887 and 20540) that books are the only articles subject to duty which can be legally imported in the mails. These may be delivered upon payment of the duties. All other dutiable mail matter should be seized, and for the first offence may be released upon payment of a fine equal to the duty, and for a second offence, unless it shall appear that the addressee had no knowledge of the prohibition, released only upon payment of the appraised value, viz., the foreign value with duty added. In no case will officers of the customs release property under seizure the duty on which is in excess of $25, without first obtaining the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The addressees of dutiable mail packages should be informed of the prohibition under the Universal Postal Union Convention of such importations, and that the appraised value will be exacted on such subsequent importations.

The restrictions herein do not apply to mail importations under parcels post conventions, nor to the provisions of article 354 of the Customs Regulations, 1892, in relation to passengers' baggage and effects.

Though the order is dated January 30, and is supposed to have become operative then, the picture dealers and publishers of books did not feel the pressure of it until last week.

The office of Deputy Collector of Customs, first assistant, B. W. Winters, is now blocked with parcels held up under the new order. The deputy refuses to deliver the postal parcels under conditions that had obtained for years without personal authority from the Deputy Collector of Customs, Judge John Quackenbush.

The importers are writing letters to the Treasury Department, and some responsible person in that department has telegraphed here for "further information."

It is claimed that this trouble has been brought about by some importers who dodged the revenue laws in the sale of photographs. As a consequence the Treasury Department has issued this general order, which is far wider in its scope than is apparent now. If carried out it will prohibit everything coming in from foreign mails except letters, newspapers, and complete books. Merchandise of any sort is debarred. Importers of all descriptions who have been accustomed to buy from samples sent by mail will be most affected by the new ruling.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN ITALY IN 1898.

ACCORDING to the Bolletino delle pubblicazioni Italiane there were published in Italy, during 1898, 9670 books and journals, or 62 less than in 1897, classified as follows:

Lombardy, as usual, issued the larger number, heading the list with 1942 publications, while Campania and Basilicata bring up in the rear with 38 and 32 publications respectively.

A PHOTOGRAPHIC PAPER WAR.

WAR has been declared among the manufacturers of photographic paper. The formation of the combine among five big manufacturers to control in this country the entire product of Rives & Steinbach, the German manufacturers of the raw paper used for sensitizing, which was announced several months ago, precipitated the battle all along the line.

The product of Rives & Steinbach, according to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, has been considered the only paper capable of successful treatment for photographic purposes. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended in this country in experimenting to produce a paper that could take the place of the German product. These have failed because of the failure to find water pure enough. When exposed to the action of the chemicals necessary in photography these American papers have become spotted. The German firm controls an entire creek which has been considered the only water with which it was possible to make paper for this purpose.

"Since the announcement of the combine that had secured control of the United States market for the Rives & Steinbach paper, however, the Western Camera Company has announced that the Holyoke Paper Company has succeeded, after experiments lasting several years and after the expenditure of $130,000, in making a paper as good as the German product. So the Western Camera Company defies the combine, and is pushing the warfare. The Nepera Chemical Company announces that it has two years' stock of raw paper on hand, and declines to be driven from the market. Other manufacturers are making arrangements to obtain raw paper in various ways, and there seems to be a general disposition to tell the trust to 'come on and fight it out.'

"The combine consists of the Eastman Kodak Company, American Aristo Company, Photo Stock Company, New Jersey Aristo Company, and Brown & Palmer. The high-class photographers rather welcome the new order of things, as they have always used the higher grade paper, upon which there is but little advance. They believe the new conditions will compel the cheap photographers to raise their prices or to be driven to the wall. Some of the manufacturers outside of the combine also welcome the advance in prices. This is true of those who make the better grades of paper and have always maintained prices, despite the cutting by makers of cheap papers.

"The fight will be watched with great interest not only by regular photographers, but also by the thousands of amateurs and 'kodak fiends' who use the sensitized paper."

BOOKSHOPS IN HAVANA.

SOME little improvement has been made in Havana bookshops since the Americans arrived there. "But they are still remarkably antiquated and obsolete," writes a returned New Yorker to the New York Evening Post. "The newest books in English are the expired copyright, yellow-covered novels that you can buy in Nassau Street from the hand-cart men for five cents, which, having been obtained from tourists second-hand, are sold in Havana for fifty cents or so. On the shelves there are a few books in English, French, or Spanish that you could not imagine an American wanting to read, and since General Ludlow forbade the sale of immoral and obscene works the shelves have been much lightened. There were no good editions or fine bindings.

"When my Spanish teacher wanted to find me a Spanish-English grammar of a well-known name, she went into every bookshop in town, and at last had to be satisfied with a quaintly dilapidated volume published in 1863. Ollendorf and Butler they have in good condition, but they are English-Spanish, not Spanish-English. Enormous prices are charged, and I never yet saw a book sold in any bookshop; like all other Havana merchants, the booksellers do business on the plan of few sales and large profits. That plan saves work. After looking over many shops for a possible rare edition of 'Don Quixote,' I came upon a novelty. It was American, strictly—Horace Greeley's treatise on farming!

"Until the Sigabee story of the Maine explosion came out, one never saw for sale an American magazine that was less than eight months old. The English and French illustrated papers were quite as old, and much worn by the thumbing of persons who wished to look and not buy. Newspapers are so dear that one gets over the habit of reading them; the tuppenny London Times, for instance, costing 25 cents, Spanish silver, and New York newspapers 20 cents. These prices do not represent the entire cost, for you are expected to buy a whole set; that is, one of each date since the last steamer arrived. You may not be content with a copy of the very latest date, but must usually get all those back to the date of that you last read."

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION gave their annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on the evening of the 17th inst. Over two hundred persons were present. Among the speakers were Rowland B. Mahany, of Buffalo, who discussed the "Threshold of the New Century"; Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff, who spoke of the sentiment of "The Public Men and their Relations to the Press"; and St. Clair McKelway, who responded to the toast, "The Press in its Relations to Public Men."

At its business meeting in the afternoon the association elected the following officers for the current year: President, S. H. Kaufmann, of The Washington Star; vice-president, M. R. McCrae, of The Cincinnati Post and other newspapers; secretary, W. C. Bryant, of The Brooklyn Times; treasurer, Edward P. Call, of The New York Evening Post.

The following were chosen members of the Executive Committee: William H. McLean, representing The Philadelphia Bulletin; C. M. Palmer, The New York Journal; A. A. Palmer, The Chicago Times-Herald; Frederick E. Whiting, The Boston Herald. The inspectors of election were Herman Ridder, of The New York Staats-Zeitung, and B. G. Wells, of The Philadelphia Press.

Various subjects relating to the internal affairs of newspaper publication offices were discussed. The President was authorized to appoint a special committee of three to draft a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to devise some method by which a Government postal check may be issued. The sense of the meeting was in favor of having the Government issue postal checks for small amounts of money in place of post-office money-orders. The newspaper publishers are especially interested in this matter, because some of them are frequently embarrassed by the large aggregation of postage stamps which are sent to them in small remittances. The free use of the desired postal checks would, the publishers think, put a stop to the use of postage stamps as currency.

AMERICAN PAPER AND PULP ASSOCIATION.

THE American Paper and Pulp Association began its twenty-second annual session on the morning of the 16th inst. at the Waldorf-Astoria. Hugh J. Chisholm, the president, called the meeting to order. Colin K. Urquhart, formerly of the Howard Lockwood Publishing Co., and now editor and publisher of Paper, read a paper on "Robert—the Father of Modern Paper-Making." When he had finished, an informal reception was held, and this was followed by a luncheon.

The afternoon session was opened by a paper read by J. T. Fanning, of the American Society of Civil Engineers, in which he reviewed the history of the development of water-power in the United States.

An interesting paper was read by George W. Rafter, entitled "The Application of the Principles of Forestry and Water Storage to the Mill-streams of New York State." He said that New York had always been the Empire State from the view of the hydraulic engineer, and that the State was pre-eminent in its possibilities on account of the fact that it touches both the ocean and the great lakes.

According to Mr. Rafter the paper and pulp business had been developed in New York more largely than in any other State, on account of the great water-power of the State, which has been developed extensively in recent years. In 1880 he said that the power utilized from the principal streams of the State was only about 35,000 horse-power, but in 1898 this had been increased to more than 166,000 horse-power. He said it would be possible to get 1,500,000 horse-power in all from the streams within the State's boundaries, and he expected that about 1,000,000 horse-power of this would be harnessed within the next two years.

The speaker argued that the development of water-power for manufacturing purposes had been greatly retarded by the construction of the Erie Canal, which caused the interest of the "middleman" to be considered paramount to that of the manufacturer. Mr. Rafter illustrated his paper with lantern pictures.

Dr. Tolman, Secretary of the League for Social Service, spoke on "Industrial Betterment." Another paper read was "The Conservation of Water-Power Abroad," by L. F. Vernon Harcourt, London.

At the second session held on the 17th inst. J. R. MacNellie read a paper on "The National Organization of the Paper Industry in Other Countries, from Data Obtained from the Secretary of the Organization." "The Education of Men in the Industrial Professions and Trades" was the title of a paper read by Ira Nelson Hollis, Professor of Engineering at Harvard. Col. H. M. Chittenden, Chief Engineer of the Fourth Army Corps, United States Volunteers, read a paper on "The Conservation of Stream Flow as a Legitimate Field for Public Expenditure," and Prof. Arthur T. Hadley, of the Chair of Political Economy in Yale, read a paper on "Industrial Combination: Its Failures and Successes."

The election of officers, which closed the day session, resulted in the choice of the following: President, P. C. Cheney; secretary, C. W. Pantoul; vice-presidents, W. Murray Crane, M. M. Armstrong, F. H. Parks, George W. Hammond, Frank Squires, and L. B. Bean.

The convention came to an end in the evening, with a dinner held in the grand ball-room of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Hugh J. Chisholm, the president of the association, acted as chairman and toastmaster. His opening address was brief, and was confined to expressions of welcome to the guests and of thanks to those who had read papers upon subjects connected with paper-making before the convention. He closed by introducing Whitelaw Reid, who talked briefly on "Our National Opportunities," in place of Senator Frye, who had been expected to be present to the last minute. At the close Mr. Reid spoke of the shocking news from Paris of the death of the President of the French Republic, to whom he referred as an eminent servant of a sister republic and a good friend to America.

Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff spoke on "The Woods and Waters of New York and Their Relation to Our Industries." He devoted himself mainly to a discussion of forest cultivation for the continuous supply of raw material and water conservation for a constant source of power to operate mills. The differences that had existed between lumbermen and those interested in the preservation of the forests, he said, would be reconciled by the important system of forest management sure to result from the original investigation instituted by Colonel William K. Fox, the State Superintendent of Forests, and the experiments lately made by Gifford Pinchot and his associates. The necessity for practical forest culture was acknowledged to-day, Mr. Woodruff said, as it had never been acknowledged before. It was estimated that with the present rate of cutting the supply of spruce in the Adirondacks would be exhausted in twenty years. The Lieutenant-Governor thought that the constitutional restriction which forbade the cutting of timber on State land made that land unavailable for the financial good of the State, and that the restriction was in direct conflict with the State's interests. It was bad policy to allow mature trees to die and rot when they might be utilized. The value of the annual forest product in this country, the speaker continued, was greater than the combined value of the gold, silver, coal, and iron outputs.

Ex-Congressman John S. Wise, who followed, spoke on the subject of "Things Settled and Unsettled in the War with Spain."

W. H. Parsons then read a series of resolutions thanking the outgoing officers of the association for their administration during the last year. The remaining speakers were ex-Governor Flower, Warner Miller, Mayor Z. K. Pangborn, and the Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN AUTHORS.

THE annual meeting and election of the Society of American Authors was held on the 15th inst. at the Windsor Hotel. The officers elected were: President—Rastus S. Ransom; Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Gen. Lew Wallace, Dr. Thomas Dunn English, Hubert Howe Bancroft, Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth, and Miss Grace Denio Litchfield; Treasurer—Morris Patterson Ferris; Secretary—Edward Hagaman Hall.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

NO STANDARDS FOR COPYRIGHT.

THE conference report on the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill, as submitted on the 21st inst. and adopted by the Senate, omits entirely the obnoxious paragraph inserted in the House of Representatives, which sought to place in the hands of the Librarian of Congress arbitrary power to alter the standards of copyrights. The paragraph which crept into the bill in the lower branch of Congress read as follows:

That on and after July 1, 1899, no person shall be entitled to a copyright unless the copies deposited with the Librarian of Congress of such copyright book or other article, or the photograph deposited of a work of the fine arts, shall be of such substantial and permanent paper or substance and ink or impression as shall be according to such standards as shall be from time to time established and approved by said librarian.

In the Senate the provision was stricken out after a protest against its retention had been lodged by the American Publishers' Copyright League through its counsel. The conferees agreed to recommend an acquiescence on the part of the House in the Senate's action.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

RUDYARD KIPLING is dangerously ill in his apartments at the Grenoble, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, New York. He has inflammation of the lungs, attended by fever.

MISS BEATRICE HARRADEN has changed the title of her new book, if indeed she ever intended to use it, from "I, Too, Have Come Through Wintry Terrors," to the simple and expressive "The Fowler." The book will be published in this country by Dodd, Mead & Co.

MISS GODFREY, whose musical novel, "Poor Human Nature," is in its second impression, in answer to a request from her publisher for information about herself, writes: "Of myself there is little enough to tell, unless that I belong to Winchester, where my home was until quite lately. That is a place very well known to American tourists. I made my debut in Temple Bar with 'A Green Door,' the first thing I ever wrote for publication."

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, the London publisher, was married in Rome on the 21st inst. to Magda Stuart Sindici, who wrote a book entitled "Via Lucis," that was published a short time ago over the pseudonym of "Kassandra Vivaria." Mrs. Heinemann is a young Italian lady of good birth, who, as her name indicates, has Scotch blood in her veins. She refused to adopt a religious life which her parents desired for her, and, possessing private means, went to London, where her beauty and remarkable talents won for her a wide circle of friends. Among the first of these was Mr. Heinemann, who published "Via Lucis."

PROFESSOR EDWARD BRADFORD TITCHENER is preparing for The Macmillan Company "A Laboratory Manual of Experimental Psychology," which will very likely be issued in the fall. The work will be in two volumes and will detail an elementary course of laboratory work. The first volume will deal with qualitative analysis, the second with the exact measurement of mental processes. Each volume will be published in a student's and a teacher's edition, the former giving instructions as regards the conduct of experiments, control of introspection, etc., and the latter furnishing references, cognate questions and exercises, and standard results.

At the public banquet to Hall Caine at Douglas a couple of weeks ago, on the occasion of his return from America, the novelist made a singularly happy and effective speech, in the course of which he explained how it was he became an author. When he first thought of writing he was living in a bungalow on the Isle of Thanet with Dante Gabriel Rossetti, who was dying for want of sleep. To relieve the tedium of long wakeful nights Mr. Caine told him stories of the Isle of Man. Rossetti was charmed with the picture of a little nation standing apart, with its own race and its own law, and its own government and its own customs. "Why not write all this?" he said. The idea had not occurred to Mr. Caine before, but he saw at once how readily the island lent itself to literary treatment, and we know all the rest.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Paper is the title of new weekly journal devoted to the paper industry in all its branches, just begun by Colin K. Urquhart. With him are associated W. H. Ukers and J. M. Fair, both of whom have been with him formerly connected with The Paper Trade Journal and The American Stationer. The first number is almost entirely given up to an illustrated account of the last week's annual meeting of the American Paper and Pulp Association. Paper pledges itself to "stand for the advancement and the best progress of the trade in all its branches"—a promise that the experience and ability of its conductor will undoubtedly successfully and abundantly fulfil.

The North American Review has been sold by Lloyd S. Bryce and David A. Monroe to George B. M. Harvey. The price paid was in the neighborhood of $225,000. Mr. Harvey will assume editorial direction of the magazine with the May number. The new proprietor of The North American Review was born in Peacham, Vt., February 16, 1864. He was graduated at the Caledonia Grammar School of that town, and began writing for the local papers when fifteen years old. He served as reporter on The Springfield Republican and also on The Chicago Daily News. He came to New York and began work as a reporter on The World in 1885, and four years later was made its managing editor. He resigned in 1893 and became the private secretary of William C. Whitney, holding the position for two years, when he began the development of electrical railroads on Staten Island. His interests also extended to a number of New Jersey railroads. He is president of the Asbury Park and Sea Girt Railroad Company, is treasurer of the Staten Island Ferry Company, and vice-president of the National Salt Company. In 1898 he formed the Harvey syndicate and purchased the street railways of Havana and other Cuban properties. He is a director of the Audit Company and of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank of New York City. He is the chief owner of The Newark Daily Advertiser and president of the company.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ARDMORE, IND. TY.—Boyd & Stowe, booksellers, have sold out.

ATHENS, GA.—D. W. McGregor, bookseller and stationer, has made an assignment.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The book and stationery store of J. H. Medaury & Co. has been burned out.

BANGOR, ME.—D. Bugbee & Co., booksellers, bookbinders, and stationers, at 13 Hammond Street, have dissolved partnership, the senior partner, Col. David Bugbee, retiring. The firm is the oldest in Bangor, and one of the most widely known in Maine, having been established in June, 1836, when Colonel Bugbee, who came from Pomfret, Vt., established himself as bookbinder, blank-book manufacturer and bookseller. Edwin F. Dillingham, who settled in Bangor in 1847, was admitted to partnership with Colonel Bugbee in 1854, under the firm-name of D. Bugbee & Company. This firm has continued uninterruptedly up to the 9th inst. Colonel Bugbee, who has been away from the business for several months on account of ill-health, is one of the best-known men in Bangor, and his many friends will regret to hear of his withdrawal from active business life. The business will be continued by Mr. Dillingham, the junior partner.

BILLINGS, MONT.—J. C. Sperry, bookseller, has gone into bankruptcy.

BRISTOL, VT.—George P. Cole and Harley Palmer have bought the book business of F. W. Nash.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—D. J. Doomink & Sons have gone out of business.

MONMOUTH, ILL.—D. B. Harvey and Will McKelvey have bought the Monmouth Book Company, and will conduct it under the firm-name of Harvey & McKelvey.

NEW YORK CITY.—City Marshal Louis Levy has sold out the effects of the Great Round World Publishing Company, of No. 3 West Eighteenth Street, by a receiver's sale, and realized $1613. The right to publish The Great Round World, with subscription lists, etc., brought $1000, and back numbers with copy-rights, etc., $525.

OTSEGO, MICH.—J. I. Woodbeck has bought the stock of books and stationery of C. A. Barnes, and taken a lease of the store to which he has removed his own stock of periodicals and music.

PEKIN, ILL.—H. G. Buss has bought Tracy A. Smith's stock of books.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.—Seng Brothers, booksellers and stationers, have assigned.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.—J. Cady Packard has retired from the firm of Stephens & Son and opened a bookstore of his own at 651 Fifth Street.

SANTA ANA, CAL.—N. A. Ulin has bought an interest in the Santa Ana Book Store.

TEMPLE, TEX.—The Temple Book and Stationery Company has been sold to L. O. Harvey, who will consolidate the same with his bookstore. R. P. Buckingham, for so long the manager of the Temple Book and Stationery Company, will retire from business.

WILKESBARRE, PA.—J. C. Madden, the well-known newsdealer, has bought Brown's bookstore, and will improve and enlarge it.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just ready Goldoni's "Un Curioso Accidente," with introduction and notes by Dr. J. D. M. Ford, of Harvard University.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish next month a new novel by Horace Annesley Vachell, to be entitled "The Procession of Life, a Novel of California."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in preparation "The Life of William Morris," by J. W. Mackail, with portraits and numerous illustrations by E. H. New.

JAMES J. MCCARTHY, with Henry Altemus, of Philadelphia, sailed for Europe by the Teutonic on the 22d inst. He will visit England, France, and Germany on business, and return probably in April.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Stationers' Board of Trade, New York, February 14, the by-laws were amended so as to allow one man to fill the offices of secretary and treasurer, and E. H. Loveless, secretary, was elected to the position of treasurer.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK Co. will publish next month an edition of Edgar Allan Poe's "Arthur Gordon Pym," illustrated by A. D. MacCormack. This will be followed by "The Gold Bug," and the "Murders of the Rue Morgue," also illustrated by Mr. MacCormack.

It may help some of our readers to better remember who Rev. Samuel June Barrows, the new Librarian of Congress, is when we mention that he is the author of the scholarly book of travel entitled "The Isles and Shrines of Greece," which was published early last year by Roberts Brothers. It is now on the list of Little, Brown & Co.

THE TRIPTYCH, a trio of lovers of good literature and good printing, whose home is at 991 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, have put forth a dainty leaflet containing "Two Love Sonnets," by Gaspara Stampa, the Italian poetess, who lived in Venice in the sixteenth century. The sonnets are translated by George Fleming.

THE newsdealers of Worcester, Mass., have formed an alliance for defence under the name of The Worcester Newsdealers' Association. Their first fight is against the New York World and Journal, who have advanced the price of out-of-town papers. The dealers are hopeful that united action will oblige these journals to reduce the trade price to its former figure.

CHARLES H. BROWNING, author of "Americans of Royal Descent," has brought action in the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court No. 2 against Mrs. Maria K. Van Rensselaer, in which he seeks to recover $25,000 damages for defamation of character in the publication of an article in a New York weekly paper about the society formed a year ago called "The Order of the Crown."

GINN & Co. have nearly ready Grillparzer's "Sappho," edited for their International Modern Language Series, by Prof. C. C. Ferrell of the Mississippi University. They expect to issue shortly "Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome," with introduction, notes, and pronouncing vocabulary of proper names, by Moses Grant Daniell; and "Sir Bevis, a tale of the fields," adapted from Richard Jefferies's "Word Magic," by Josephine Kelley.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, have just published in their Popular Sunset Series the following novels by Mary J. Holmes: "Tempest and Sunshine," "The English Orphans," "The Homestead on the Hillside," and "Lena Rivers." In the Sunny-side Series they have published "White Dandy; or, Master and I," by Velma Caldwell Melville. They announce that they have reissued the entire list of the Old Sleuth's Own Series, with new and attractive covers.

WILLIAM H. WARD, bookseller, Galesburg, Ill., was granted permission by the city council to open a book auction at a lower rate of license than prescribed by the city ordinance, which is $10 a day. Mr. Ward was allowed to do business at the rate of $12 a year. Later he was arrested charged with violating the ordinance and was found guilty. After his release he resumed business and was promptly re-arrested, and on a jury trial was again found guilty. The prosecution held that an ordinance could not be repealed by a resolution.

R. H. RUSSELL has added to the souvenirs of Maude Adams in "The Little Minister," and of Olga Nethersole in some of the plays from her repertoire, a unique set of designs by the talented young artist, Pamela Colman Smith, illustrating some of the most picturesque characters in "Trelawny of the Wells." Each print is carefully touched up by hand and enclosed in a colored "folder." The subjects presented are "Rose Trelawny," "Imogen," "Rosen and Imogen," "Imogen and Tom Wrench," in all the color of their old-fashioned costumes, as they appear on the stage.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just issued "The City Wilderness," a settlement study by residents and associates of the South End House, edited by Robert A. Woods, head of the House. It is an account of the round of life in a great working-class quarter situated at the centre of population in Boston, and containing 40,000 inhabitants. This district, formerly called "the Neck," has changed so greatly that to many citizens of Boston it is almost as much an unknown land as are some of our new national dependencies. The book represents one of the most considerable results of university settlement work, and follows a method in many respects unique.

HARPER & BROTHERS announce a work entitled "A Thousand Days in the Arctic," by Frederick G. Jackson. It will contain a number of illustrations from the author's photographs and drawings by Mr. Macbeth and others. They also print the following warning in Harper's Weekly for February 4: "Will our friends in the West, both on the Pacific Coast and in the Mississippi Valley, please have an eye out for a reprehensible person who sometimes describes himself as George W. Thayer, and at other times as R. W. Gardner, and doubtless uses other names still? He represents himself as agent of 'The International Fashion Company' and 'The Bazar Fashion Company,' neither of which, so far as known, exists, except in his imagination. He also feigns to be an agent for the house of Harper & Brothers, which corporation does exist as heretofore, but does not employ him. His method is to make some proposition so absurd as to be suspicious, but set forth in blank forms of agreement, on the strength of which he collects four or five dollars, or less, and moves on. Do not dally with this person, for he is an impostor. The Messrs. Harper have warned the trade not to pay money to any person on their account, saying 'All payments intended for Harper & Brothers should be made in the form of bank draft, post-office money-order, express money-order, or cheque—all payable to the order of Harper & Brothers.'"

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation the second volume of the "History of the Netherlands," by Prof. P. J. Block, of the University of Leyden, translated by Ruth Putnam; and the second part of "The Civil War on the Border," by Wiley J. Britton. The following will be added to the series of Writings of the Fathers of the Republic: the continuation of "The Writings of James Monroe," edited by S. M. Hamilton; "The Writings of James Madison," edited by Gaillard Hunt, of the Department of State; the sixth and concluding volume of "The Writings of Rufus King," edited by Dr. Charles R. King; and the tenth and concluding volume of "The Writings of Thomas Jefferson," edited by Paul Leicester Ford. To the Heroes of the Nations series they will add "Bismarck and the New German Empire," by J. W. Headlam, and "Oliver Cromwell and the Rule of the English Puritan," by Charles Firth. For the Story of the Nations series they will have a volume on "The West Indies," by Amos Kidder Fiske, whose purpose is to compress within the compass of one moderate volume the information about the islands—their history and physical aspects, their natural resources and material conditions, their political relations and apparent destiny, which would meet the needs of the "general reader." "The Story of China," by Robert K. Douglas, of the British Museum; and "The Story of Austria, the home of the Hapsburg dynasty, from 1282 to the present day," by Sidney Whitman. Their other announcements include "The Life of George Borrow," the author of "The Bible in Spain," etc., by William I. Knapp; "A Life of Paul Jones," by James Barnes; "Erasmus," by Prof. E. Emerton, a new volume in the Heroes of the Reformation series; "Israel Putnam," by W. F. Livingston, a direct descendant of the General, in the American Men of Energy series; "Roman Africa: archæological walks in Algiers and Tunis," by Gaston Boissier; "Proportion and Harmony in Line and in Color," by George L. Raymond; the fifth edition, revised and enlarged, of "A Junior Course in Practical Zoölogy," by Marshall and Hurst; "Our Insect Friends and Foes," by Belle S. Cragin; "Nature Studies in Berkshire," illustrated by reproductions in photogravure of nature photographs, by the Rev. W. Coleman Adams; "Ornamental Shrubs," by Lucius D. Davis; "The Children of the Mist," a novel, by Eden Phillpotts; a new and cheaper edition of "John Marmaduke," a romance of the time of Cromwell, by S. H. Church; "Lone Pine," a story of adventure on the Prairies of the Southwest, by R. B. Townshend; "For the King," a volume of verse, by Robert Cameron Rogers; "The Poems of Therese," translated from the German, by Ellen Frothingham; "A Study of Wagner," by Ernest Newman; "Dante Interpreted for Students," by E. Wilson, with original translations from "The Inferno"; "The New Far East," a study of present political conditions and prospects, by Arthur Diosy; also "Islam in Africa," by the Rev. Anson P. Atterbury, D.D. They are to publish a series of books to be known as Literary Hearthstones, to be edited by Marion Harland (Mrs. Terhune). Each volume will contain two subjects. As far as arranged they will be "Charlotte Brontë and Cooper"; "Hannah More and John Knox"; "John Bunyan and Sir Thomas More"; and "The Gurneys and the Wesleys."

FOREIGN NOTES.

WARD, LOCK & CO. have in preparation an important work on Arctic exploration entitled "With Nansen in the North," by Lieutenant H. Johansen, who was the sole companion of Dr. Nansen across the ice towards the North Pole after leaving the Fram.

J. M. DENT & Co. will shortly publish a "History of the Pianoforte and Pianoforte Players," translated from the German text of Dr. Bie's recently issued book, "Das Klavier und Seine Meister." The book will be illustrated with portraits of celebrities in the musical world, and with many curious reproductions of old prints.

IN NOTICING the death of E. C. Bigmore, in our last issue, we referred to his coadjutor in the compilation of the "Bibliography of Printing" as the late C. H. W. Wyman. We now learn that Mr. Wyman, the senior partner of the firm of Wyman & Sons, to whose initiative and perseverance the completion of the valuable "Bibliography of Printing" is due, is still alive, though no longer taking part in business.

A POSTHUMOUS work of Alphonse Daudet will be published in April by Eugène Fasquelle, of Paris. The book will be entitled "Notes sur la Vie," and will contain, in addition, a very considerable portion of "La Caravane," the book on which Daudet was engaged at the time of his death; the volume also contains some very picturesque observations and personal thoughts noted day by day in view of future works which the great novelist had contemplated.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has just published a volume entitled "New Climbs in Norway," by E. C. Oppenheim, of the Alpine Club, a climber of considerable skill. The ascents were made in the Sondmore district, and included some "virgin peaks," or at any rate eminences whose conquest has not hitherto been recorded. A. D. McCormack, the delineator of the Himalayas, has contributed several full-page drawings, and there are also reproductions from photographs.

PICK-UPS.

Publisher: Can you turn out another book in three weeks? Author: Why so soon? Publisher: It will never do to let the public forget you.—Life.

THE INROAD OF WAR ON LITERATURE.—Magazine Editor to Office Boy: Any one waiting? Office Boy: Yes, sir; four admirals in your office and six brigadier-generals in Mr. Burjoice's room, and some more military gentlemen outside, sir. I kept 'em separate, as you said, sir.—Life.

RECIPE FOR AN "AYLWIN" STEW.—In the current Books of To-day and the Books of Tomorrow, Arthur Pendenys gives some amusing "recipes," from which we take the following for "Aylwin Stew."

Take luminous foreheads and garnish with rue
And plenty of Romany, Borrowed or new;
Add sunsets and fate and pre-Raphaelite chutney,
And stand twenty years in an oven at Putney.

The reference in the last line is, of course, to the long period during which Mr. Watts-Dunton's famous novel remained in manuscript or in type, unpublished.

HARD ON THE AUTHOR.—The author wanted some reading, and he sought out an unfamiliar shop. Unfortunately he was a facetious author. There were people who thought him rather proud of himself. At any rate, he thought he would be recognized anywhere, because his portrait had appeared with some frequency in the periodical press. So when, after he had chosen several works of fiction by other writers, the salesman handed him a copy of his own latest book, he winked drolly at the man behind the counter, and pushed the book away from him in mock disgust. "For heaven's sake, no!" he cried. "I can't read that man's stuff." "Well, to tell you the truth," said the salesman, solemnly, "I can't either!"—Tit-Bits.

WHO IS ANDREW LANG?—The following amusing extract is from "The Child's Guide to Literature" in Hatchards' Books of To-day and the Books of Tomorrow: Q.—Who is Andrew Lang? A.—A syndicate of literary gentlemen. Q.—But I have seen photographs of him. A.—They were composite photographs. Q.—You mean to say he really doesn't exist? A.—He couldn't. No man could do as much as he. Q.—How much? A.—He writes leading articles for the Daily News. He reviews novels for the Times. He gossips in Longman's. He is the new historian of Scotland. He is the first authority on the '45. He edits fairy tales, and Dickens, and Walter Scott. He translated Homer and Theocritus. He knows Edmund Gosse —. Q.—Steady, on. A.—He can preface anything; Coleridge's poems, Australian folk tales, or Hittite inscriptions. He is a poet and a parodist and a determined letter-writer. He knows all about cricket. He plays golf. He catches salmon. Q.—I say! I say! A.—He's the biographer of Lord Iddlesleigh and J. G. Lockhart. He is an authority on religion and spirit-rapping. He discovered Rider Haggard. He —. Q.—That'll do. Have it your own way. A.—Yes, I thought I could convince you. There is no Andrew Lang. It is only a name—like Bovril—for trade purposes. Andrew Lang is really a Kensington secret society that exists to make good reading.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

MARCH 1, 2, 3 P.M.—A portion of the library of the late Edward Wells, of Peekskill, N. Y., containing classical, philosophical, historical, and legal literature. (569 lots).—Bangs.

MARCH 6-10, 3 P.M.—Part 2 of George H. Richmond & Co.'s stock, consisting chiefly of Americana. (1448 lots).—Bangs. [A third part will be sold shortly.]

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an amount not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Publish this Week:

The New Far East.

A Study of Present Political Conditions and Prospects. By ARTHUR DIOSY, Vice-Chairman of the Council of the Japan Society. With 12 illustrations from special designs by Kubota Belsen, of Tokio, a reproduction of a cartoon designed by His Majesty the German Emperor, and a specially drawn map. 8vo, $3.50.

The author shows that Japan is not only a travellers' paradise, but also the land of a brave and serious nation of fighting and thinking men; a nation capable of being, and determined to be, a dominant factor in the Eastern world. China, credited until her overthrow with boundless stores of latent strength, is shown to be an inert mass, drifting toward disintegration.

The West Indies.

A History of the Islands of the West Indian Archipelago, together with an account of their Physical Characteristics, Natural Resources, and Present Condition. By AMOS KIDDER FISKE, A.M., author of "The Jewish Scriptures," "The Myths of Israel," etc. No. 55 in The Story of the Nations Series. Fully illustrated. Large 12mo, $1.50; half leather, gilt top, $1.75.

The events of the past year have begotten, at least in the United States, a new and keener interest, not only in Cuba and Puerto Rico, but in all of that great group of American islands which still remain so largely under European control. Prof. Fiske's purpose has been to compress within the compass of one moderate volume, and yet to present with adequate form and color and in a popular style, the information about the West Indies—their history and physical aspects, their natural resources and material condition, their political relations and apparent destiny—which would meet the needs of that numerous but undefinable person, the "general reader."

Volcanoes.

Their Structure and Significance. By T. G. BONNEY, D.Sc., LL.D., F.R.S., Professor of Geology at University College, London. No. 5 in the Science Series. Illustrated. 12mo, $2.00.

The author has endeavored to lead the reader through descriptions of the varied phenomena of volcanic action, in the present and in the past, towards ascertaining by inference the cause or causes of eruptions. The book opens with an account of "a living volcano," instances being given which explain it at every stage from birth to death.

Previous volumes in the Science Series are:

- 1.—The Study of Man. By Prof. A. C. HADDON. Fully illustrated. 8vo, $2.00.
- 2.—The Groundwork of Science. A Study of Epistemology. By ST. GEORGE MIVART. 8vo, $1.75.
- 3.—Rivers of North America. A Reading Lesson for Students of Geography and Geology. By ISRAEL C. RUSSELL. Fully illustrated. 8vo, $2.00.
- 4.—Earth Sculpture; or, The Origin of Land Forms. By JAMES GEIKIE. Fully illustrated. 8vo, $1.75.

The Law and History of Copyright in Books.

By AUGUSTINE BIRRELL, Q.C., Member of Parliament and Quain Professor of Law at University College, Oxford. 8vo, $1.25, net.

The author of "Obliter Dicta," in his agreeable manner and perspicuous style, traces from its beginnings the history of public acknowledgment that an author has legal rights in the profits of his creations. Referring to this book, an authority in matters of copyright says: "It impresses me as an exceedingly effective presentation of the subject-matter, and I judge that it ought to be of service, not only to the legal profession, but also to librarians, literary men, and students of social conditions."

Have Just Published:

Neglected Factors in the Study of the Early Progress of Christianity. By Rev. JAMES ORR, D.D., Prof. of Church History in the U. P. College, Edinburgh. Cr. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Professor ORR marshals an array of evidence from all sources, including the most interesting discoveries of recent years in the catacombs, and by his wide and accurate learning makes a most effective argument as to the independence, originality and success of primitive Christianity.

Book Auctions in England in the 17th Century. By JOHN LAWLER. 12mo, cloth, uncut edges, $1.25.

The greatly increased interest taken in the present day by Collectors and Book-Lovers generally, in the records of Book and Fine-Art Sales, seemed to indicate that a fuller account of the beginning and early progress of Auctions of Books in England than has hitherto been published would be an acceptable addition to the BOOK-LOVERS' LIBRARY.

The prices given for notable books are specially dealt with, and the auctioneers' quaint introductions and terms appear in full.

London Spectator says: "Here we have, as far as circumstances permit, a 'Book Prices Current' of the last five and twenty years of the 17th century. Evidently there was less money in those days. The craze for first editions had yet to arise. They did not see the value of Caxtons. Three and twenty of these treasures were sold for between four and five pounds. This is the most conspicuous example of change in value, but the volume is full of such curiosities."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

THE CHRISTIAN CONQUEST OF ASIA.

By JOHN HENRY BARROWS, D.D.

Dr. Barrows's book, which is, in some degree, the outcome of the World's Parliament of Religions, and of the author's trip through the far East in 1897, is an optimistic account of the results achieved by the introduction of Christianity into Asia during this century. The exact religious condition of the Asia of to-day is clearly detailed.

CATHOLICISM, ROMAN AND ANGLICAN.

By A. M. FAIRBAIRN, D.D., LL.D.

Crown 8vo, $2.00.

This book may be said to be critical or philosophical in its aim. It includes an analysis of the ideals of Catholicism and of the Catholic revival in England, and discusses scepticism and apologetics as represented by Newman and other exponents of Catholic theology. There are also chapters on some recent English theologians and their beliefs.

UNIFORM WITH FROUDE'S OTHER WORKS.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF ERASMUS.

LECTURES ON THE COUNCIL OF TRENT.

THE DIVORCE OF CATHERINE OF ARAGON.

New editions, uniform in style of binding and in price with Froude's other works, are now published of the three above volumes, making the set complete in this form. Each volume, 8vo, $1.50.

"He takes an old subject and weaves a new story out of it. One reads it with as much avidity as he would a romance."—Chicago Tribune.

IF I WERE A MAN.

By HARRISON ROBERTSON.

The Story of a New-Southerner.

The Ivory Series.

16mo, 75 cents.

This story of love and politics in Kentucky is the first novel from the pen of a writer already known to a considerable audience as the managing editor of The Louisville Courier-Journal, and a story-teller of exceptional ability. The hero, a young Southerner of leisure, takes refuge in the State Legislature from a course of love that is not running smoothly, and distinguishes himself by a revolt against the bosses and their machine. The politics and the love interest are woven in an ingenious plot.

READY NEXT WEEK.

STRONG HEARTS.

By GEORGE W. CABLE.

12mo, $1.25.

In these stories Mr. Cable returns to the field which gave him his best fame and his readers their greatest pleasure—New Orleans and its mingled races. "The Entomologist" has for its heroine one of those women who are especially Cable's creation. That story and "The Taxidermist" have all the charm of "Old Creole Days" with added power; while "The Entomologist" shows Mr. Cable's strength in an altogether new direction.

AN AMATEUR CRACKSMAN.

By E. W. HORNUMG.

12mo, $1.25.

Raffles, the hero of Mr. Hornung's new story, is the most fascinating rascal of modern fiction. A gentleman born and bred, he enters upon an astonishing career of crime, and his many adventures are described in this book with infinite zest and delicious humor.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

WINDYHAUGH.

A Novel. By GRAMHAM TRAVERS, author of "Mona Maclean, Medical Student," "Fellow Travellers," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"'Windyhaugh' shows an infinitely more mature skill and more subtle humor than 'Mona Maclean' and a profounder insight into life. The psychology in Dr. Todd's remarkable book is all of the right kind; and there is not in English fiction a more careful and penetrating analysis of the evolution of a woman's mind than is given in Wilhelmina Galbraith; but 'Windyhaugh' is not a book in which there is only one 'star' and a crowd of 'supers.' Every character is limned with a conscientious care that bespeaks the true artist, and the analytical interest of the novel is rigorously kept in its proper place and is only one element in a delightful story. It is a supremely interesting and wholesome book, and in an age when excellence of technique has reached a remarkable level 'Windyhaugh' compels admiration for its brilliancy of style. Dr. Todd paints on a large canvas, but she has a true sense of proportion."—Blackwood's Magazine.

A HISTORY OF JAPANESE LITERATURE.

By W. G. ASTON, C.M.G., D.Lit., late Japanese Secretary to H. M. Legation, Tokio. (A new volume in The Literature of the World Series.) 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The author begins by defining the individual characteristics of the Japanese which have persisted in their literature in spite of the influences of Chinese civilization and of Buddhism. His historical treatment opens with the songs and Shinto ritual of the archaic period from the fifth to the eighth century. It has been an essential part of the author's plan to include a very large number of translations of verse and prose as illustrations of his discussion of various epochs, tendencies, and genres. While Fitzgerald has made Omar Khayyám universally known, the Tanka of Omoto in praise of saké, which is included among these translations, will be new to almost all readers, and it is safe to say that the book as a whole will introduce the majority of readers to a comparatively new and fascinating field.

THE STORY OF GEOGRAPHICAL DISCOVERY.

By JOSEPH JACOBS. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. With maps and illustrations. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

New and Revised Edition.
THE SCAPEGOAT.

A Romance and a Parable. By HALL CAINE, author of "The Manxman," "The Christian," "The Deemster," "The Bondman," etc. Uniform with the author's works. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This new edition will present itself as practically a new book. It will be found to differ materially from the edition heretofore published, which was issued some years since without the benefit of the author's revision. This powerful romance and expressive "parable" will be certain to obtain a greatly enlarged meed of popularity.

"No less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast.'"

THE CRUISE OF THE CACHALOT,

Round the World After Sperm Whales. By FRANK T. BULLEN, First Mate. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Written with racy freedom of literary expression and luxuriant abundance of incident, so that it becomes a story of fascinating vividness which thrills the reader and amuses him. The volume is no less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast,' and higher praise cannot be accorded to a story of the sea. . . . A book of such extraordinary merit as seldom comes to hand."—Philadelphia Press.

No. 259. THE PROCESSION OF LIFE. By HORACE ANNESLEY VACHELL.

This strong story of modern life in California offers a series of vivid pictures of varied social conditions, ranch life, land speculations, and other aspects of the subject which are presented with singular force and skill. The author has the art of telling an interesting story, and his keen powers of observation and ability in characterization will attract attention to his work. Mr. Vachell, who is an Englishman living in California, has earned an honorable reputation in England by his novels, and this book, which represents his most important work, will be certain to make a strong impression upon readers.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. R. HERRICK & Co. have just ready "Hosanna and Huzzah," a little volume of verses by Grace Duffie Boylan, with artistic decorations by Blanche McManus (Mrs. M. F. Mansfield).

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly Miss Mary D. Frost's translation of M. René Doumic's volume of essays on "Contemporaneous French novelists"; also Isabel F. Hapgood's translation of Sergyeenko's brochure, "How Count Tolstoi Lives and Works."

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY has just published "The Downfall of the Derivishes," by E. N. Bennett, special correspondent of The Westminster Gazette; also, "Apostolic Christianity as Illustrated by the Epistles of St. Paul to the Corinthians," by H. Hensley Henson.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish at once a memoir of Elizabeth of Austria, written by a lady of that unfortunate sovereign's court. It will be entitled "The Martyrdom of an Empress." The author, a talented Hungarian novelist, throws new light on the character of the empress, on her domestic and public life, and on the tragic suicide of her son, the Crown Prince Rudolph, at Mayerling.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish shortly a novel entitled "The Mormon Prophet," by Miss Lily Dougall, which will illustrate the origins of the sect and certain subsequent modifications in the belief it holds; also, "By Berwen Banks," a Welsh story, by Allen Raine, author of "Mifanwy." They will publish late in the month A. Conan Doyle's new novel, "A Duet with an Occasional Chorus," which, as already noted, has never appeared serially.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. "The Professor's Daughter," by Anna Farquhar, in which the author tells a delightful story of Professor Fremont, the old man of books, and of his daughter and amanuensis, who give up their many researches and betake themselves to a primitive Rhode Island seacoast village in order to restore vigor to the young woman's failing eyes. Of course with the slow recovery comes the love-story. They will publish early next month a volume of poems by Martha Gilbert Dickinson, a niece of Emily Dickinson.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready Lavignac's "Music and Musicians," translated by William Marchant, with additional chapters on Music in America, by H. E. Krehbiel, who has also given the book the few touches it needed to fit it for American readers; "The French Revolution and the English Poets," a study in historical criticism, by Dr. Albert Elmer Hancock, of Haverford College, which is prefaced by an eloquent and suggestive paper on historical criticism as an aid to appreciation, by the well-known critic, Lewis E. Gates; also, "The Rapin," a novel, by Henry de Vere Stacpoole. "Rapin" is Parisian studio slang for a professed student of art who has neither the talent nor energy to succeed.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready Lieut.-Col. J. D. Miley's defence of Shafter's campaign at Santiago, entitled "In Cuba with Shafter." Colonel Miley was General Shafter's chief of staff during the Santiago campaign. The theme of the book bases itself on official documents, and on the testimony of those who were cognizant of all that was going on behind the scenes, as well as on the stage. The volume will be illustrated with maps and portraits. Having acquired all rights in the publication of F. J. Stimson's historical novel, "King Noanett: a story of Old Virginia and Massachusetts Bay," they have just brought out a new issue. This story has been extraordinarily successful both in England and in this country, and is now in its fourth edition. They will publish next week a new and enlarged edition of Frederic R. Honey's "First Lessons in Linear Perspective"; the first volume of "An Exposition of the Epistle to the Romans," by the Rev. Dr. Charles Gore; and George W. Cable's new volume, "Strong Hearts." They will publish shortly Mary E. Wilkins's latest novelette, entitled "The Jame-sons."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illus., vated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.). D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fr. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*Appleton's annual cyclopædia, 1897. N. Y., Appleton, 1898. 8°, cl., $5. [516]

Arbuthnot, Sir Alex. J. Lord Clive: the foundation of British rule in India. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1899. 15+818 p. por. D. (Builders of Greater Britain ser., no. 5.) cl., $1.50. [517]

Lord Clive, in the words of Sir Alfred Lyall, is "the man to whom above all others the English are indebted for the foundation of our Empire in India." It is the object of this brief memoir to show how this came about, to describe the salient points in Clive's career, and to explain how entirely it was owing to Clive that the place now filled by the British Raj in India was not occupied in the middle of the last century by the French.

Aston, W. G. A history of Japanese literature. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 9+408 p. D. (Literatures of the world ser.) cl., $1.50. [518]

The Japanese have a voluminous literature, extending over twelve centuries, which to this day has been very imperfectly explored by European students. Hence the historian of their literature is thrown mainly upon his own resources. Little space, therefore, has been devoted in this volume to what is necessarily a record of personal impressions and opinions, the outcome of rough pioneer work. Much room is given to translated extracts, and to such biographical notices as are necessary to show what manner of men the authors were. The general plan, however, of the series has not been lost sight of. Important writers have been treated at comparatively greater length, and an attempt has been made to follow the movement of the literature, and trace the causes which determined its character at particular periods.

Backes, Jacob. Manual of the American stenocode: a new system of rapid writing, which will save time, space, and labor for all who use a pen, a pencil, or a typewriter. N. Y., published by the inventor, Jacob Backes, 1898. c. 24 p. Tt. pap., 20 c. [519]

This new system of rapid writing does not require any new appliance or contrivance, mechanical or otherwise, nor the employment of any new symbol. It makes of each of the twenty-six letters of the alphabet a word-representer. The duplication of any of the letters signifies the word it represents is followed by the article the. Words not covered by the word-representers must be spelled out, written legibly, and the regular system of punctuation and capitalization must be followed. It is claimed that the system will save twenty per cent. in time, and be of special benefit to type-setters and proof-readers.

*Balzac, Honoré de. Novels; ed. by G. Saintsbury. In 42 v. V. 35, The middle classes, (Le petits bourgeois); tr. by Clara Bell; with a preface by G. Saintsbury. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 8+587 p. 12°, cl., $1.50. [520]

Barrett, Jay Amos. Nebraska and the nation. 2d ed. rev. and enl. Lincoln, Neb., J. H. Miller, 1898. c. 4+279 p. D. cl., 75 c. [521]

A revised edition of "History and government of Nebraska," published in 1892. The principal addition is a systematic "Study of the United States government." The author is librarian of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Barrows, J. H.; D.D. The Christian conquest of Asia: studies and personal observations of Oriental religions; being the Morse lectures of 1898. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 17+258 p. D. cl., $1.50. [522]

The author has endeavored to lead the reader through descriptions of the varied phenomena of volcanic action, in the present and in the past, toward ascertaining by inference the cause or causes of eruptions. The book opens with an account of "a living volcano," instances being given which explain it at every stage from birth to death. Then after some preliminary explanations of certain technicalities he points out what may be the discovery in this method of study. In the last chapter he sums up the results to which his investigations have pointed and presents the conclusions to which they lead.

To quote Hall Caine: "This book in its present form is new to American readers, although a book under the same title, telling practically the same story, was published in America seven years ago. That was just after the passing of the copyright act, and the effort to meet the conditions of the new law seemed to require that the romance should be published in what I knew was an immature and wholly unsatisfactory form."

Cervantes, Saavedra Miguel de. The ingenious gentleman Don Quixote of La Mancha; ed. by Clifton Johnson: for school and home reading; with 10 il. by G. Cruikshank. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 23+398 p. 12°, cl., 75 c. [531]

A comprehensive biography of Governor Roosevelt. The chapter headings are as follows: The Roosevelt ancestry; The boy Theodore; The student and the athlete; The state legislator; The practical politician; The cowboy and the sportsman; The author and historian; The civil service reformer; The police commissioner; The naval secretary; The Rough Rider; The battle hero; The governor; The husband and father; The American citizen.

Comparetti, Domenico. The traditional poetry of the Finns; tr. [from the Italian] by Isabella M. Anderton; with introd. by Andrew Lang. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1898. 27+359 p. O. cl., $5. [536]

The first part of the work is explanatory, giving information and definitions regarding this traditional poetry, with an account of the contents of the Kalevala, and the method of its composition; a translation of one of its principal songs being added by way of example. The second part, theoretical, explains the origins, the development and the life of this poetry, first in its mythic creations, both demonic and heroic, then in itself or in what is known as the rune. A final chapter offers the conclusions to be drawn from this poetry with regard to the origin of national epics. Brief bibliographies follow the chapters.

Davis, Mrs. Mollie E. Moore. The wire-cutters. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 4+373 p. D. cl., $1.50. [539]

The author of "Under the man-flig" lets the stirring scenes of her story take place again chiefly on the soil of Texas. Emigrants appropriating land, built wire fences around it, and the wire-cutters destroyed them to let the cattle get to the springs and ponds. The hero, through his unaccountable resemblance to the man from whom his mother had been two years divorced, earns the hatred of his mother and the insane jealous rage of his father. He finally falls into the hands of the man whom he resembles, who educates him. The latter is killed in the Civil War. The hero drifts to Texas, where he meets his brother, the villain of the story.

Lavignac, Albert. Music and musicians; with 94 il. and 510 examples in musical notation; 1r. by W. Marchant; ed., with additions on music in America, by H. E. Krehbiel. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1899. c. 7+504 p. O. cl., $3. [560]

"A study of musical sound," the first chapter, discourses of the production of sound, transmission of sound by the atmosphere, perception, relations of successive and simultaneous sounds, acoustic qualities of halls, etc. "The materials of sound" describes beginning with the human voice all known musical instruments. "The grammar of music" deals with harmony and counterpoint. "Esthetics" is devoted to composition and improvisation. The concluding chapter, "History of the art of music," covers the whole field of music from the ancients to the present day, including biographies of leading composers of the German, Italian, French, Russian, and American schools.

Lawler, J. Book auctions in England in the seventeenth century, (1676-1700); with a chronological list of the book auctions of the period. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, [1897.] 44+241 p. S. (Book-lover's lib.) cl., $1.25. [561]

The five chapters are devoted to: William Cooper's sales, 1676-88; Edward Millington's book auctions, 1680-1688; Other English book auctioneers of the seventeenth century; Dr. Bernard's library, 1686; and John Dutton's Irish book auctions.

Leighton, Marie Connor. The harvest of sin. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & A. Wessels, 1898. 7+423 p. il. D. cl., net, $1.50. [562]

An illustration of the proverb, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." The story has its scene mostly in London. The characters are a refined family reduced to poverty through the father's death and the disappearance of the elder son under a cloud. The girl of the family finds an opportunity to go on the stage in a small part, and her experience is used to prove the writer's theory that no refined woman can be an actress. Two men want to marry the girl. One is an actor and very poor, the other an immensely rich man from South Africa. The girl, persuaded by her mother, yields to the temptation of wealth. The man from South Africa has committed a crime which has a tragical effect upon the heroine's life.

Lemmon, G. T. The eternal building; or, the making of manhood. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, 1899. c. 2-380 p. pors. O. cl., $1.50. [563]

A study of the mental, moral, and physical attributes of character-building, with suggestions for a perfect plan of life and the developing of true manhood. The vices and virtues of mankind are compared, and fitting illustrations are given from the lives of men who have been prominent in literature, art, and science, or well-known figures in social reform, for the purpose of showing the effects of good and evil influences on character.

The story takes its title from an allegory told by an English governess to her little pupil. The same plain little governess is the heroine of the story; she is wooed by an English doctor, who believes himself in love and proposes. After he has been accepted by the governess he unexpectedly meets a former love. The complications which follow afford opportunity for character study. The scenes are in the Orient.

"By careful classification of the related poems I have striven," the writer says, "to extract the teaching of the poet. We shall find that he not only gives an ethical law for the guidance of life, but an answer to those deeper questions that utter their tremulous voices in the shrine of the soul." The contents consist of a dozen critical papers based upon the classifications wherein the poems are grouped as the ethical, emotional, and religious poems, and "Man, his creeds." These all have subdivisions. The poems are not quoted in full; only a line or stanza given occasionally for illustration.

The first novel of the author, who is the managing editor of The Louisville Courier-Journal. The hero is a young Kentuckian of wealth and leisure, who does not find his suit prospering with the girl he loves. When he proposes, while not finally rejecting him she puts him off, suggesting what she would do with her life if she were a man. His ambition is aroused and he goes into politics, is elected to the state legislature, and distinguishes himself by a revolt against the bosses and their machine.

Professor Russell is the Dean of Teachers' College,

Columbia University, New York. In July of 1893 the Regents of the University of the State of New York appointed him their European Commissioner, and shortly afterwards he was made Special Agent of the Bureau of Education of the United States for the study and investigation of German schools. He spent two years in Germany, and visited more than forty towns and cities. By force of circumstances his attention was directed chiefly to the schools of central and northern Germany. It happens, therefore, that this study is concerned principally with the schools of Prussia.

Stacpoole, H: De Vere. The rapin. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. 5+808 p. D. cl., $1.50. [592]

Rapin is Parisian studio slang for a professed student of art who has neither the talent nor energy to succeed. The particular Rapin of this story was a French prince who imagined he was a great painter. He fancied if he should wear a blouse and live in the Latin Quarter, and get rid of the enervating influence of his wealth, that he might achieve greatness. He falls in love with a little grisette, and they set up house-keeping together, and he works like a poor man for his daily bread. The idyll, however, comes to a disastrous ending. The other characters, bohemians of the Latin Quarter and nobles of the Faubourg and the Elysées, are well drawn.

Sutcliffe, Halliwell. Ricroft of Withens. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. '98. 4+426 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 258.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [593]

The historical background to this story is the invasion of Great Britain during the reign of George II. by Charles Edward, the young Pretender, in 1746, and his adventures until his defeat, in 1746, at Culloden Moor. The hero, "Ricroft of Withens," accompanies the young prince. Ricroft's story opens on the Yorkshire moors, where he resides in the home of his ancestors, near the Lonely Valley inhabited by the Lonely Folk, a band of outlaws. The depredations of these bandits on the country folk, and the accompanying fighting, are the subjects of many episodes. Their theft of Ricroft's sweetheart is revenged so bitterly as to finally wipe them out.

"The aim of the discussion is to show that the nature of man and of society is such as to indicate that a general federation of the race ought to exist, that war ought to be abolished, that the whole of humanity must move together in harmonious co-operation if it ever fulfils its destiny; to point out the reasons why this federation has been so long delayed; to indicate the influences which have been at work liberating and restoring the federative elements; and to show from actual historic movements and recent social and international achievements that the social and political unity of the world is a consummation rationally to be expected in the not remote future."—Preface. A bibliography, "intended to be only a good working list of books, pamphlets, and periodicals," covers 9 pages. Professor Trueblood is secretary of the American Peace Society.

Watson, Idelle B. German sight reading. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. 8+41 p. S. bds., 25 c. [597]

These selections are intended for written classwork, without the aid of dictionary or grammar, and assume that the pupil has had a year of German. They represent the work of one year, and are graded accordingly, the first passages being the easier ones. As the requirements for college have been constantly kept in view, the selections have been made as varied as possible.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 4, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE RETICENCE OF THE BOOKSELLER.

WE think that it may be put down that booksellers as a rule do not talk enough about their business. While there may be some who talk far too much to the customers who visit their shops, quite too many do not say enough about their shops to those who never go near them. We have heard a story that ought to give food for thought to many of our readers. A bookseller of Blanktown recently learned that one of his old acquaintances had purchased a compendious work, and felt hurt at the thought that his friend should have gone elsewhere to make the purchase. When next he met him he reproached him for his disloyalty, and asked him why he had not made the purchase at his shop. "Why, how could I guess that you dealt in such books," replied his friend; "a man recently called at my house and talked so irresistibly about the value of the work, its many advantages to my family, etc., etc., that I couldn't help buying it at once." "It is too bad," interposed the bookseller; "here I have kept that book right along for years and might have sold it to you as low as anyone can sell it, and at terms to suit yourself." "Well," his friend remarked, "let me advise you to hasten to our old friends Jones and Smith, and acquaint them of this fact. I have been so enthusiastic over my purchase that they have sent for the agent to show them the work, and it is more than likely that they will buy it, if they have not already done so."

The moral of this incident lies on the surface. Day by day agents invade the homes of bookbuyers—in person or in the shape of ingeniously worded and persuasive advertising matter. To what extent is the bookseller represented in this direction? To a very small one, we venture to say, if he is represented at all. In some indirect, impersonal way, and at the smallest possible expense to himself; in most cases through general advertising matter, furnished by the publisher. In single cases only by individual advertising, prepared to suit a particular constituency. Year after year thousands of books are sold by personal effort—by special campaigns. And in most cases the best of these books cannot stand comparison with the ordinary stock kept by the average bookseller. Is it reasonable to suppose that the public collectively is a fool and would rather buy poor books, indifferently made, than good books well made, if the latter were brought home to it either literally or figuratively? The bookseller claims, when reproached for his indifference in this respect, that he cannot afford to advertise. He might just as well argue that he can't afford to keep shop.

THE ISSUE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, dated March 11, will be the Spring Announcement Number. Copy for the advertising pages of this issue must reach us by the morning of the 8th inst. at the latest; this refers especially to advertising matter intended for the departments of Books Wanted, Books for Sale, Copyright and Special Notices.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE DINNER.

THE annual dinner of The Booksellers' League, which, as already announced, will be held on the evening of March 15, at the rooms of the Uptown Association, Constable Building, Northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eighteenth Street, New York, promises to fully equal its predecessors in brilliancy and enjoyableness. The committee have thus far secured the following speakers: George H. Richmond, who will speak on old books; F. W. Crowninshield, of Dodd, Mead & Company, who will speak on book advertising; Gilbert Ray Hawes, of the New York Bar, who will speak on literature and the law; and Paul R. Reynolds, who will explain the relations of the literary agent to the author and the book trade. The music will be furnished by the Manhattan Symphony Instrumental Quintet, and C. B. Hawley, the well-known basso, has kindly consented to sing. The committee expects one or two others to be present and to participate in the speechmaking, but for the present it is not thought advisable to mention names. The dinner card and programme will be embellished with designs made by H. T. Carpenter, of Herbert S. Stone & Co. W. H. Parker, with E. P. Dutton & Co., 31 W. Twenty-third Street, New York, requests those who wish to attend to make application for tickets at once, and to indicate with whom they wish to sit, as no changes can be made in the arrangement of seats on the evening when the dinner is given. The tickets cost $2, and there will be room for only one hundred guests.

STEIN'S "MANUEL DE BIBLIOGRAPHIE GÉNÉRALE." *

M. FUNCK-BRENTANO, in an article on the "Problems of Bibliography" published in the Revue des Deux Mondes, for January 1, 1898, names three events that marked the year 1897 as epoch-making in bibliographical science, one of which was the appearance of a "Manuel de Bibliographie Générale," by Henri Stein. This handbook forms an attractive volume of nearly 900 pages, of convenient size, clear typography, and excellent paper. The author says in the preface that the book comprises a synthesis of all the bibliographies published to the end of 1896, and constitutes a new "Bibliotheca Bibliographica" analogous to the volume of this name issued at Leipzig in 1866 by Dr. Julius Petzholdt. He commends this monumental work, and admits his indebtedness to it, but adopts his method of classification in part only, modifying it to suit recent views. Incidentally Mr. Stein pays his respects to Leon Vallée's "Bibliographie des Bibliographies," (Paris 1884 and 1887,) and refers to the incompetence of that gentleman notwithstanding his position as a librarian of the Bibliothèque Nationale.

Stein divides his subject into seventeen main sections, the names of which need not be here repeated; each of these is subdivided into eight to fourteen minor sections, and these are again split up into many special categories; as he himself remarks "the division is sometimes continued to infinity, in order to render the classification clear and the research as convenient as possible."

Titles of periodicals are uniformly printed in italics, an excellent feature, which might have been applied with equal advantage to the subject index at the end to distinguish the main reference. To the majority of titles brief annotations are affixed, generally pointing out characteristics of excellence, or books to be shunned; works neither remarkable nor "detestable" being passed without comment. Stein claims to have seen most of the works cited and to have written the appreciations only in the interest of science; they deserve confidence as a rule, for we have noted but rare instances where they invite dissent, or seem at variance with the judgment of specialists.

The work does not pretend to displace but rather to continue that of Petzholdt, and contains only a selection not arbitrarily made; general treatises when complete dispense with the use of minor special ones. The author admits the difficulties that arise in classifying books by subjects and expresses the hope that he has succeeded in placing each title in the section in which it is most likely to be sought.

The volume contains three large Appendices:

- I. Typographical Geography.
- II. List of Indexes to Periodicals.
- III. List of Catalogues issued by Libraries.

Considering the magnitude of the work, on which the author spent ten years, his preface is exceedingly modest, and this should be borne in mind in undertaking to criticise the volume.

The work of a bibliographer requires a wide range of learning, infinite attention to minute details, industry and perseverance; the result of his arduous labor is appreciated by a very small number, and the recompense is usually represented by zero; under these conditions the appearance of any bibliography should be greeted with words of praise for the author's endeavor to place in the hands of students means for getting at special knowledge, and the smallest adverse criticism must seem ungracious in the extreme. Nevertheless, commendation for industry is not incompatible with criticism of the result of that industry, a fact that must be recognized by the reviewer of books.

With Stein's "Manuel" before us we propose to examine it on three points:

I. Are the titles well selected?

II. Are they accurately given?

III. Is the material arranged so as to be handy for reference?

A cursory glance at the volume reveals the fact that it contains no author-index, and this astounding omission renders a study of its contents difficult from the very outset. This serious blemish will require further comment later on.

Turning now to the opening pages, the omission of a division Bibliographies of bibliography is inexplicable. The reference in the preface to Petzholdt, Vallée, Ottino and Fumagalli, and Bergmans, suffices in no way. They should have been cited at the beginning of the work in a special rubric, or in a list of sources (if not in the body of the book in their proper class,) together with some others of lesser importance, which may yet be consulted with profit, even though the material has presumably been incorporated to a large extent in the "Manuel." Such are G. Pawlowski's "Travaux bibliographiques," 1867-78, (in Congrès bibliographique international, Compte-rendu, Paris, 1879, also separately issued;) Stein's own report (1879-88) to the Congrès bibliographique international tenu à Paris, 1888, (Compte rendu, Paris, 1889;) the article "Bibliographie," by Daniel Grand, in the "Grande encyclopédie" t. 6.; the Boston Public Library Handbook for readers, 9th ed., 1890; the full monthly lists since 1884 in the Centralblatt für Bibliothekswesen, and other bibliographical periodicals, especially the Revue internationale des archives, des bibliothèques et des musées, 1895-96, and its successor, Le Bibliographe moderne, edited by M. Stein himself.

Section I. comprises "Universal Bibliographies," and the first subsection bears the heading "Generalities"; in this division are only five titles. Swan Sonnenschein is cited inaccurately, and the compiler's intentions with reference to the two volumes are misunderstood.

The second subdivision is "Encyclopædias," in which numerous errors occur, though the works cited are accessible to every one. Ersch and Gruber is named, but no explanation is given of the issue of this work in sections, nor of its incomplete state; the edition of Meyer's "Konversations Lexikon" cited is not the latest; and to Brockhaus' "Konversations-Lexikon" a wrong number of volumes is given. A notable omission in this subdivision is the great French encyclopædia of Larousse.

The third minor subdivision is styled "Rare Books," and the fourth "Ancient works and Incunabula," Harris's "Excerpta Colombiana" being rather out of place here; no mention is vouchsafed of the admirable work by Mlle. Marie Pellechet, "Catalogue général des Incunables des Bibliothèques publiques de France," v. 1 of which appeared in May, 1897.

* A critical review, by H. Carrington Bolton and Charles Martel, read at a meeting of the Library Association of Washington City, held January 11, 1899.

Inasmuch as the Manuel actually appeared in July, 1898, and many books of 1897 are cited (e.g., p. 87, G. Gavet's "Manuel de bibliographie juridique," which is not yet published) this omission seems unaccountable.

The next subdivision is "Great Catalogues of Libraries," alphabetically arranged by countries, only six being represented, and the United States being credited with only one work.

Section II. is devoted to National Bibliographies arranged by countries in alphabetical order. Under Germany we find the well-known works of Heinsius, and of Kayser; then, one of the series by Hinrichs is incorrectly cited (viz., the "Fünf-Jahrs-Katalog," and a note states that the other bibliographical serials issued by that publisher will be noted elsewhere. On the next page he cites the "Allgemeine Bibliographie" and its successor, the "Wöchentliches Verzeichniss," but in no place that we can find, (and the absence of an Author-Index makes the search difficult,) does Stein explain the difference and merits of other serial publications by Hinrichs. Fock's "Bibliog. Monatsbericht über Schul- und Universitätschriften" follows here, and a reference at least would have been in place to p. 285: Bibliographies académiques, and to p. 287: Thèses et discours, subdivisions under "Philologie."

The classification, well conceived and practical in general, lacks here and there uniformity in design; sometimes a heading is devised for a single book, and the subdivisions are frequently so minute as to render it quite difficult to find a given book.

Many singular instances of peculiar classification of individual books occur. In the subsection "Chemistry, Generalities," we find Eiloart's (name misspelled) "Bibliography of Stereo-chemistry," a work on ptomaines, and one on bacteriology, topics hardly falling under generalities. Platzmann's "Verzeichniss einer Auswahl amerikanischer Grammatiken, Wörterbücher, Katechismen u. s. w." Leipzig, 1876, appears under Catechisms, section of Practical Theology, and is not mentioned at p. 261-62: Philologie—Amérique, though it is a list of grammars, dictionaries, etc., of Indian languages. The Quarterly Journal of Economics appears under "Finances"; it should be placed at p. 115, (Sciences écon. et sociales: Généralités.) Macdonald's "Abnormal Man" is found under Anthropology; it had been better placed under "Criminal Law" (Sociology) pp. 109-110, since there is no section devoted to "Criminal Anthropology" which might have been introduced to advantage. Classification is, however, so much a question of taste and personal bias that the criticism of this character would have little weight, provided Stein had furnished readers with an Author Index, the absence of which necessitates looking for a given work in the section in which the user imagines it might be found. Gallardo's "Ensayo de una bibliotheca de libros raros," for example, appears at page 18 under "National Bibliographies," whereas it would be naturally sought for at p. 266 under "Philologie et Belles Lettres," subdivision "Spain." Books relating to Slavery are placed under Socialism. Bahder's "Deutsche Philologie in Grundriss" is hidden away at p. 258 (Dialects,) it certainly belongs at p. 254 (Philology—Germany.) Varnhagen (p. 288) is out of place with general lists of theses, or should at least be cited at p. 251 and p. 254. At p. 65 "Livres condamnés par le pouvoir spirituel," a reference is due to p. 309 "Livres condamnés par le pouvoir temporel," especially as the latter division is not indexed under "Prohibés (livres)," while the former is; p. 112 after the division "Propriété littéraire" would have been a more suitable place. Ophthalmology, Otology, and Dentistry are subsections of "Médecine interne." Gynæcology and obstetrics likewise are found or rather lost there under the heading Maladies génito-urinaires. Huber, J. C. "Bibliog. d. klin. Helminthologie" appears in company with "albuminurie" and venereal diseases under the heading "Maladies du sang" (!) The section "Chirurgie générale" contains three general works, one on plastic surgery, one on hernia, two on orthopædia, one on massage, two on electrotherapy, the latter three surely better in the next following division, "Thérapeutique." The Zeitschrift f. Psychologie und Physiologie der Sinnesorgane (p. 223) should be referred to at p. 172 (Anatomie et Physiologie) as well.

The errors in transcribing titles are unfortunately quite numerous, and we select a few of the most glaring. Swan Sonnenschein and Hinrichs have been mentioned: on page 7 Bulletino for Bollettino; at p. 8 Brockhaus' Allgemeine Bibliographie is said to have disappeared with Petzholdt's Neuer Anzeiger, whereas the Allgemeine is published regularly (now in its 44th year); similarly the Cesky Katalog (p. 15,) supposed to have lapsed after the first year (1889,) appears regularly; on p. 19 the "American Catalogue" is credited to Kelly down to 1892. Leyboldt and Bowker are not mentioned; p. 22 J. Le Soudier for H. Le Soudier; p. 25, Papadopoulos-Vreto for Papadoulos-Vretos; p. 27 (Szabo) 1884-85 should be 1879-85; p. 32, Garcia, the Mexican author, appears under Icazbalceta, J. G.; p. 36, I. A. for I. F. da Silva; disfigured German titles are frequent, e.g., p. 66 (Reusch); p. 76 (Zunz), ibid. (Hartmann); p. 77 (Brambach); p. 96 (Stintzing); p. 121 (André); p. 166 (Monticelli); p. 168 (Fauna.) At p. 161 (Albee) read [Harvard University Library. Bibliograph. contribut. No. 51:] pp. 166 and 167, the Bulletin of the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy is cited, but place of publication is omitted; Dr. Billings' monumental Index-Catalogue is given as having 8 volumes instead of 16, though v. 16 is mentioned in the note, where it is said to contain the "Periodical list," which in fact is in v. 10. Ernst Kuhn, whose name is a household word in oriental philology, is persistently cited as Kühn wherever his name appears (p. 240, 241, 242; similarly, p. 264, Schnürer for Schnurrer; p. 499, Würzbach for Wurzbach.

At p. 88 [Schulz] read 1882-90 for 1891; p. 159, "[P. Mayer] Zoologischer Jahresbericht, Leipzig, 1879 et ss," is entirely inadequate: The Jahresbericht is edited by the "Zoologische Station zu Neapel," which deserves to be mentioned; it was at first "redigirt" (1879-80) by J. V. Carus, 1881 by Carus and P. Mayer, 1882 by Carus, Mayer and W. Giesbrecht, 1883-85 by Mayer and Giesbrecht, 1886 & ff. by Mayer; moreover it is published since 1885-6 not by Engelmann in Leipzig, but at Berlin by Friedländer. The Bibliographia zoologica mentioned next is a publication of the Concilium bibliographicum, of which nothing is said. Similarly no reference is made to the Zoologische Station zu Neapel which edits the "Fauna und Flora des Golfs von Neapel" (p.

168.) P. 169 Semper, C. "Reisen im Archipel der Philippinen." Wiesbaden "1868-85 4 v." is still in progress and had long exceeded 4 v. even in 1885. The Bibliotheca diabolica (p. 192) is by H. Kernot. The Bibliotheca belgica (p. 272) is still in progress and contains not 27 v. 1880-90, but circa 142 fasc. 1880-98. P. 225 (Senator) read albuminurie for albuminurie; p. 290 (Delepiepierre) read Macaronéana; p. 299 (Molins. Note) read Juan Corominas for L. Coromiles, and artistas for artists; p. 341 (Foster) the blunder Gherokees for Cherokees has been preserved in the index, no reference being found under Cherokees; p. 240 (Coping) read 1500 for 1550; p. 530 Tompkins for Tomkins, and 1888 for 1887.

Carelessness in proof-reading will account for some of the singular blunders which are not uncommon; "The Royal Commission on strikes" (p. 126) has a queer look; and "Verzeichniss deutscher sexueller und cosmetischer Sexuellen" when "Schriften" is intended, ought to have been detected. We note "Raktische" for "praktische" (p. 692); the use of the capital I in the place of J in the word Jahrbuch is not in good taste; and Irvingianer quite disguises the word by erroneous division at the end of a line (p. 529); "bibliphical" for "bibliographical" (p. 137); XIX. Century where "XVI." is correct and of importance (p. 138); the omission of the word "results" in the title of Carr's "Synopsis of elementary [results] in pure mathematics" (p. 144), which work, moreover, is given as published in Boston instead of London; "Neibreich" for Neilreich (p. 156); "New York State diary Commissioner" for Dairy (p. 152).

We now turn to a section devoted to a subject in which one of us happens to be at home—Chemistry, and we note the following: No attempt at a complete treatment of the subject is made because the Select Bibliography of Chemistry published by the Smithsonian Institution makes details superfluous (see p. xviii). Under "Generalities" two French Dictionaries are cited (none in English or German) and a half a dozen indexes to special classes of literature; this is followed by a section devoted to "Current Literature" (p. 149,) in which seven periodicals are catalogued, three of which are erroneously given, viz.: the well-known Jahresbericht der Chemie is given as edited by Fittica, not one word being said about Liebig and Wöhler, its renowned founders, and it is said to have been established in 1861, a date that should be 1847. Besides, Fittica did not become editor until 1875.

The Journal of Analytical and Applied Chemistry has its title misspelled and is said to be current, whereas it was merged into J. Amer. Chem. Soc. in 1894. The Jahresbericht über die Fortschritte der Agricultur-Chemie, established by Hoffmann in 1858, is stated to have been begun in 1878. These important errors need not have been made had the author consulted the Bibliography published by the Smithsonian Institution, which, moreover, is commended by him.

On p. 151 G. J. Rockwell's "Index to the Literature of Vanadium" is ascribed to "C. Rockwood," and unhappily placed in the same paragraph with an entirely different work by A. R. Leeds.

Under Electricity in the adjoining section, Webb's "Index to the Literature of Electrolysis" is correctly cited, but the French translation of the same by Donato Tommasi is not named.

In the analysis of the contents of Fremy's voluminous "Encyclopédie chimique" the element "Sodium" is misspelled "Sidium," and this new creation is carefully preserved in the index of subjects with which the work closes.

Not a single history of chemistry is mentioned, though space might have been given to the six magnificent quarto volumes edited in 1887-1893 by Berthelot, the eminent French chemist.

The author of this Manual of Bibliography expressly states that the selection of titles is not arbitrarily made, and he hopes that no important work has escaped his notice. To criticise a list of books by pointing out the omissions only, is a most uncharitable procedure, and we therefore assert that the thanks of librarians and students are due to M. Stein for the titles included (so far as correctly given;) nevertheless it is permissible to indicate a few omissions.

And first we note the absence of cross-references, which are always so important in any classified list of books; a few notes occur, but no attempt has been made to introduce cross-references systematically. Another class of omissions is that of the number of volumes of periodicals.

A few books missed in a hasty examination are here given: p. 4 Dauze. Revue bibliographique 1892-3 & ff.; ibid., (p. 20) Publishers' trade list annual; "American Book prices current" v. 1; 1895 & ff.; (p. 23) Jordell. "Catalogue annuel de la librairie française," Paris 1893 & ff.; (p. 32) Medina, J. T. "La imprenta en Mexico" (1539-1810) Sevilla, 1893; p. 72 (resp. 772) the most important of Smith's Quaker bibliographies, the "Descriptive catalogue of Friends' books." 1867, 2 v. and Supplement. 1893; p. 125 (or 439) Hoe, R. "Literature of printing." London, 1877; p. 137 (resp. 775) Poggenдорff: v. 3: 1858-83. 1896; p. 131 Rethwisch, C. Jahresberichte üb. d. höhere Schulwesen; ibid. Kehrbach, K. "Das gesammte Erziehungs- und Unterrichtswesen." Juni, 1896 & ff.; p. 136 Rockwell, J. E. "Teaching, practice and literature of Shorthand." Wash. 1884 (U. S. Bureau of Education. Circular of information 1884, No. 2); p. 139 The "Ukazatel russkoi literatury" 1876 ff. Kiev, 1877, ff., ed. for the "Kievskoi Obshchestvo Estestvoispytatelei" by N. A. Bunge; p. 147 "Deutsche Seewarte zu Hamburg. Katalog der Bibliothek." Hamburg, 1890; p. 169 Zeitschrift für Ethnologie; p. 238 Jöcher-Rothermund 7. Bd. 1897; Catalogues of private libraries when of superior bibliographical value should have been included, e.g. p. 267 Salva y Mallen, P. Catálogo, 1872, 2 v.; Heredia, R. Catálogo (Collection Salva) Paris, 1891-94. 4 v.; Boston Public Library. Catalogue of the Spanish library of G. Ticknor. Boston, 1879; at p. 266-70 we miss Émile Picot's "Catalogue de la bibliothèque de feu M. le baron de Rothschild." 4 v. 1885-98; and Lintilhac's "Précis historique." 1894-5. 2 v., bibliographically much more important than Lanson's "Histoire" p. 263 Zeitschrift für deutsche Philologie; Zeitschrift für deutsches Alterthum und deutsche Literatur; and more particularly Pfeiffer's Germania with its very valuable bibliography (1862 & ff.) p. 264 Anglia with special bibliographical supplement current and annual 1877 & ff.; also Körtings "Grundriss d. Gesch. d. engl. Literatur" 2e Aufl. 1893; Hazlitt's "Handbook" 1867, and Collections and notes; 3 series and suppl. 1876-89; p. 271 the Giornale storico della letteratura italiana; ibid., Mazzoni. "Avviamento allo studio critico delle lettere italiane." 1892; p. 275-78 Mémoires, and Zeitschrift d. Vereins für Volkskunde; p. 294 the 4th ed. of Brümmer; and Kürschner's Litteratur-Kalender; p. 285 the Ergänzungsheft 1892, zu Kukula; p. 291 Wulp, J. K. "Catalogus van de tractaten (etc.) in de bibliotheek van I. Meulman 1866-68, 3 v., very important and intended as "2e afdeeling" of Muller's "Bibliotheek"; p. 435 the Library Journal; and the Monthly notes of the L. A. U. K.; the Library chronicle; the Library; the Revue des bibliothèques; the Rivista delle biblioteche; Bulletin du bibliophile; Courier du livre (Québec.)

The Appendixes are useful for their purposes, but not free from blemishes, nor is a list of general indexes to periodicals "pour la première fois tenté ici" (cf. Boston Public Library. Handb. f. readers 9th ed. 1890 p. 265-311.) The index volume is lacking of Neue Zeitschrift für Rübensucker Industrie (1894) and that of the Zeitschrift für wissenschaftliche Zoologie is erroneously given; Vols. I-XXX, 1876, should be I-XV (1868,) and XVI-XXX, (1879.) The dates of the Index volume of the Journal de pharmacie d'Anvers are wholly incorrect: "I-X (1855-64) 1865" should be I-X (1845-54) 1855, or ten years earlier throughout.

Once more we must express our great dissatisfaction at the absence of the Author-Index; we had been unable to find under any category the important "Bibliotheca Bibliographica italica" of Ottino and Fumagalli, although it is mentioned in the preface, until we discovered it later quite accidentally at p. 436.

M. Stein says in his preface: "the mission of a bibliographer is quite different from that ordinarily thought; a maker of catalogues is no more a bibliographer than a manufacturer of seltzer water is a chemist, or an accountant is a mathematician." This may have much of truth; nevertheless, we maintain that a bibliographer should be a good cataloguer, and M. Stein cannot lay claim to the subordinate title. He sometimes falls into the gross error of giving as the title of a book the name by which it is called colloquially; a notable instance is the way in which he gives to the reader of his manual the title of a prominent catalogue; he writes it thus: "General Catalogue of the British Museum Library, London 1881 et ss. 8vo." whereas it should read: "British Museum. Catalogue of Printed Books, London, 1881, et ss. 4to." In Stein's Manual neither the title nor size are correct. Similarly the "Accessions" catalogue quoted under an inaccurate title is said to be "annual," whereas since 1880 over 450 parts have appeared.

In conclusion: this review is the result of a mere superficial examination of the Manual; we have jotted down only what the eye and the memory detected in casual use of the volume, with scarcely any attempt at comparison with other treatises. To the reader and reference librarian the defects noted will seldom prove a serious hindrance, but bibliographers and cataloguers demanding accurate and full reference may use the "Manuel" only with the greatest caution, and never without verifying the titles whenever it is in their power to do so. There is no other single book where such a wealth of bibliographical information may be found; it is the more to be regretted that the very competent and able compiler has permitted a little apparent haste and carelessness to detract much from the otherwise almost inestimable value of the Bibliotheca bibliographica nova.

WHEN THE DUTCH DID NOT TAKE HOLLAND.

HOLLAND declined to join in the Berne Copyright Convention, and German authors are particularly wrathful over the results of this action. According to the London correspondent of the New York Tribune, "no sooner had the opening parts of Adolf Streckfuss's new 'History of the World' appeared than he became aware that a piratical translation was being sold in Amsterdam. He asked the Dutch publisher for some 'pecuniary acknowledgment' of his rights, and received in reply a Dutch cheese, with a statement that the sender recognized no moral obligation in the matter. The week after, the following advertisement appeared in the leading newspapers of Amsterdam: 'For sale' the manuscript of the 'History of the World,' by Streckfuss, a fortnight before the publication of each part in Berlin.' Scores of good offers poured in, and the offending publisher had to choose between losing his stock of the first numbers or outbidding his trade rivals. He chose the latter alternative, and the author got a handsome price for his book."

OBITUARY NOTES.

SIR GEORGE FERGUSON BOWEN, former governor of Hong Kong, died at Brighton, England, February 21. He was born in 1821. Among his published works are "Murray's Handbook of Greece" and "Thirty Years of Colonial Government."

IDA FREILIGRATH, widow of Ferdinand Freiligrath, the poet, died on the 8th ult., in London, Eng., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Freiligrath-Kroeker. Mme. Freiligrath was a talented woman, and translated a number of English poems quite admirably into German, notably some of Mrs. Hemans's. When a child she had the honor of being noticed by Goethe, with whose grandsons she used to play.

SIR JOHN STRUTHERS, M.D., vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, died February 24. He was born at Brucefield, Scotland, February 21, 1823. Sir John published numerous articles on subjects connected with human and comparative anatomy in The Edinburgh Medical Journal and in The Journal of Anatomy and Physiology, and also several separate works, among which were an "Historical Sketch of the Edinburgh Anatomical School."

THE late George Andrew Spottiswoode, who died two weeks ago in London, England, was the younger son of Andrew Spottiswoode, the well-known member of the firm of Eyre & Spottiswoode, the "Queens printers." He was educated at Harrow and Balliol; but, unfortunately, before he had been a year at Oxford the failure of his father's health made it necessary for him to leave the University and join his elder brother William in taking charge of the printing office. The business was divided, William Spottiswoode receiving the Queen's House, while George took charge of the New House, which has since developed into the firm of Spottiswoode & Co.

PAUL JULIUS, BARON REUTER, the originator of the great modern agencies for gathering and transmitting the news of the world, died at Nice, France, February 25. There is some confusion in sketches of his life as to his name, or, rather, as to the use of the prefix—"de" or "von"—before "Reuter." Many who consider him as a German, as he was born at Kassel, in Hesse-Nassau, Prussia, July 21, 1817, call him "von" Reuter, while others who like French forms use the "de." He was Paul Julius Reuter until he was made a Baron, in 1871, by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. Reuter's first employment was in a bank at Goettingen. Afterward he took up scientific studies, especially of electro-magnetism. In 1848 he devoted himself to carrying out an idea he had conceived of establishing a system for the more rapid transmission of news, by means of an organized news bureau or agency. The idea was suggested to him by the practical working of the long telegraph lines in Germany. The first agency that Reuter established was at Paris, at the commencement of 1849, but as soon as the line between Berlin and Aix-la-Chapelle was completed, October 1 of the same year, he went to the latter city, and opened a news bureau there. In 1851, having associated Baron Erlanger with him, Reuter removed his headquarters to London. At that time he had already become a naturalized British citizen. In 1865 Reuter transferred his business to a limited liability company, of which he was the manager. His successor in the management is his son, Herbert Reuter.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

As we go to press Mr. Kipling's recovery seems to be assured.

"REINE VERDIER" is the title of Paul Bourget's new psychological novel.

AUSTIN DOBSON is preparing for the press a new volume of essays, to be entitled "A Paladin of Philanthropy."

W. H. WILKINS, in his capacity of literary executor to the late Lady Burton, is preparing for publication the remaining posthumous MSS. of Sir Richard Burton, including his version of "Pilpay's Fables."

WILLIAM SHARP has completed two works of fiction—"Silence Farm," a novel, and "Sister Eunice," a collection of short stories. Miss Fiona Macleod (who has been said to be Mr. Sharp in disguise) is to bring out a new historical Jacobite romance.

EDMONDO DE AMICIS, who is said to be an optimistic socialist, has just finished a new book entitled "La Carrozza di Tutti." It is the result of a year's observations in the public conveyances of Turin, and it is the expression of the author's belief in an ultimate millennium.

A NEW play by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, entitled "Joe Hurst, Gentleman," had its first production in Washington, D. C., on the evening of February 27. The plot turns on the foible of an English waxworks showman, who sends his daughter away in infancy to be educated above her social surroundings, and on the complications which her home-coming entails.

BLANCHE MCMANUS (Mrs. M. F. Mansfield) is at present hard at work on the illustrations of what promises to be a notable edition of "Alice in Wonderland." Mrs. Mansfield has had her schemes of color and drawing for this work in preparation for some time, and they will probably be completed in time to be published next fall by M. F. Mansfield & A. Wessels.

SIENKIEWICZ's new story, "Kryzacy," (Teutonic Knights,) is now being published serially in the Warsaw Tygodnik Ilustrowany (Illustrated Weekly.) The novel deals with that period of Polish history when the marriage of the young Queen of Poland, Hedwiga (1386,) to the Prince of Lithuania brought the last heathen country in Europe to Christianity and united the two countries. This event gave the death-blow to the Order of Teutonic Knights, which was then at the height of its power and prosperity.

It is said of Maurice Hewlett, the author of those delightful books, "The Forest Lovers" and "Earthwork Out of Tuscany," that he is looked upon as the chief authority of the time in the translation of musty old documents in Norman-French. In his experience at the Record Office he has acquired an excellent knowledge of that language. He is, by the way, the nephew of James Knowles, editor of The Nineteenth Century. Mr. Hewlett, according to the New York Tribune, inherited his poetic talent from his father, Henry Gay Hewlett, who has published two books of verse, "A Sheaf of Verse" and "A Wayfarer's Wallet," in the last score of years. The elder Hewlett will be remembered also as the editor of H. F. Chorley's "Autobiography" and of Chorley's "National Music of the World."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

It has been finally arranged that the Third International Congress of Publishers shall be held at Stationers' Hall, on June 7, 8, and 9. Among others, M. Brunetiere will attend.

ARNOLD & COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just published another book by Mrs. S. T. Rorer, author of "Mrs. Rorer's Cook-Book," entitled "Left Overs, and how to transform them into palatable and wholesome dishes."

GEORGE H. RICHMOND & SON have sold their interest in d'Annunzio's works to L. C. Page & Co., who will hereafter be the publishers in this country of the works of the well-known Italian novelist. The volumes by d'Annunzio that have been issued by Mr. Richmond include "The Child of Pleasure," "The Intruder," "The Triumph of Death," and "The Maidens of the Rock."

DR. GARNETT has resigned his post as Keeper of the Printed Books at the British Museum, thus anticipating the natural expiration of his term by some months. The resign-nation takes effect March 20. Dr. Garnett's connection with the Museum began in March, 1851, when he was about sixteen years of age. Since 1890 he has held his present post as Keeper of the Printed Books.

D. C. HEATH & Co. are just about to issue selections from Freytag's "Aus dem Jahrhundert des grossen Krieges," one of the volumes in his famous Bilder aus der deutschen Vergangenheit. Apart from the value this work has in acquainting the student with the life and times of the Thirty Years' War, it is of exceeding interest, and for advanced courses in German will take a prominent place in school and college.

BLACKWOOD & SONS announce a new series to be entitled Modern English Writers, in which will appear a monograph on Froude, by Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes,) and one on Browning by Augustine Birrell. Andrew Lang will deal with "Tennyson," and Sidney Lee, the biographer of Shakespeare, with "George Eliot." Thackeray has been consigned to Charles Whibley, and Dickens to W. E. Henley.

THE CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY has definitely settled upon making Cleveland, Ohio, its publishing headquarters, and has bought out the interest of Theodore L. Flood and of the Flood & Vincent Company, of Meadville, Pa., who now have large contracts for Chautauqua publications. The Chautauquan, the monthly publication, will be handed over to the Assembly October 1, and the printing interest in textbooks used at Chautauqua will be acquired July 1. The transfer of the Assembly Herald will take place immediately, as will also the Herald editorial building at Chautauqua.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have in preparation "Recollections of an Old Musician," by Thomas Ryan, a member of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston. Mr. Ryan, who is a veteran musician, will give an account of Musical Boston, or, in fact, Musical United States, during the past forty years. As a member of the well-known Boston quintette, his opportunities in the musical world have been extensive. He commences his volume with an account of the first opera given in Boston. There will be many portraits, and among them one of Jonas Chickering, the originator of the Chickering pianos, of whom they used to say that he was like the instruments he manufactured—grand, square, and upright.

T. FISHER UNWIN has just completed an arrangement with the holder of the copyright in the sole authorized edition of Nietzsche's works, whereby he will issue authorized English translations at a low and uniform price. "The Genealogy of Morals," translated by Dr. Haussmann, and "The Poems," translated by John Gray, will appear together in one volume in March. They will be followed by "Thus Spake Zarathustra" and "The Case of Wagner," a volume containing "The Antichrist" as well. As regards "Zarathustra," the translation by Dr. Tille is the original one carefully produced under the supervision of the Nietzsche Archiv, and, for a time, at least, can be the only complete one, since the copyright of the fourth part has not yet expired.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, O.—W. J. Armbruster, of Chicago, has bought W. G. Robinson's book business and will continue it as Robinson's bookstore.

BOSTON, MASS.—Lamson, Wolfe & Co., publishers, have failed. Liabilities are reported to be $73,105.90, and assets, $26,748.72. The firm was organized about five years ago by E. R. Lamson and Mr. Wolfe, then a student in Harvard. The latter was obliged to withdraw, owing to a college rule which prohibits students from engaging in business. Besides the office here, the firm also had an office in New York.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Details of a plan to reorganize the firm of A. C. McClurg & Co. as a corporation, are, we understand, now being worked out. General McClurg and his partner, F. B. Smith, are to own the majority of stock in the corporation, and will continue in control of the business. The employees will be permitted to subscribe for shares. There will be no change in the policy of the business or in the administration of the departments. The losses of the firm were adjusted by the insurance companies according to the inventories.

HENDERSON, KY.—T. K. Harper has opened a bookstore in the Becker block.

NEW YORK CITY.—Justice Gildersleeve on the 2d inst. dissolved the firm of Brentanos, and appointed temporary receiver William R. Rose permanent receiver. The receiver is authorized to sell in bulk at private sale the stock and fixtures in the New York, Chicago, and Washington stores to the highest bidder, subject to the confirmation of the court. The Paris branch has been carried on for the benefit of the French creditors.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles E. Graff, of 100 William Street, who has published since October, 1897, Babyland and Little Men and Women, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $6008 and nominal assets $1306.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.—J. F. Troy will soon start a bookstore here.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

By Miss MARY KINGSLEY. With illustrations and maps.

Cloth, 8vo, $5.00.

Of her "Travels in West Africa," The Evening Transcript, Boston, said "that no more thoroughly interesting book on African travel had yet been written, not even by Stanley." It impressed the Dial as "a strong, original, vivacious, and important book."

JUST READY.

THE LESSON OF POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

By GAMALIEL BRADFORD, A.B. (Harvard).

In two volumes. Cloth, 8vo. Just Ready.

This book might be called a Defence of Democracy. It points out that government directly representative of universal suffrage has never existed in the world till this century, nor in full development till the third decade. No argument from any previous structure of government can be regarded as conclusive, and time enough has not elapsed to justify positive inferences.

The Development of English Thought.

A Study in the Economic Interpretation of History.

By SIMON N. PATTEN, Ph.D., Professor of Political Economy, Wharton School of Finance and Economy, University of Pennsylvania.

8vo, Cloth, Gilt Top, $3.00.

The purpose of this book is to bring out the connection between the economic events that determine a nation's prosperity and the thought and feelings of the people. English history has been investigated because English development has been more normal and freer from external influences than that of other modern nations.

The Dawn of Reason; or, Mental Traits in the Lower Animals.

By JAMES WEIR, Jr., M.D., author of "The Psychical Correlation of Religious Emotion and Sexual Desire," etc. 16mo, Cloth, $1.25.

The author presents in this volume, in a clear, simple, and brief form, the evidences of mental action in creatures lower than man, with special reference to Insects. The data upon which the book is based can be relied upon, and the propositions advanced are the result of years devoted to biological study.

THE STORY OF OLD FORT LOUDON.

Stories from A Tale of the Cherokees and Pioneers of Tennessee, 1760. Cloth Extra, American History. By CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK, author of "The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains," etc. Illustrated by C. E. PEIXOTTO. Crown 8vo. Price, $1.50.

A new story in the Series to which belong:—EGGLESTON'S Southern Soldier Stories, STOCKTON'S Buccannery and Pirates of Our Coast, HIGGINSON'S Tales of the Enchanted Isles of the Atlantic, etc., etc.

"The narratives are full of startling adventure, almost superhuman endurance, and dash and daring enough to satisfy and fascinate the most exacting."—The Times, New York.

My Lady and Allan Darke.

By CHARLES DONNEL GIBSON.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Another novel by a new writer. A romance of the end of the last century. Stirring and dramatic, easily written. A fascinating picture, a wonderful story, cleverly told.

Hugh Gwyeth, A ROUNDHEAD CAVALIER.

By BEULAH MARIE DIX.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Written in a charming style, and to an unusual degree reflecting the life of Prince Rupert's time. Its atmosphere, its color and phrasing all belong to those great years in English history.

FIFTH EDITION, JUST READY.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS AND THEIR PEOPLE.

"Is highly interesting." A Record of Personal Observation and Experience, with a Short Summary of the History of the Archipelago. "Unusually valuable." By DEAN C. WORCESTER, Asst. Prof. of Zoology, Univ. of Mich., Member of the new Philippine Commission. With original illustrations and two maps. 8vo, Cloth, $4.00. Review of Reviews. "The only authoritative recently-written, first-hand account of actual conditions."—The Outlook.

Send for the Lists of Forthcoming Books and of Books Issued during 1898, by THE MACMILLAN COMPANY, 66 Fifth Avenue, New York.

New and Timely Publications.

A KEN OF KIPLING:

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF RUDYARD KIPLING.

By WILL M. CLEMENS. Containing an account of his career; an appreciation of his work in prose and verse; a specially interesting chapter on his religion as shown in his writings; some good anecdotes and illustrations; a bibliography of his writings; his famous interview with Mark Twain, and a reprint of some of his more famous poems. With a superb portrait in photogravure. Printed on Dickinson laid paper and appropriately bound in cloth, with decorative design. 12mo, 75 cents.

THE DOWNFALL OF THE DERVISHES.

By E. N. BENNETT, M.A., Special Correspondent of The Westminster Gazette; Lecturer at Oxford. With 4 maps and photogravure portrait of Gen. Lord Kitchener. Crown 8vo, $1.40.

Mr. Bennett accompanied the last expedition to the Soudan, which ended in the Battle of Omdurman, the capture of Khartoum, and the overthrow of the Mahdi. The author's charge that the wounded Dervishes were killed by the Sirdar's troops has excited all England, and has made the book a lively topic of discussion. The publishers are pleased to note an extraordinary demand for this book. Two editions have been entirely sold out in advance of publication, and the third edition is nearly gone.

DEADMAN'S:

A Romance of the Australian Gold Fields. By MARY GAUNT, author of "The Moving Finger," "Kirkham's Find." Crown 8vo, $1.50.

"Written with remarkable vigor and full of life and movement. The details of the story, carefully filled in, form one of the most vivid pictures of camp life this author has yet given us."—London Christian World.

DICKENS AND HIS ILLUSTRATORS.

By FREDERIC G. KITTON. Art canvas, bevelled boards, gilt top, thick demy 8vo, $12.00, net.

Containing 22 portraits and over 70 original drawings by Cruikshank, Seymour, Buss, "Phiz," Cattermole, Leech, Doyle, Stanfield, MacLise, Tenniel, Marcus Stone, Landseer, Luke Fildes, etc., now reproduced for the first time. Edition strictly limited.

AN ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF EDGAR ALLAN POE'S WORKS.

ARTHUR GORDON PYM, THE GOLD BUG, and THE MURDERS OF THE RUE MORGUE.

Illustrated by A. D. McCormick. Bound in ribbed silk cloth, richly decorated cover. 8vo, $1.50. Two volumes ready.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

By Sir CHAS. W. DILKE, author of "Greater Britain." Crown 8vo, $1.25.

An English statesman's summary of the present conditions of Queen Victoria's realms.

The N. Y. Herald in course of a page review, claiming for it "the book of the week," states: "Now at the age of 56, Sir Chas. Dilke publishes a new work on practically the same subject (Greater Britain), which may be looked upon as representing his matured opinions revised in the altered light of the present. As a rapid and succinct summary of the present status of the British Empire the book will prove invaluable to statesmen and historical and political students. It may be especially commended to the American people at a time when they are just beginning to wrestle with the great problems of Imperialism and Expansion, which England has so successfully mastered."

LOVE AND A SWORD.

A Tale of the Afridi War. By KENNEDY KING. Numerous illustrations by R. Caton Woodville, W. B. Wollen, and others. Crown 8vo, gilt edges, $1.50.

EXCAVATIONS AT JERUSALEM

Memories of an Old Collector.

By Count MICHAEL TYSKIEWICZ. Translated from the French by Mrs. Andrew Lang. With 9 plates. Crown 8vo, $1.75.

"... Full of interest to the lover of art, especially perhaps, to such as are at once connoisseur and plutocrat. M. de Tyskiewicz was, as is well known, a fortunate collector of the antique, and he tells most pleasant memories of his victories as well as of his occasional failures and mistakes. He is, too, very candid, and many of the secrets of that prison-house of aesthetic treasure, the British Museum, are laid bare for our edification."—Literature.

NOW READY.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain :

- (1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.
- (2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.
- (3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
- (4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890-95.

Half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

NEARLY READY.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

In Cuba With Shafter

By LIEUT.-COL. J. D. MILEY. With 10 portraits and with 4 maps from official sources. 12mo, $1.50.

Colonel Miley was General Shafter's Chief-of-Staff during the Santiago Campaign. His book is an authoritative description, from the headquarters point of view, of the difficulties and obstacles which the United States troops encountered and of how they were overcome. His narrative will undoubtedly be accepted as the authorized presentation of the campaign.

An Amateur Cracksman

By E. W. HORNING, author of "The Rogue's March," "Irralie's Bushranger," etc. 12mo, $1.25.

Raffles, the hero of Mr. Horning's new story, is the most fascinating rascal of modern fiction. A gentleman born and bred, he enters upon an astonishing career of crime, and his many adventures are described with infinite zest and delicious humor.

King Noanett

A Tale of Old Virginia and the Massachusetts Bay. By F. J. STIMSON. Fourth edition. With many illustrations. Square 12mo, $2.00.

Mr. Stimson's historical novel "King Noanett" has been acquired by Charles Scribner's Sons, who now issue the fourth edition, which contains four additional illustrations from landscape sketches of scenes described in the book.

First Lessons in Linear Perspective

STRONG HEARTS. By George W. Cable,

Author of "Old Creole Days," "The Grandissimes," etc. 12mo, $1.25.

In this book Mr. Cable returns to the field which gave him his best fame and his readers their greatest pleasure—New Orleans and its mingled races. These stories have all the charm of "Old Creole Days," while showing Mr. Cable's strength in an entirely new direction.

THE ORCHESTRA AND ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

By W. J. HENDERSON. (The Music Lover's Library.) With portraits and illustrations. 12mo, $1.25 net.

The first volume in the Music Lover's Library, a series designed for the amateur. The book is broad in scope and popular in character, dealing with the historical, biographical, anecdotal, and descriptive aspects of the subject as well as with its purely musical and æsthetic features.

MEZZOTINTS IN MODERN MUSIC.

By JAMES HUNEKER. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Hunecker's book treats of the modern masters of instrumental music—Brahms, Tschaiakowsky, Chopin, Richard Strauss, Liszt, and Wagner—in a manner that will be sure to attract wide attention. For his biographical studies are etched in deep and strong lines, while his analyses of the works of these composers go to the very heart of the subject.

THE BOOKS OF SAMUEL.

A Critical and Exegetical Commentary. By HENRY PRESERVED SMITH, D.D. (International Critical Commentary.) Crown 8vo, $3.00 net.

In this great Commentary have already appeared: "Deuteronomy," "Judges," "Romans," "St. Mark," "St. Luke," "Philipplians and Philemon," and "Ephesians and Colossians." Prof. Smith's volume on these important historical books of the Old Testament is fully up to the high standard already set in the series.

THE EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

The First Apology for Christianity. An Exegetical Study. By ALEXANDER B. BRUCE, D.D. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

The purpose of this work is to expound the Epistle to the Hebrews in relation to its leading idea or distinctive conception of the Christian religion. It is a companion volume to Professor Bruce's "Kingdom of God" and "St. Paul's Conception of Christianity."

THE FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

By F. J. SNELL. (Periods of European Literature. Edited by Professor Saintsbury.) 12mo, $1.50 net.

Mr. Snell's volume, which is the third to be issued in a series designed to cover all the great periods into which European literature naturally divides itself, gives a "bird's-eye view," as it were, of the achievements in literature in the fourteenth century.

SHORT HISTORIES.

A Short History of Spain. By MARY PLATT PARMELE. 16mo, 60 cents net.

ALREADY PUBLISHED:

A Short History of the United States.

A Short History of France.

A Short History of England.

A Short History of Germany.

The Review of Reviews, speaking of Mrs. Parmele's "Short History of the United States," says: "Its value does not lie in the multitude of facts which it contains, but rather in the lucid, natural way in which a few really important facts are presented and grouped, and in the stimulus which it imparts to a rational study of our country's history."

Red Rock.

By Thomas Nelson Page

Illustrated by B. West Clinedinst.

TWO OPINIONS.

IN AMERICA:

- "The foremost place among American novels of the season must be given to Mr. Page's 'Red Rock.' . . . When one has finished it he finds in his mind a living community of acting, breathing, and vital men and women, and that is saying that 'Red Rock' is the work of a man of genuine artistic power. It is a contribution to our literature because it is real, because it deals with a very dramatic period in American history."—The Outlook.

IN ENGLAND:

"One cannot read this novel without being deeply impressed with its sterling literary beauties and its human interest. It is tender, mellow, and sweet; exhaling the flavor of all that is best in American life."—The London Daily Mail.
